SEEK DEAD BANDIT AS CLEW

CHICAGO BETS OVER BILLION ON ITS FUTURE

Public and Private Projects Listed.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Commerce, the weekly publication of the Association of Commerce, will say today that Chicago "is spending $1,374,000,000 for a greater city" and is contemplating other projects which will call for an equally large sum.

The total of all projects, both public and private, which are under way or in contemplation, is $2,679,000,000, according to this weekly. It makes no prediction when the major part of these improvements will be completed.

The association recently ordered a tabulation of all the big Chicago projects and the figure given is the result.

Some Only in Prospect.

Some of these projects are in the stage of hope rather than expectancy. For example, one of the projects listed as "in a preliminary stage" is the purchase of the surface lines for $162,000,000 and another is the first period of construction in subways at an estimated cost of $217,800,000, and a third is the purchase of the elevated lines at a price of $86,000,000.

Still another is a "proposed federal building on the site of the present postoffice" at $15,000,000, in addition to a new postoffice—which there is a prospect of obtaining soon—at $10,000,000.

Still another in a similar class is the "Illiana harbor" at $350,000,000. One more is a new jail and county temple project at an estimated cost of $63,000,000.

The Association's publication, however, lists these projects among those in the "preliminary stage" and assumes that they may be brought about later.

"World's Third City."

"Chicago is the world's third city" says Commerce editorially, "and the manner of its building for tomorrow tells more convincingly than mere prophecy where it is headed."

This hopeful view runs through the article. A federal permit to straighten the river and the voters' approval June 2 of bond issues totaling $17,000,000 are said by Commerce to have set in motion preliminaries for actual work on three projects that probably will cost about $154,000,000—$59,000,000 directly and $95,000,000 indirectly.

It is pointed out that the South Water street improvement will cost $24,000,000 and a new produce market $10,000,000. The river straightening, it is asserted will hasten the solution of the south side terminal problem. To these, Commerce adds that Chicago also will have the largest convention hall in the United States.

Gives Huge Program.

The South Shore park and boulevard development and general park improvements are set down for $55,000,000. The Association of Commerce's "analysis showing work that is under way or soon to begin" follows:

MOTHER SLAYS SELF BECAUSE OF SON-IN-LAW

Said to have become enraged over her daughter's selection of a husband, Mrs. Anna Dovrak, 50 years old, 2314 Austin boulevard, Cicero, last night shot the girl in the left arm, then ended her life by firing a bullet into her brain. The affair occurred in the daughter's home at 1337 49th court, Cicero.

According to the Cicero police, the mother did not approve of Theodore Hansen, whom her daughter married. She failed in several attempts to dissuade her daughter from living with him, the police said. Last night the trio had dinner and the mother appeared in good spirits, but suddenly ran to her hand bag, drew out a revolver, fired. She then ran into the yard where she turned the weapon on herself.

Kidnap Chief of Socialists in Italy; Dead?

BY JOHN STORER.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ROME, June 13.—The kidnaping of Deputy Matteotti, Socialist leader who was spirited away Tuesday evening, today assumed grave proportions. Today's sitting of the chamber of deputies was most gloomy. The opposition groups decided to take no part in the session, which was held in the presence of the Fascist majority and Giolitti groups only.

Premier Mussolini said in a speech that he would order summary justice for the guilty, if found, should the chamber desire.

Carlo dei Croce, a blind, armless deputy, wearing the gold war medal, also spoke, saying the Fascisti sword would do justice.

No trace of Sig. Matteotti has been found, and it is feared generally that he has been assassinated.

Mussolini Up All Night.

Sig. Mussolini remained at Chigi palace until 4 o'clock this morning, keeping in close telephonic touch with the police of Rome, Milan, and Florence, in which cities arrests have already been made.

Six persons have been arrested, including Sig. Dumini, a Fascist and the proprietor of a garage. Sig. Matteotti was seized, gagged, and driven north of Rome towards some lonely spot. Rome police have just left in automobiles to investigate a report that he was assassinated near Lake Vico, 100 miles north of the city. An examination of an auto found near Lake Vico and believed to have carried the victim shows it must have made a long journey, owing to the damaged state of its tires.

Affair Creates Sensation.

The affair has created a sensation in the country, and nothing else is spoken of in Rome. One theory is that Sig. Matteotti was kidnaped because it was believed that he possessed documents of a financial character incriminating a highly placed person or persons.

MOTOR TROUBLE DELAYS SMITH IN INDO-CHINA

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

SHANGHAI, China, June 13.—According to reports received here this afternoon by the Standard Oil company of New York from its agent at Haiphong, Frencho Indo-China, the American round-the-world flyers left Haiphong at 10 o'clock on the morning of June 11, but only arrived at the town of Tourane.

Commander Lieut. Lowell Smith was forced to land on the coast between the towns of Hue and Tourane, Indo-China. The other flyers circled in the air over Lieut. Smith's plane for a time, but the lieutenant signaled that he was not hurt, so they proceeded to Tourane.

Later Lieut. Smith sent a messenger to Tourane by motor car over the military road skirting the coast, stating that his engine was completely disabled and requesting a new one. An American destroyer stationed at Saigon is reported to be rushing a new engine to the officer.

PRIDE IN TICKET GROWS AMONG G. O. P. LEADERS

See Dawes a Perfect Running Mate.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Cleveland, O., June 13.—[Special.]—Enthusiasm for the Coolidge and Dawes ticket was unmistakable today in the attitude of Republican leaders in and about the meeting of the new national committee, at which organization for the election campaign was begun.

William M. Butler of Massachusetts, manager of the Coolidge primary campaign and the choice of the President for manager of the election campaign, was elected chairman of the national committee. Three vice chairmen were chosen: Charles D. Hilles of New York, Ralph Williams of Oregon, and Mrs. Alvin T. Hert of Kentucky.

Roy O. West of Illinois was elected secretary and William V. Hodges, a Denver lawyer, treasurer.

The suggestion that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's nephew, a Pittsburgh banker, be made treasurer was rejected because of fears that the opposition would connect the campaign contributions of rich and influential Republicans with alleged favors by the treasury department.

"Economy" to Be Watchword.

Chicago will be the headquarters of the campaign committee and Mr. Butler will arrive there next Monday to open them.

Economy is to be the watchword in the Coolidge campaign, as in the Coolidge administration. The campaign fund is not to exceed $2,000,000, compared with the $7,000,000 which Chairman Will Hays expended on the Harding campaign in 1920.

A strong ticket, Coolidge and Dawes, was the verdict not only of the eastern conservatives but the western progressives, who jointly effected the choice of the Chicago banker as the nominee for Vice President in preference to Secretary of Commerce Hoover on the last ballot.

Ticket Frankly Conservative.

On every side was heard expression of satisfaction not only that the candidate for Vice President is a man of lively personality who will make a forceful appeal to the electorate but that he is a man of signal ability and fully qualified to function as President if he should be called upon to do so.

The ticket is frankly conservative and does not represent the end President Coolidge had in view in the selection of his runningmate. He wanted a progressive who would appeal strongly to the Republican liberals and radicals and the discontented farmers and workingmen who may bolt and support La Follette. His first choice for this rôle was Senator Borah [Idaho], his second Judge William S. Kenyon of Iowa, and his third Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

Revision of Plans Forced.

For one reason or another, however, the President was unable to carry out his plan of balancing his conservative end of the ticket with a progressive on the other end. The first choice of the convention from the start was Lowden, but Mr. Coolidge never was enthusiastic for Lowden.

The convention and the President could have agreed on Borah, but Borah would not take the place. Agreement on the other White House proposal was impossible. The Old Guard would have none of Kenyon or Hoover, and even the progressive west evinced no enthusiasm for either of them.

Politics Shows Strange Caprices.

The balloting shows that Dawes, conservative that he is, was overwhelmingly preferred by the progressive west to either Kenyon or Hoover. Western states for Dawes were Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming. For Hoover there were only California and Oregon, and for Kenyon Iowa and South Dakota.

Now, unless the delegates from the western states, where delegates are chosen directly by the people, are totally misrepresentative of Republican sentiment, Gen. Dawes, though a conservative, is more acceptable to that section than such progressives as Kenyon and Hoover.

While Gen. Dawes has not been identified with the solution of agrarian problems as Lowden, Kenyon, and Hoover have been, the party leaders believe he will propose remedies for agricultural depression that will command the support of all but the most radical farmers.

What Farmer Owes to Dawes.

"Gen. Dawes certainly ought to be a favorite with those farmers and

Dawes Drops Hint of Policy; Foe of 'Gab'

BY MORROW KRUM.

On Board the Dawes Private Car, en Route to Chicago, Mount Vernon, O., June 13.—[Special.]—Those who have considered the vice presidency a burial ground for political personages will receive some interesting surprises if Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes is sworn to that duty next March. There'll be no stalling in the senate, no rhetorical gilding of political lilies, if Dawes wields the gavel.

Those inferences are inspired by a fifty minute conversation with the President's running mate in the forthcoming campaign. They are drawn with the full knowledge that conclusions are taboo in the correspondent's primer.

This train is sweeping through the Ohio countryside. Between stations the general smokes his famous "upside-down" pipe and surveys the rolling hills where he and his brothers played in their youth.

Furnishes a Quotation.

He talks of the days in Marietta, where he went to school; tells stories on his traveling companions, and discusses the day's news—when it isn't political.

He is loath to discuss his nomination. He wants to delay his speeches until he has been officially informed of his nomination. Direct questions regarding the G. O. P., the Democrats, the Wisconsin situation, and other matters political only bring a smile.

"This country is not suffering from too little talk," he says. "There is a quotation for your paper. Do not amplify it."

It stands unamplified.

In that one statement is the keynote of the coming campaign, the correspondent infers; hence the conclusion regarding the forthcoming lack of senatorial oratory.

Carefully Avoids Politics.

At every stop crowds gathered around the rear platform. The general takes his pipe in his hand and descends the steps of the private car. He shakes hands all round, discusses the weather, smiles when the voices are raised in approval.

"I always knew we would have a President from Marietta," said a former resident of that city on the platform at Newark. The general shakes his hand but makes no comment.

At Malta five hundred persons crowded around the car. The applause brought the candidate to the platform. His eyes swept the village:

"Ah, this is familiar," he said. "My father was born over there not three hundred feet from this spot."

And so it goes. The train stops often, but no matter how enthusiastic the applause there is no comment upon the campaign.

His Reception at Marietta.

Marietta was the scene of a great ovation for the city's favorite son today. Four thousand people paraded to the old Dawes home. The candidate for vice president made a few remarks from the front porch.

"The placing of my name before the convention and the subsequent nomination were a complete surprise," Gen. Dawes said. "You have heard of the convention's actions, and you can easily understand that I did not expect the nomination. But it has come and I have gratefully accepted it, resolved that whatever it entails I will do my best."

That is the longest speech the general has made since the nomination. It is also the longest comment of any kind regarding the situation.

As It Looks to Mrs. Dawes.

Mrs. Dawes is accompanying the general to Chicago. She surveys the crowds with great interest.

"It's quite a task to jump from private life to public life over night," she said.

Tomorrow morning Gen. Dawes will meet many reporters in Chicago. He assures the correspondent that there will be no talking to them. The time has not come for the campaign. He will wait until the proper moment arrives and then the public may expect something worth while. Meanwhile no wasted words will be flung to the public.

"This country is not suffering from too little talk."

BIG WELCOME HOME TODAY.

Gen. Dawes will arrive in Chicago today.

His desk at the Central Trust company is piled high with messages from all parts of the country and from lands across the seas congratulating him on the honors his party has bestowed upon him.

His friends in Chicago and Evanston plan to give him a welcome reception.

Five Judges Executed by Russia for Taking Bribes

LENINGRAD, June 13.—[By the Associated Press]—Five of seventeen judges and former court officials convicted of bribery and corruption in connnection with the operation of the new economic policy, and sentenced to death, were executed today. The death sentences of the remaining twelve were commuted to various terms of imprisonment.

THINK MAIL ROBBER SLAIN AND CAST ASIDE

Big Man Hunt Covers Wide Range.

Somewhere in the more isolated and sparsely settled sections of Lake county, officials believe, lies hidden the body of a man whose discovery will lead to the arrest of the dozen daring bandits who held up the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul mail train late Thursday night and made away with a million dollars worth of loot.

The man being sought is the robber that was shot by his companions during the height of the attack when they mistook him for a mail clerk. When last seen, his limp and bleeding body was lying atop several registered mail sacks which his fellow bandits had just piled into one of four waiting automobiles.

Believe Wounds Fatal.

Detectives and postal inspectors believe the robber's wounds were fatal and that his body was dumped in some ravine or wooded culvert by the highwaymen as they fled. It is even suggested that they may have killed him rather than be burdened in their flight by a dangerously wounded man.

"If we find that body and identify it, we will soon have the bandits who robbed the train," said Larry Benson, chief of the railroad's police force, after several hours of futile search last night.

"Once he is identified, we can go over the police records and find out who his pals in crime have been. Arrests will follow in short order after that."

Fear He's Mutilated.

The searchers are fearful, however, that the bandits may have thwarted their efforts by mutilating their companion's features to such an extent that identification will be impossible. The fact that they were in such a hurry to get away from the scene of the holdup leads detectives to hope, however, that the robbers did not waste any time in mutilating the body.

Belief that the wounds of the fallen highwaymen were fatal is based on the story told by Steve R. Waite, engineer of the train. Waite, who was under guard while the forty-two registered mail pouches were being transferred from the coaches to the automobiles, saw the bandit fall with four bullet wounds in his head and body.

Find Pool of Blood.

Officials who arrived at the Buckley road crossing, some thirty-five miles north of Chicago, found a pool of blood beside the fence which parallels the right of way. It marked the spot where the bandit lay while his companions were completing their amazing holdup.

Throughout yesterday and last night several hundred deputy sheriffs, Chicago detectives and railroad police roamed Lake county in search of clews. Chief Benson and eight of his men, accompanied by Lieut. John Norton's squad from the detective bureau, spent twelve hours visiting farmhouses and homes within a radius of twelve miles. They were unable to find any one who had seen the bandit band escaping with their treasure.

Sweep Two Counties.

Fifty deputy sheriffs on motorcycles were sent out by Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman to search the roads of Cook and Lake counties. The men were given special jurisdiction to operate in the latter county.

The man hunt was in progress from Milwaukee down to Chicago. Hundreds of detectives and federal operatives were hunting through the summer cottage resorts of southern Wisconsin. It is their theory that the loot has been cached away in some secluded spot, there to remain until the search has quieted down.

Then the bandits will divide the rich spoils and make unobtrusive getaways, unless the posses beat them to it and come upon the hiding place. Authorities are confident that the stolen money and securities were not brought into Chicago or Milwaukee. The alarm was given too soon for that. All of the entries were under surveillance before the robbers could have reached the outskirts of the big towns.

Seize Suspects Here.

While the man hunt was on along the north shore, the Chicago police were making several arrests. Four Italians were arrested on suspicion, and late yesterday afternoon four squads of detectives under Capt. William Schoemaker raided Max Eisen's restaurant at 1045 West Roosevelt road and took fourteen men into custody.

Eisen's place is known to the police as a rendezvous of crooks and shady characters, who gather there to cook their jobs and discuss their "trade." An anonymous telephone call informed the detectives that some of the stolen mail sacks were stored there.

Prominent among those arrested were Dean O'Bannion, hero of many a shooting episode and beer deal; Earl Weiss, pal and lieutenant of O'Bannion's; and Louis Alterie, president of the Theatrical Janitors' union and a brother-in-law of Johnny Torrio, king of the beer runners.

Fail in Identification.

Attempts were made to have the fourteen suspects identified. James Sweeney and Sandy McRae, conductor and brakeman of the mail train, faced the prisoners at the detective bureau last night and shook their heads. A few hours later they were released.

Chief Postal Inspector A. E. Germer, Inspector William Fahey, and the small army of detectives who are aiding them have half a dozen clews to help them. There is a .44 caliber Smith & Wesson revolver, a bottle of nitroglycerine, another containing formaldehyde, a pair of goggles, and two gas masks—all found beside the right of way where the robbery occurred—and there is a ripped and empty mail sack which was picked up from the road near Crystal Lake, Ill.

Gas Masks Abandoned.

The gas masks were abandoned by the robbers, who had them in readiness to enter the mail cars after forcing the postal clerks out by throwing tear bombs through the window. The nitroglycerine was to be used, it is thought, in a last effort to blow the doors open if the gas bombs failed to work.

It was significant of the care with which the robbery was planned that the number on the revolver had been filed off, making tracing of ownership difficult. Detectives obtained several good finger print records from the fence along the right of way, however.

The extent of the loss is still unknown. The postal authorities here made a conservative report to Washington that only $100,000 worth of valuables had been taken. Last night, however, an official of the railroad declared that $3,000,000 is a much more likely figure.

Securities in Loot.

It is definitely known that $334,000 in money and securities was included in the loot. Brokers' tickers broadcast a list of stolen stock certificates with a total value of $109,830—the figures being based on yesterday's market prices—and brokers were warned not to purchase any of these certificates.

It was learned that at least $75,000 in currency had been shipped on the train from the local federal reserve bank, and Roy A. Young, governor of the federal reserve bank in Minneapolis, notified officials that $150,000 in Liberty bonds consigned to the Minnesota institution were among the missing.

Carried Big Shipment.

"That Thursday night mail train on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul carries the heaviest shipments of the week, and it was unusually large this time," an official stated.

"The registered mail pouches were loaded with money to meet the pay rolls throughout the northwest. They contained packages of currency and securities consigned to banks at several station between Chicago and the Pacific coast.

"I'm satisfied that this robbery was an inside job."

Postal inspectors and local detectives concurred with the railroad chief in this belief. The bandits showed considerable knowledge of the mail cars' contents and of their destination. The leader of the band, it was learned, made a specific demand for a certain pay roll shipment addressed to a Montana bank.

Try to Find Leak.

An intensive investigation has been started to determine where the information leaked. The mail clerks who rode with the registered pouches on the coaches, the train crew, and attaches of the federal reserve bank are to be closely questioned. Seventeen of the clerks were taken from the train yesterday when it pulled into St. Paul.

The circumstances of the robbery were such as to lead officials to believe that the same men who participated in the $300,000 Dearborn station job and the more recent mail holdups at Harvey and Indiana Harbor took part in the robbery Thursday night. Detective squads are out rounding up men who were under suspicion in the former jobs.

FIND RIFLED SACK.

Rockford, Ill., June 13.—Local police and authorities of Belvidere, near here, tonight redoubled efforts to get trace of Rondout mail robbers when discovery of a rifled mail bag between Belvidere and Crystal lake drew attention to the fact that in the last three mail robberies in this locality rifled mail bags were found in the vicinity of Belvidere.

Belvidere is almost due west of Rondout and through a concrete road to Rockford is a gateway to highway systems leading north into Wisconsin and west in the Mississippi bottoms, the latter a favorite hiding place for highway bandits who have been operating in this vicinity recently.

Surface Lines Announce Service Improvements

Service improvements on two routes, to become effective tomorrow morning, were announced yesterday by Guy A. Richardson, vice president of the Chicago Surface lines. A fourteen per cent increase—fifty-two round trips—is scheduled for the Irving Park boulevard line, while forty-eight new round trips are to be added to the 39th street extension between South Ashland and Western avenues.

Fire Destroys Old Hotel Closed by Judge Landis

Fire yesterday destroyed the old Tivolia hotel, 2503 South Michigan avenue, which had been closed by former Judge Landis. The fire was of unknown origin, the flames first being noticed on the sixth floor, but is believed to have been due to spontaneous combustion, there having been considerable rubbish in the untenanted building.

Parents Fear Daughters, 15 and 16, Are Kidnaped

Police were asked last night to search for two sisters, Evelyn Steger, 16, and Anna, 15, 1453 Larrabee street, who have been missing from their home since June 6, when they left for school. The parents of the girls expressed the fear that they may have been kidnaped.

HOLD WOMAN AS MEMBER OF GANG OF FUR THIEVES

Loot $750,000 in One Year, Report.

She said her name was Helen Wilson. Police said it wasn't; that she was one of the most adept fur thieves in the country, one of several who have cost Chicago furriers $750,000 in the last year.

"I'm Helen Wilson; that's all I'll tell you," she said defiantly to Assistant State's Attorney William McSwigin yesterday. Joseph A. Kleiner, furrier at 5058 Sheridan road, his wife, and I. C. Greenburg, secretary of the Associated Fur Industries of Chicago, made specific charges.

Mr. and Mrs. Kleiner said two stylishly gowned women entered the store Thursday evening and asked to be shown furs. They looked, talked, and departed without purchasing. Then the Kleiners looked, yelled "Stop!" and caught the two visitors as they reached the sidewalk.

Caught with Goods.

A choker fell from beneath the dress of one woman, and "Helen Wilson" had another beneath her coat, Kleiner said. At that moment a Studebaker automobile carrying a man and a boy about 4 years old drew up to the curb and, Kleiner related, his prisoner suddenly freed herself, leaped into the automobile, and was whisked away. Mrs. Kleiner retained her hold on the other woman.

Kleiner told the police the license number of the automobile was 105931. Records show this number was issued to Harry Schulman, 1121 Independence boulevard, for a Studebaker. Capt. Martin O'Malley of the Summerdale station said last night his men had been unable to locate Schulman.

Says Losses Are Huge.

Greenburg said all the big stores had suffered tremendous losses last year by fur shoplifters. Marshall Field & Co. lost a $25,000 chinchilla coat and another valued at $15,000, he said, while other loop stores had been robbed in the same manner, presumably by the same band. The total loss due to shoplifting of furs last winter amounts to well over three-fourths of a million dollars, he asserted.

An employe of C. Henning & Co., 108 N. State street, identified "Helen Wilson" as the one last seen with a $6,000 fur coat charged to "loss" last winter.

FORMER YANK LOSES COMMAND IN IRISH ARMY

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

DUBLIN, June 13.—President William T. Cosgrave admitted today that Gen. Prout, formerly of the American expeditionary forces, had been one of the officers demobilized. Gen. Mulcahy, former minister of defense, protested against Gen. Prout's demobilization after his splendid service during the last two years.

Deputy McGrath, former minister of commerce, suggested that the government's secret service ought to discover how the information about the recent changes in the army had leaked to the press instead of following him and his party about. President Cosgrave denied any knowledge of Mr. McGrath being shadowed.

$10 LEADS COPS TO ARREST OF MISSING MAN

His need for $10 yesterday trapped William Emerich, who two years ago embezzled $22,500 from the Fidelity Investment association, for whom he was a trusted clerk. He deserted his wife and child simultaneously with the discovery of his shortage.

Sergts. Frank Freemuth and Frank Malone, then assigned to the case, learned he had $10 on deposit at the Harris Trust bank and they asked the bank officials to watch this account.

For two years there was no trace of Emerich. Then came a letter from Washington, D. C., inclosing the pass book and asking the money be sent to general delivery there. Police got him when he called for the reply.

PRIDE IN TICKET GROWS AMONG G. O. P. LEADERS

Look for Dawes to Win the Farmers.

friends of the farmer who maintain that agricultural prosperity is dependent on the volume of farm products exported and that the volume of exports depends on the ability of Europe to buy," said a national committeeman from the corn belt. "Europe cannot buy largely till Europe gets on her feet, and if anything is going to put Europe on her feet it is going to be the reparations settlement worked out by the Dawes commission. In that particular it would seem that American agriculture is deeply indebted to Gen. Dawes."

Ticket Fits Coolidge Plans.

Organized labor has evinced antagonism to Dawes, asserting he is a friend of the open shop, but the G. O. P. leaders are not worrying about that.

"Less than 10 per cent of labor votes for the Republican ticket," said one leader. "The farmers are mainly with us; the working men mainly with the Democratic party."

No candidate for Vice President, it is further pointed out, could contribute so much as Gen. Dawes to the kind of campaign the President proposes to conduct.

Emphasis is to be laid on economy and retrenchment in government expenditure and the reduction of taxes so as to release capital to productive industry. Gen. Dawes, who put the national budget system into operation, reorganized the business system of the departments and introduced Uncle Sam to a balance sheet for the first time in his life, will be right at home in that field.

ELEANOR HARRIS MUST ANSWER TO FORGERY CHARGE

New York, June 13.—Mrs. Eleanor Elaine Lee Harris, charged with forgery in the second degree by her husband, Beverly D. Harris, was held for the grand jury in $1,000 bail tonight by Magistrate Charles A. Oberwager, sitting in night court. A bail bond was furnished by a surety company. Mrs. Harris was not present but was represented by her attorney.

Harris began an action in the Supreme court against Mrs. Harris in 1922 to annul his marriage with her on the ground of fraud and misrepresentation, and a jury rendered a verdict in his favor. Mrs. Harris sought a new trial based on a letter purporting to have been written by the husband on March 4, 1924, to another woman, which contained a vindication of the defendant. On submission of the letter Harris caused his wife's arrest on the charge of second degree forgery.

One handwriting expert said the letter in question was in Harris' handwriting.

"The Eye" Left Estate of $2,000,000 to Daughters

William A. Pinkerton, the famous detective, left an estate of $2,000,000, according to an inventory filed in probate court yesterday. About $400,000 is represented by a one-half interest in the Pinkerton National Detective agency. Most of the estate was bequeathed to his two daughters.

COOLIDGE SPEEDS BONUS WHEN HE COULD DELAY IT

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—[Special.]—President Coolidge, who vigorously opposed granting of a soldier bonus by congress, today formally ordered the plans for payment of it to be rushed ahead despite congress' failure to appropriate money for the preliminaries.

In a letter to Secretary of War Weeks, giving the orders, the President referred to his own opposition to the bonus, but declared the executive branch of the government now was under obligation to speed payment, rather than take advantage of technicalities to delay it.

Under the order, about $2,250,000 from present veterans' bureau funds will be taken for bonus work. It will be replaced when congress reconvenes in December.

This is about half of the amount actually needed and is expected to cover expenses only to December.

The President's View of It.

"The world war adjusted compensation act became a law over my protest," the President's letter said. "I am not willing, however, to let the administration of this law remain practically in abeyance until congress again convenes simply because I would be justified under existing conditions in so doing.

"Rather do I regard this law as imposing certain obligations on the executive branch of the government which do not permit of delay in performance.

"If this law is to be carried into effect so as to permit of the cash payments being made within a reasonable time after March 1, 1925, as contemplated by it, and if the other provisions of the law are to be given reasonably prompt administrative action, it is essential that the application forms and instructions pertaining thereto be placed in the hands of the veterans and dependents without delay.

Other Arrangements Ready.

"Arrangements have previously been made for the printing of these forms and they are now ready for distribution. It is equally as essential that when the completed applications are received from the beneficiaries of the law they be given the administrative action which the law prescribes.

"Otherwise your department will become the storehouse of millions of applications which can receive little or no attention until congress convenes next December and makes an appropriation of the funds necessary to give them administrative action. The same situation, though to a modified degree, will obtain in the navy department."

RYAN FREED IN 2D TRIAL FOR TIERNEY MURDER

Tried a second time on a charge of killing Timothy Tierney in a west side saloon in November, 1921, Frank J. Ryan, former police sergeant at the Brighton Park station, was acquitted last night after a jury had deliberated for ninety minutes.

Ryan testified that Tierney, who had been a Municipal court bailiff, insulted his sister. They battled in a barroom at 2601 West 50th street, and Ryan claims that his opponent was accidentally shot during the scuffle.

The former sergeant was convicted of manslaughter last year, but the Supreme court ordered him sent back for a new trial.

NOMINATION OF DAWES CAUSES STIR IN GERMANY

Marx Bloc Sees Help for Fair Play.

BY GEORGE SELDES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

BERLIN, June 13.—The nomination of Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes for the vice presidency is a big sensation in Germany, much more than the nomination of President Coolidge. The Berlin press and public consider both of them as practically elected. For this reason the naming of the Chicago banker who wrote the plan by which Germany will be bound for generations is received here with the greatest interest.

One wing of the Nationalists and the Fascisti political groups consider the nomination of Gen. Dawes as a direct slap at their reactionary monarchistic faces. After all the cursing and gnashing of teeth at beer hall meetings, at which they swore never to accept the Dawes plan, they find America honoring its creator, and feel that it is the strongest warning ever issued to Germany to accept or find America joined with France and England in reprisals to follow their non-acceptance. The Nationalist reactionaries see in Gen. Dawes' nomination an end of their resistance.

See Aid for Fair Play.

On the other hand, there is a big group of Liberal Republican Germans who see things differently. Hard as they consider the conditions of the Dawes proposal, they realize that the Dawes plan is a better and safer plan for Germany than any plan the entente might have made without American coöperation. In his elevation to a big political place in the American government they see Gen. Dawes using his influence for a fair carrying out of the experts' plan. Therefore, the bourgeoisie blocs, or parties composing the present government, which have favored acceptance continually, are pleased with the event.

Foreign Minister Stresemann's official organ tonight declares:

"If the Republican party remains in power, Germany must count on this—that the Coolidge government will feel compelled to stand unreservedly for all the conditions of the experts' report."

Expect U. S. Pressure.

And the Democratic organ, Vossische Zeitung, says:

"Gen. Dawes' candidacy is a great sensation in Germany. Many circles think men such as Prime Minister MacDonald and Gen. Dawes are pro-German because their politics are such that they can be pleasant toward Germany. These circles will say that because the Dawes report takes some consideration of Germany and contains parts favorable to Germany that Gen. Dawes when elected will use his whole influence to have his pro-German policy materialized. But the American Vice President cannot have a decisive or direct influence on the march of German affairs.

"Nevertheless, Gen. Dawes will use coercive measures or national pressure to get the report accepted generally. Gen. Dawes has a nation-wide reputation. He has also acquired international fame as an efficient, far sighted, and energetic man."

Pleases British Diplomats.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

LONDON, June 13.—The Republican nomination of Gen. Charles G. Dawes for Vice President is welcome news in diplomatic circles in England, where it is believed it will have the effect of adding weight to the Dawes report and discouraging opposition to its findings on the continent. Neither the French nor German statesmen are likely to oppose a plan bearing the name of the man who is likely to be the second figure in the next American administration.

NEW SOUTH SIDE MOTOR ARTERY LEADS TO LOOP

By October thousands of south side motorists who use Michigan avenue daily will have the service of a new traffic artery to the loop.

The one remaining obstacle—acquisition of the property at 23d street and South Park avenue, where the new boulevard will be carried over the Illinois Central railroad tracks—has been cleared away. South park commissioners have announced they have obtained the property by a settlement.

The new drive is at present in three sections. Extending from Garfield boulevard on the south to 35th street is Grand boulevard. From 35th to 23d streets it is known at present at South Park avenue. Here it crosses the railroad and connects with the drive in Grant park, which passes the new stadium and the Field museum and ends at Monroe street, where it will swing into Michigan avenue. At some points the drive is 198 feet wide.

The widening of South Park avenue is progressing rapidly, and one-half of the street from 35th to 33d is paved and available to motorists using Grand boulevard, making it possible to cross over to Michigan avenue at 33d street as before.

President Edward J. Kelly of the south park commissioners will welcome suggestions for a new name for the new south side link. Woodrow Wilson road and Burnham drive are some of the names that have been suggested to Mr. Kelly.

GREECE SEEKING A MUSSOLINI TO RESTORE NATION

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, June 13.—In view of the latest ministerial crisis a large part of Greek public opinion favors a strong man of the type of Premier Mussolini or Mustapha Kemal Pasha to take over the reins of the government.

Gen. Conditis, who resigned as minister of war, is considered to be the Greek leader most closely resembling these two. It is stated that if he formed a government he would apply the methods of Premier Mussolini in revivifying the patriotic ideals of the Greek people and purifying the administration by strengthening the national policy.

Gen. Conditis is warmly supported in many sections of the country. If he assumed power it would have a profound effect on the Balkan situation because he is known to be strongly nationalistic. Gen. Conditis, who may play the rôle of a Napoleon or Cromwell in Greece, began his career as a corporal in the army.

POLITICAL TRUCE NEAR ON FIGHT FOR JUDGESHIPS

Democrats and G. O. P. May Agree on 'Treaty.'

A political treaty that will place Frank Comerford and John J. Kelly, Democrats, on the Circuit and Superior court benches, respectively, and permit the Republicans to fill the De Young vacancy in the Superior court without opposition loomed as a possibility yesterday.

In these political maneuvers, by party leaders was seen a conscientious effort to keep the courts out of controversy.

Comerford and Kelly, elected June 2 to fill vacancies despite Governor Small's refusal to call a special election, have obtained certificates from County Clerk Sweitzer and presented themselves for assignment to cases and courtrooms.

Will Sit En Bloc.

With the validity of their election in dispute the judges of the two courts plan to sit en bloc to determine their attitude toward the situation confronting them.

Representatives of Comerford and Kelly contend that inasmuch as they have certificates of election and no litigation involving the dispute is officially before the courts it falls on the judges to perform only their ministerial duties by recognizing the two claimants as de facto judges at least.

Uphold De Facto Judges.

Supreme court opinions have been cited upholding the rulings and decisions of de facto judges, so the fear that any cases heard by Comerford and Kelly might be thrown out as mistrials later is groundless, attorneys for the Democrats contend. Thus the two claimants would be permitted to sit as full-fledged judges for the remainder of their terms or until such time as actual litigation to stop their salaries or question their authority might be instituted.

Through a treaty permitting the Republicans to fill the vacancy caused by the elevation of Superior Judge Frederic R. De Young to the Supreme court, the political incentive for attempting to keep Kelly and Comerford off the bench would be removed, and the courts themselves would be taken out of political controversy.

DAWES MAN OF MANY TALENTS, KINDLY NATURE

Helps Poor Without Prying; Proud of Pipe.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

There is a submerged side in the makeup of Brig. Gen. Charles Gates Dawes, Republican candidate for Vice President, which received little consideration and no emphasis in the sketches printed in the newspapers yesterday.

Those told of the influential banker, the former controller of the currency, the political organizer of twenty-four years ago, the developer of the economic plan to restore Europe, the maker of the first federal budget, the lawyer and pioneer manufacturer of gas, and the purchasing agent of the American army. All this refers to the mental ability of Mr. Dawes—his keenness of intelligence, soundness of judgment, and the energy of his brain.

What Touched Dawes' Heart.

Mr. Dawes, however, has a heart as well as a head. He is not given entirely to cold calculations which mean success in large modern business.

The Sunday after the armistice was signed the Alsatians in Paris had a parade from the Arch of Triumph down the boulevard to the Place de la Concorde.

The allies had won. The Alsatians were anticipating going back to their former homes, which they had left more than forty years before, when that territory was ceded to Germany after the Franco-Prussian war. It was their joyous day. Gen. Dawes had an office on the boulevard and invited me to view the parade from an upper window. One-armed and one-legged men were numerous, but there were more women than men among the marchers. Nearly every woman, whether old, young, or middle-aged, was dressed in a dark dress, some in mourning.

"The women in black——" the general remarked after the first fifteen minutes of the parade."

"The women in black," commented Gen. Dawes a little later. "Doesn't it cut clear into you?"

Watches Rest of Parade.

Gen. Dawes stepped inside, wiped his eyes, pretended that the grate fire needed fixing up, and busied himself a few minutes with it.

Then Gen. Dawes watched the parade until it was finished. As we stepped inside the room he again remarked, "I'll never forget those women in black."

There was another occasion. The last time save one that I was sent to interview him was in regard to the three hotels he has established and operates for the benefit of destitute men and women. He was willing to talk about anything except his philanthropies. He had bought two days before a queer shaped pipe which since has become famous as his "bulldog pipe."

Mr. Dawes began a eulogy of his new pipe, giving as further evidence a testimonial from another banker to whom he had given a similar one that morning. He offered me one, and it was accepted, but he declined to shout about his charities from the housetops.

The first of his hotels was established as a memorial to his only son, Rufus Fearing Dawes, who was drowned in Lake Geneva on Sept. 5, 1912.

The Nature of Young Dawes.

The son was 21 years old and a junior at Princeton university. He had been training himself for the work he hoped some day to take up—the continuance of his father's labors.

To that end he had devoted his vacations to hard work. During one vacation he was in an engineering camp in South Dakota when the remainder of the party became infected with malignant typhoid. Young Rufus had stayed and helped as a nurse until he himself collapsed.

From that summer's earnings the boy saved $80 and the following Christmas spent $20 of it in baskets for the poor which he delivered personally. For several years the young man taught a Bible class at Bethesda mission and was active in the work of the Y. M. C. A. Another vacation he spent in a gas house in Seattle, another with a wholesale plumbing firm at $60 a month. His last job was in the Heights gas laboratory, taking off the last two weeks for recreation. It was during this fortnight that he was drowned.

No Reminder of Charity.

It was in memory of such a boy that Gen. Dawes erected and operates the Rufus F. Dawes Hotel for Destitute Men on the west side. There is no charitable atmosphere, however, about the hotel—nothing to remind those who go there that they are dependent on another's bounty for their refuge.

The hotel sprang into popularity the night it was opened—Jan. 1, 1914—and its popularity has grown so steadily since that it is well known from coast to coast. Beds are a nickel and a dime over there, and the meals served run less than 7 cents each. It has beds for about 500, and the first four months of its operation 74,161 guests were accommodated.

There is only one thing about the hotel that Gen. Dawes will talk about. Always for publication he insists that it shall not be referred to as a charity institution, and that no one on earth shall meddle with the private affairs of his guests.

After the Rufus F. Dawes hotel in Chicago became well established, another hotel of the same name and purpose was started in Boston. That was opened Jan. 7, 1916. Then followed the Mary Dawes hotel for women in Chicago, a tribute to the mother of Gen. Dawes. That hotel was opened Feb. 17, 1917.

Put on Human Basis.

To obviate wrong impressions from prospective guests, Gen. Dawes and his brother, Henry M. Dawes, associated with him in this undertaking, wrote a letter to the manager and employés in which he said:

"We are simply hotelkeepers, and the Mary Dawes hotel is nothing but a hotel run as a first class, respectable place, differing from other first class hotels only in its cheaper prices. We let our guests pay for our service. We assume no right as hotelkeepers to inquire into their private affairs.

"There is nothing in the fact that one becomes our paying guest, either in our hotels for men or for women, which should subject him or her to any other restrictions than if a larger rate per day were being charged.

"We wish to assure our patrons that so long as they are orderly and deport themselves properly while in our hotels, their independence will not be interfered with, nor will they be affronted with unasked advice or interference with their private affairs. At the Rufus Dawes hotels at Boston and Chicago in the last three years we have registered and cared for over 500,000 guests and we claim that at no hotel charging 50 times their rates is better order observed or greater appreciation of the rights of others shown by guests."

No Chance for Thefts.

In The Rufus F. Dawes hotel in Chicago, no guest goes to bed without first taking a bath. When eleven o'clock arrives, the hour of closing the hotel for the night, every guest puts his clothes in a locker and retains the key. In each locker are night clothes and a towel. When the guest has had his shower he goes to bed.

Then the locker room is sealed and its contents are fumigated. This is possible without removing the clothes from the lockers, as the lockers have large perforations in the front and rear and a heavy exhauster draws the fumes through the clothes. Then a current of fresh air is forced through the room and thoroughly removes the disagreeable odors of the disinfectants.

Everything in the dormitories is fire proof, except the bedding. The cafeteria prices range from 5 cents down. In addition a free employment agency is maintained, where usually 2,500 jobs are procured annually.

Rooms in the Mary Dawes hotel run from 10 cents for those with windows on the court to 30 cents for larger outside rooms. On the Rufus Dawes hotel in Chicago there was originally spent $100,735. The Boston hotel investment was $131,959, and the Mary Dawes hotel $155,090. This "investment" is what Gen. Dawes calls his philanthropies.

Each of his hotels has a large fireplace. The general firmly believes in cheer and warmth, clean beds and hot food.

Service Family Trait.

The idea of service runs back through the ancestors of the candidate for Vice President. It seems to have been a family principle, dating from William Dawes, first American ancestor, who came from Sudbury, England, to America in 1628. That group of Puritans founded Boston and Salem. A descendant known as "William Dawes the patriot," born in 1745, rode as a companion of Paul Revere in the latter's famous ride to call the patriots to arms. While all are familiar with the poem called "Paul Revere's Ride," few know of one celebrating the ride of Dawes, as it calls attention to the poetic difficulties that name presents. As I recall, that poem is "But His Name Was Dawes."

The public of today, however, is now concerned with the exact kind of man who has been nominated for the second place on the Republican ticket.

Adopts Two Children.

One of the subjects about which he also does not talk for publication is Dana and Virginia Dawes, two adopted children. They were taken into the Dawes household when less than two months old, after Rufus F. had been drowned. The boy is about 12 years old and the girl younger.

Nor does Gen. Dawes say much about his writing his "Melody in A Major" about ten years ago. It attracted the attention of Fritz Kreisler, famous violinist, who wrote an obligato for it and played it freqeuently. Dawes also is a lawyer and an expert on public utilities.

Orders Ex-Broker to Prison Last Day on Local Bench

Judge Frederic R. De Young, recently elevated to the Illinois Supreme court, performed his last official act as a judge of the Superior court yesterday afternoon when he sentenced Simon T. Schrager, former La Salle street broker, to the penitentiary for a term of from one to ten years for converting to his own use $35,000 worth of bonds in a local taxicab company, the property of Mrs. Minnie Arnold.

MR. HULL SCANS G. O. P. 'CESSPOOL AT CLEVELAND'

'Graft and Rapine' to Democratic Leader.

New York, June 13.—Cordell Hull of Tennessee, chairman of the national Democratic committee, today issued this formal statement concerning the Republican convention, just concluded at Cleveland:

"The Republican convention seemed mighty lucky in being able finally, after much dodging, ducking, and declining by those to whom offers were made, to find any person who would accept the vice presidential nomination. No party in the past has ever reached such an ebb that a nomination for Vice President has been declined after it was already made, with one exception, and that was under a misapprehension.

"This unique convention experience was a further reflection of the 'leadership' of President Coolidge following his ten months' record of 'masterly leadership' of his party and his congress at Washington.

Campaign to Show——

"This campaign will demonstrate whether a political party can live or ought to live after having dragged the government through a bottomless cesspool of corruption and left in its trail conditions of debauchery and scandal on a scale unrivaled in the nation's history, as during the last three and one-half years of the Harding-Coolidge administration.

"It is hypocritical folly to talk about giving the people any sort of decent government during the next four years unless wholesale corruption in many government departments is first removed and public morals and official honesty are restored at Washington.

"Instead of frankly confessing and abjectly apologising for the Republican record of graft, bribery, and rapine during the present administration, the Cleveland convention cheered loudest when the patriotic Democratic senators who exposed Republican corruption were denounced by Mondell and others as character assassins and scandal mongers.

"Old Guard a Menace."

"From the gentle, not to say sympathetic, manner in which the Republican convention dealt with them and their infamous conduct, an uninformed person might easily conclude that Newberry, Fall, Daugherty, Forbes and their associates were persons of the highest probity, and that Senator Walsh and others who exposed wholesale crimes were the real criminals. The old guard, special-interest element of the Republican party, cannot purge or reform itself. It today constitutes the chief menace to honest and representative government and should be destroyed.

"Welcome for Democracy."

"The Republican platform, like that of 1920, facing in many directions and notable for its hypocrisy and false pretense, is only intended to last until the November election. After all the noise, paid propaganda, and horseplay of the last six months about the Mellon tax proposals, the Republican platform dared not even mention Mellon's name, much less his tax proposals. This repudiation was in effect an indorsement of the Democratic tax reduction measure.

"The nation, sick and disgusted at the Republican incompetence, failure, and corruption during the past three years, will now welcome a typical Democratic administration of honesty, efficiency, and constructive achievement."

Dies After Taking Dose of Throat Medicine

John Santomauro, 26 years old, a bridegroom of two weeks, died yesterday in his home at 355 Locust street an hour after he had taken some medicine prescribed for an ailment of his throat. The physician who prescribed the medicine refused to sign a death certificate, and an inquest will be held today.

COOLIDGE "PLEASED" BY DAWES; LAUGHS AT SCRIBES' "SURPRISE"

Washington, D. C., June 13.—[Special.]—The President of the United States, who has a reputation of seldom smiling, today, in the short space of thirty seconds, broke into a broad smile, then a huge grin, and finally hearty laughter.

The smile came when reporters sought, through the official White House spokesman, the President's views on the Republican platform. Mr. Coolidge was officially reported as being "extremely satisfied."

Then a word on Charles G. Dawes was sought. The spokesman reported that the President, his face a broad grin, was "greatly pleased."

And, when reporters personally congratulated Mr. Coolidge on his nomination, saying they were pleasantly surprised," there was a real laugh.

The President, it was said, expects that he will be formally notified of his nomination the latter part of July. He reiterated his intention of remaining in Washington through the campaign, but gave a hint of a possible short vacation later on.

FARMERS "FOR" DAWES, REPORT TO G. O. P. HERE

But Thompson Doesn't Think Much of Ticket.

BY FRANK BUTZOW.

Political speculators sat back yesterday to wait for the reaction to the nomination of the Coolidge-Dawes ticket.

"How will it 'take' with the farmers?"

"What will be the result in Illinois?"

Those were two of numerous questions asked and they both found answers on the first day following the Republican national convention.

An answer to the first came in from rural Illinois. C. R. Pendarvis a prominent farmer of Henderson county, unloading a shipment of cattle at the Union stock yards, said the farmers want a man like Dawes.

What Big Bill Thinks.

The words of William Hale Thompson, former mayor of Chicago, were quoted as one answer to the question concerning the situation in Illinois. Thompson thinks little of the nomination of Dawes and less of the G. O. P. platform adopted at Cleveland. He is already looked upon as a probable supporter of La Follette, whose independent candidacy comes nearer to an actuality as a result of the happenings at Cleveland.

But to return to Mr. Pendarvis of Henderson county. This is what he said for the benefit of the eager ears of politicians of all varieties:

"Gen. Dawes has won the respect and caught the vision of the great agricultural population of this country as no other candidate mentioned before the convention. They believe in him because he is a man of action and not of visionary theories; because he thinks clearly and hits quickly, straight from the shoulder.

Want Fact, Not Theory.

"The men behind the plows have little faith in the multitude of theoretical plans proposed in congress for the relief of agriculture, but do believe that Gen. Dawes' plan for the rehabilitation of Europe will broaden the demand for their products. They also know that his work in establishing the national budget system has started a nation-wide movement toward curtailing government expenses and the lowering of taxation. The farmers of this nation ask no sympathy. They need and will appreciate lower taxes and a broader outlet for the products of the soil. Gen. Dawes will have the support of the men and women of the farm."

Thompson says the nomination of Dawes and platform are fine for Wall street and the King of England but offer little encouragement to "John Citizen and his wife Mary."

Small Will Be "Regular"

Small will attempt to appear "regular" in the coming campaign, it is predicted, in the hope of getting the regular Republican vote. He will attempt also to keep on good terms with the La Follette supporters and thus try to carry water on both shoulders. Politicians of all shades agree in these predictions.

But what of Thompson? Will he use La Follette's candidacy as an avenue of escape from supporting Small when the expected happens—the governor's selection of Fred Lundin with whom the former mayor is now at outs, as the state machine's Chicago viceroy?

'INSURGENT BOB' SILENT ON G. O. P.; DEMOCRATS ROAR

Glass Suggests N. Y. Platform.

BY DONALD EWING.

Washington, D. C., June 13.—[Special.]—From La Follette headquarters there was nothing but silence today as to the Republican convention, but from the Democratic side there was a fair sized roar.

Senator La Follette's headquarters declined to discuss anything dealing with politics, but some of his close friends intimated that "Insurgent Bob" would have plenty to say in due time and that it would be said in the usual way—a formal statement. La Follette himself is out of the city.

Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, Wilson's secretary of the treasury and somewhat mentioned as a presidential possibility, was the Democratic lion. He termed the Republican platform a typical "G. O. P. do nothing affair," and then presented his own ideas of what the Democratic platform will be. In 1920 he virtually wrote the Democratic platform.

Glass' Idea of Platform.

Foremost in the Jeffersonian pronouncement, Senator Glass believes, should be a vigorous denunciation of the administration, with the various scandal investigations as the means of denunciation. President Coolidge, he thinks, should be well berated for his letter to congress objecting to the proposed prohibition inquiry and for generally attempting to "block senate investigations."

"We arraign the Republican party," the Glass platform says, "for intercepting at every step the due processes of inquiry into official delinquencies and for its persistent attempts, executive and legislative, to impede, if not entirely frustrate, the investigations to which in the beginning Republican leaders assented, but later regarded with dismay."

Planks on Scandals.

Another section goes at length into the oil scandal and the forcing out of office of Harry M. Daugherty as attorney general and Edwin Denby as secretary of the navy. The veterans' bureau scandal under Col. Charles Forbes is duly recited and, obviously referring to the Wheeler indictment, it continues:

"Never before in the history of our country was the spectacle presented of a department of the federal government, in conjunction with the executive officials of a political party, attempting through the forms of law and by subornation of perjury to blackmail committees of the United States senate into silence by deliberately seeking to despoil reputations of their aggressive members."

Hints at "Crimes Concealed."

Touching further on investigations it says there is a "national suspicion that there yet may be crimes concealed."

It terms the new tax law a "Democratic measure benefiting more than 6,000,000 tax payers," and urges American entrance into not only the Harding-Coolidge-Hughes world court, but also the league of nations.

"Bungling diplomacy" and "executive timidity" are attacked as responsible for Japanese exclusion troubles.

The "Wilson spirit" is duly lauded as a Democratic principle.

What Other Democrats Think.

Here are some comments from Democratic leaders in congress.

SENATOR ROBINSON [Ark.] senate minority leader—The Republican platform is unnecessarily prolix, lacking frankness and sincerity. It forecasts defeat for Coolidge and Dawes.

REPRESENTATIVE GARRETT [Tenn.], house minority leader—No Democrat could have hoped for the Cleveland convention to do worse.

DAVIS PRAISES COOLIDGE-DAWES TICKET, PLATFORM

Labor Secretary Predicts Business Backing.

Business and industry will be restored to confidence and equilibrium by the Coolidge-Dawes ticket and the platform adopted at the Republican national convention at Cleveland, James J. Davis, secretary of labor, declared here yesterday.

Secretary Davis spoke before the National Hardwood Lumber association at the Congress hotel. In expressing high praise for the candidates and platform he declared tax reduction is the nation's most important need.

Raps Failure to Vote.

Slacker voters, the millions who fail to go to the polls, drew the labor secretary's fire. Such persons are not true Americans, he declared.

"In the presidential election of 1920 only 27,000,000 out of a possible 54,000,000 voters registered at the polls," he said. He urged both parties to organize for a full vote next November.

Praises G. O. P. Platform.

"The platform is good for labor, business, and the country as a whole," said Secretary Davis, turning again to the Cleveland convention. "It is a genuine platform and does not cater to any group in particular, but to the welfare of the country in general. The ticket will give confidence to business men and will restore prosperous conditions, which are now admittedly undergoing a somewhat slack period.

"There is no question in my mind but that this confidence in the ticket of the Republican party will be largely influential in bringing prosperity back to the country and its industries.

"High taxes," he declared, "stamp out individual initiative and the loss of individual initiative means a backward step for the country."

DOG DIES IN WEST; SENT TO ILLINOIS TO BE BURIED

Jacksonville, Ill., June 13.—The body of a dog, embalmed and in a regulation casket, arrived here from California today via the Chicago and Alton railroad. The casket with its contents was billed to W. I. Crabtree and was sent from Earl N. Epler in San Diego, Calif.

"The dog died in the west a few days ago. He was for many years a pet in the family of Mr. Epler. He was about thirteen years old. His master took him to California on a previous trip and returned safely. However, the last trip to the west proved too much for the family pet at his advanced age and death was the result.

Mr. Crabtree recently received a telegram from Mr. Epler stating that the dog had died and that he was shipping the remains back home for burial.

NAVY LAUNCHES PROBE OF BLAST ON MISSISSIPPI

Third Charge Taken from Turret Where 48 Died.

San Pedro, Cal., June 13.—[By the Associated Press.]—Cold, scientific investigation in the quiet of the wardroom of the U. S. S. Mississippi today replaced the tumult of death that yesterday cut down three officers and forty-five men of the United States navy in gun turret number 2 of the battleship, seriously injured five men, and less dangerously hurt seven others.

Grouped about the green topped table, an admiral, two captains, and two gunery experts sought the cause of the tragedy, which, if uncetermined, again might take toll of the men who work the guns.

Tonight no conclusions had been reached. The facts remained as they were yesterday when the Mississippi headed at full speed for port with her dead and injured.

None Permitted on Ship.

The Mississippi herself tonight was like a quarantined ship, isolated from her sisters in battleship row, approachable to none but those with official business aboard, and holding all her own company from contact with shore or other craft.

The great, gray giant of battle was a thing of mystery, almost of suspicion. Her seared turret held a secret, and until the five members of the board of inquiry solved it, she was taboo, a craft apart.

Her fatal turret today was jammed tight by the heat that accompanied the explosion, and all day her mechanics worked over the spot where their mates yesterday were swept to death by the blast of T. N. T.

Just a "Little" Explosion.

And it was such a little blast compared to the loss of life and injury it caused, according to at least one man who was there in the turret and who lived to speak of it, Boatswain Mate R. J. Macavin of San Francisco.

"Just a small explosion like a match being touched to a pile of celluloid," said Macavin. "Just a puff, then a little flame, then a bigger one like a continuous streak of lightning with hot, suffocating smoke."

Those two score words were the story of the passing of more than two score men.

All through the night the menace of another coup of death hung over the Mississippi. Today it was removed when her crew was able to pull the last gun charge from the big fourteen-inch rifle, that can blow an ordinary vessel out of the water at ten miles.

Last night this charge still lay in the gun, locked alone in the turret, and the ship went to anchor outside the breakwater lest a fatal chance might touch it off to wreck the crowded shore line or other craft in port.

The following list of forty-eight known dead was given out by navy officials:

Captain Tells of Scene.

How the plight of the men in turret number two became known to him and others aboard ship was vividly described by Capt. Brotherton of the Mississippi.

"We had made a rehearsal run," he said, "and we then commenced firing.

"We were proceeding without difficulty. I was in the conning-tower when we received the signal to make battle formation. I was not watching the salvos closely, as the ship was turning. Just as we completed the turn I noticed number two turret fire. I don't know how many guns. In five or ten seconds number two fired again, and she seemed to fire on time.

Smoke From Turret.

"Then I noticed brown smoke coming out of the periscope holes and from between the turret and the barbette.

"The navigator called to me: 'It looks like fire in number 2.'

"We had received no word over the phones up to that time, but just then Chief Quartermaster C. O. Martin called: 'Fire in Number 2, Sir.'

"In the meantime the salvos from the other guns were continuing. I immediately gave orders to haul out of the column and halt the ship. We sounded fire quarters and cut all electric power. I got out of the conning tower.

Flooded Magazines.

"I then saw the fire was serious and ordered flooding the magazines.

"The turret continued to turn slowly to port and came around to extreme astern to stop. We attempted to get into the turret from below and from hatches in the rear, but powder fumes made it impossible.

"About this time the powder fumes began to slow down and white smoke came out of the cracks. Men with masks and oxygen tanks got forward and attempted to open the hatches. They succeeded after one hour, and rescuers entered but could not remain inside on account of the gas.

"The division commander then ordered the ship to return to base. On the way back some of the bodies in the turret were removed. After we had anchored and Admiral V. V. Pratt came on board I was talking with him when one of the guns in No. 2 turret fired; from what cause I am unable to say. This was while bodies were being removed to the hospital ship."

Officers killed in the explosion were Lieut. T. E. Zellers, Long Beach, Cal.; Ensign W. G. McCrea, Renova, Pa., and Ensign M. Erwin Jr., Asheville, N. C. The death list included Frank L. Klonowski of Blue Island, Ill.

Among the twelve men injured are: W. B. Smith, seaman first class; burns face, right forearm and arm; condition favorable; Buckner, Ill.; and R. J. Maurod, seaman second class; contused wound and abrasions right forearm; condition favorable; 2219 Grant avenue, Rockford, Ill.

Probe to Be Open.

Washington, D. C., June 13.—Secretary Wilbur declared today that a "very careful examination" by a naval court of inquiry will be required before any official explanation of the turret explosion on board the battleship Mississippi can be made. He said the investigation would be open.

The cause of the disaster may be difficult to determine, the secretary said, as many of those who would have been able to give the facts were killed.

A message of sympathy was dispatched by Mr. Wilbur to the captains, officers, and crews of the battleships Mississippi and New Mexico, the latter included because several of her men were on the Mississippi at the time of the explosion.

GIVEN DIPLOMA 46 YEARS AFTER HIS CLASSMATES

Beloit, Wis., June 13.—[Special.]—Forty-six years after his classmates have received their diplomas from Beloit college, Malcolm Gardener of Delavan, Wis., will be given his sheepskin next Monday at the regular commencement of the class of 1924. He is a nationally known authority on cattle breeding and president of the National Association of Holstein Breeders.

Mr. Gardener had almost completed his course at Beloit when failing health forced him to discontinue his college work in 1878.

College authorities state that Mr. Gardener has gone far beyond B. A. requirements since leaving Beloit.

FOIL SUICIDE ATTEMPT.

Policemen Kerwin and Rafferty of the Chicago avenue station yesterday broke into a house at 433 West Chicago avenue in time to save the life of Mrs. Anna Gambella, 40 years old, who had tried to commit suicide by gas, asphyxiation.

FOUR BOYS DIE BENEATH WHEELS OF AUTOMOBILES

County's Death Toll Since Jan. 1 Is 269.

Four small boys were fatally injured by automobiles while playing yesterday. Their deaths raised the Cook county motor toll to 269 victims since Jan. 1.

Three year old Francis Phelan, 1932 Grace street, was riding about in his kiddie car in front of the North Robey street police station. The patrol automobile backed out and crushed the boy. He died before sorrowing policemen—all friends of Francis—could rush him to a hospital.

Ice Hunger Fatal.

Five year old McKinley Shields, 7552 Evans avenue, was instantly killed when he jumped from the rear step of an ice wagon directly in front of an automobile driven by Louis Cipenka of 847 East 73d street. The boy had climbed on the wagon to get a piece of ice at 76th street, near Langley avenue.

Edward Kamis, also 3, was struck as he was playing in an alley at the rear of his home at 4055 Kenmore avenue. He died several hours later at the American hospital.

Another 3-Year-Old.

While running across the street in front of his home, George Madden, 2, 726 East 88th street, was struck and fatally injured by an automobile driven by John Payton, 1524 East 74th street. The boy died soon afterward. Payton was taken into custody and later released on bonds after having been booked on a charge of assault with an automobile.

Edward Dole, 28, 1925 Larrabee street, was sentenced to twenty days in the house of correction and fined $100 and costs by Judge Asa G. Adams in Speeders' court. He was charged with driving while intoxicated, and with a deadly assault. Milton Perkinson, 5200 Lincoln avenue, testified Dole's automobile crashed into his car Thursday night.

Mr. Whitty is past president of the Chicago Association of Credit Men, of which he is now a member of the board of directors. He is one of the founders of the National System of Credit Exchanges and was formerly chairman of the national executive committee on credit interchange.

W. B. MANN SEEKS CUSTODY OF SON FROM EX-WIFE

Siege was laid yesterday by William B. Mann, attorney of Lake Forest, on the "Gold Coast" home at 1507 North Dearborn of his former wife, Julie Manierre Mann, a prominent singer and society woman, from whom he seeks custody of their son, William B. Jr., 6 years old.

After Judge Claire C. Edwards in Waukegan had issued a writ of habeas corpus, directed against Mrs. Mann and the boy's nurse, Mann and a deputy sheriff sought to serve it at once at Mrs. Mann's home. When he was told that neither his former wife nor his son were at home he assigned detectives to watch the home constantly.

Mann charged a provision of the divorce decree, awarded him last fall, in which he was given permission to visit his son occasionally, had been violated by his wife. The divorce came by agreement, just as both Mann and his wife were promising sensational charges that "would rock society."

Who Was W. R. Anderson? Coroner and Friends Ask

In life he was W. R. Anderson, somewhat of a puzzle to his friends and acquaintances. In death he is more of a puzzle to the police and coroner's deputies who know his name and nothing else about him.

He fell dead yesterday afternoon in front of 933 Gait avenue. His age was estimated at 50, his address was not learned. R. M. Kenny, 10 East Ontario street, said he had known Anderson for twenty years and said he received his mail at general delivery.

It was believed he owned property and had money in banks, but where to find either or how to locate possible relatives was what authorities were trying to do.

FRENCH "LEFT" BEATEN IN RACE FOR PRESIDENT

Doumergue Is Elected by Poincare Coup.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

VERSAILLES, June 13.—Gaston Doumergue, president of the senate, this afternoon was elected president of the republic of France. He received 515 votes, while Paul Painleve, who was recently elected president of the chamber of deputies and the left bloc's official candidate, got 310 ballots.

There were 561 senators and deputies present and the majority necessary for election required 432 votes to win. The communists were solid for their leader, M. Camelinat.

Victory for Poincare Faction.

M. Doumergue's election marks a victory for the old national bloc, which was defeated at the elections on May 11. Both former Premier Poincare and former President Millerand were forced to resign because they championed the national bloc's cause. However, with M. Doumergue as the president of the republic, it is believed certain that M. Poincare will be elected president of the senate to succeed him, and M. Millerand will become a deputy and leader of the national bloc in the chamber, thereby putting them in powerful positions in parliament.

While the national bloc members shouted and cheered over the victory, the left parties were aroused to wildest indignation. M. Painleve began accusing M. Doumergue of treachery and openly shouted that he would be forced to resign within a fortnight, and that another presidential election is inevitable, at which the radicals will elect their man.

Herriot to Accept Premiership.

During the election, as indications showed that M. Doumergue would be elected, M. Herriot's lieutenants issued the following statement:

"The intention of the leader of the radical socialist and socialist parties has been garbled in published accounts regarding the attitude he will take in case a candidate of the left bloc is not elected. If the newly elected president calls M. Herriot he will present himself, and if he is charged to form a cabinet he will present himself and a government before parliament Tuesday."

President Doumergue tonight asked M. Herriot to call at Elysee palace tomorrow morning at 10:30, when the Lyons mayor will be asked to form a cabinet. M. Herriot is expected to accept the invitation.

The newspaper Revell Du Nord, published in Lille, today announces that Louis Loucheur will succeed Louis Barthou as French delegate as the chairman of the reparations commission, while M. Barthou will replace Marshal Louis Hubert Lyautey as the military governor of Morocco. This is looked on as the best indication of M. Herriot's intention to pursue a conciliatory policy toward Germany, based on the Dawes experts' report.

Big Crowd Sees Election.

The participants and spectators in the election began arriving at Versailles before noon. Every table in the restaurant was reserved in advance and the prices for luncheon were boosted sky high.

The Hotel Reservoire, where the German delegation was housed during the peace conference in 1919, was crowded with notables, and hundreds of American tourists, actresses, film stars, and the Olympic games athletes were present.

Long files of soldiers with full equipment, steel hats and fixed bayonets, lined the streets leading to the ancient chateau, where the election was held. Crowds pressed up to the bronze gates seeking admission, which could be had only by a special pass.

Women in Brilliant Attire.

Inside of the big amphitheater were packed the senators, and deputies. About them sat the audience, which included leading women of society, the arts and the stage, as well as demimondes.

Startling costumes, rivaling the most daring ever seen at Longchamps, blazed forth from the boxes—bare arms and shoulders, with deep decollette gowns, flashed in the brilliant scene. Fur coats and satin manteaux were quickly thrown off because of the oppressive heat in the crowded hall, and there were beads of perspiration on the brows of the deputies and senators, who were dressed in uncomfortable morning coats, with high collars and boiled shirts.

The diplomatic boxes were filled with ambassadors, ministers, counsellors, and military attachés, their lapels and shirt fronts blazing with decorations and ribbons.

Ganna Walska Leaves Early.

The Dolly sisters chatted excitedly with a couple of viscounts and the newly wedded Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt watched interestedly with Preston Gibson from the nearby loge. Seasue Hayakawa and his wife sat beside the Gish sisters, and Countess Perigny, née Margaret Thaw, was just behind them.

Ganna Walska attended, but left early, motoring to Paris to meet Harold McCormick, who arrived on the Majestic boat train this evening. Harry Lesser, Berry Wall, Kingsley Macomber, and other leaders of the American colony sat near Ambassador Myron T. Herrick's box.

Many costly toilettes were ruined and high hats disfigured when a violent thunderstorm burst just as the big crowd was walking over the rough cobblestones in the court yard where Marie Antoinette had thousands of barrels of flour sprinkled one July day to make a mimic snow party. There was a wild scurry as high heeled women in tight skirts tried to scamper for cover.

How Ballot Was Taken.

The letters of the alphabet were shaken up in a hat first and one drawn to indicate the initial which would start the voting. When M. Doumergue drew out the slip of paper he found the letter "I," and exactly at 2:15 o'clock the first ballot was cast, beginning with I, J, K, L, and down to Z went the dreary voting, and then began A, B, C, and it was after 4 o'clock when the last vote was cast. The interminable counting of the ballots consumed more than an hour, and a couple of false totals were given out before the final official count was known.

HE CAN SHOW THAT TO THE FOLKS AT HOME WITHOUT FEELING ASHAMED

THOUSANDS LOST TO CITY ON HOSE, EXPERTS CHARGE

Experts' evidence that many thousand dollars were lost to the city during the regime of former Fire Commissioner John F. Cullerton through the acceptance of fire hose inferior in quality to the samples submitted when contracts for its purchase were awarded, may be submitted to the grand jury, members of the council committee investigating fire department affairs indicated yesterday.

Preliminary reports from engineers of the Armour Institute of Technology have disclosed that the hose delivered to the city was from four to six pounds lighter in each fifty foot length than the samples furnished by the manufacturers to support their bids for contracts. The city, according to the report, details of which were withheld by the committee, lost from $2 to $3 a fifty foot length in the substitution of the lighter hose.

"This should be brought to the attention of the grand jury at once," declared Ald. Charles S. Eaton [5th], one of the quiz committee.

LOCKPORT GIRL WINS PRIZE ON CITIZENS' CAMP

Miss Janet Elizabeth Bruce of Lockport, Ill., has won the state prize essay contest on "Why a Young Man Should Attend a Citizens' Military Training Camp," which was put on by the Women's Overseas Service league to help along the enrollment of young men in the training camps throughout the country. The announcement was made by the judges yesterday and the winner of the Illinois contest will be given a trip along with her chaperon to Camp Custer next August when the camp is under way.

The other state winners in the army corps area are Miss Charlotte Bergsman, 2121 Elk street, Port Huron, who won the prize for Michigan and Miss Frances Louise Bunker of Grantsburg, the Wisconsin winner.

The prize in each case is a trip to Camp Custer in August arranged by Col. Noble Brandon Judah, civilian aid to the secretary of war for the Sixth Army Corps area which comprises Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan.

The day of the visit of the essay winners will be made a gala occasion at Camp Custer and they will review the 2,500 students who will be in training there.

13 IN KLAN RIOTS GAIN FREEDOM ON FRIDAY THE 13TH

Ebensburg, Pa., June 13.—Eleven alleged members of the Ku Klux Klan and two residents of Lilly who have been held in the county jail here ten weeks under indictments of murder and manslaughter in connection with riots between klansmen and antis at Lilly on April 5, which resulted in the death of three persons and the injury of others, were freed tonight.

They were given their liberty after Judge Thomas P. Finletter granted a motion of District Attorney D. P. Weimer to nolle prosse the charges against them.

Eighteen other klansmen and thirteen residents of Lilly will stand trial on murder and manslaughter indictments.

When court convened this morning Samuel Evans of South Fork, an alleged member of the klan, was placed on trial on a murder charge. Evans pleaded not guilty and speedy progress was made in filling the jury box.

Before court was adjourned four witnesses were heard.

NEW FACES FOR OLD ONES, WORK OF DOCTOR NOW

Cosmetic Surgery Makes Its Official Bow.

"She had her face lifted."

When you hear that, don't laugh.

It's a serious matter now. For beauty-doctoring was re-vamped into cosmetic surgery yesterday at the final session of the American Medical society convention. The doctors themselves took the blame for the disrepute into which the art of doing over one's style of facial architecture has fallen.

"The scientific surgeon has encouraged the quack by refusing to undertake cosmetic surgery," Dr. George F. Schaeffer of Columbus, O., declared. He spoke not jestingly, but in all seriousness, as he continued, "people have a right to demand this sort of treatment. They have a right to ask the reputable doctor to remedy the saddle nose, the hump nose, sagging jowls, the premature lines.

"As long as they deride this class of work, just so long will the skilled and ethical surgeon further the work of the quacks."

Dr. Carl Beck of Chicago supported Dr. Schaeffer's contention.

For More Liberal Policy.

"It is our own fault," he declared. "If we, as a profession, look down on and speak against arts and cures which are of value, but with which we don't want to bother, then the layman will seek the quack."

The dissertation on methods of growing beautiful through surgery, however, was only a light interlude in the symposium on plastic surgery which closed what members of the association called one of the significant meetings of the convention.

Sculptors carve their works of art in clay and marble. The plastic surgeons work with human tissue. The results of their work, which they showed with lantern slides, brought bursts of applause from the audience.

Make Better Noses.

Some of their technique they have borrowed from the sculptor. There was a tendency to get the nose too large—the graft of skin and cartilage which was built to replace the nose destroyed by accident or disease. Now the dimensions of the nose are carefully worked out, explained Dr. Robert H. Ivy of Philadelphia.

A cast of the patient's face is taken and a nose of clay or wax is carefully modeled on in place of the missing organ. The dimensions of this nose-to-be are carefully taken and are then plotted on paper and later on tinfoil, almost as a tailor draws the pattern of a suit he is to cut.

The skin usually is selected from the patch to be grafted is cut according to the tin foil pattern. For a new bridge to the nose, a bit of cartilege from he sixth rib may be employed.

Some Surgical Sculpture.

Horror after horror was cast on the screen as the lecture went on. After each horror came the relief. Faces eaten away or blown away were shown built up, remodeled. The audience almost cheered when Dr. Robert H. Ivy flashed the picture of a grey mustached man whose nose, totally gone, had been replaced, and his face, once the forehead or the upper arm, and a terrible ching of destroyed tissue, sculptured into the form of humanity again.

The yapplauded again when Dr. Villray P. Blair of St. Louis showed face after face, once distorted by hare-lip, reshaped by the surgeon's skill into faces that would take their owners proudly back into society again.

Dr. Schaeffer, the same who talked of the beauty doctors, showed slides of a young man whose nose had been sheared off in a fall from a window during childhood. A graft of skin from the arm made a new nose.

Affects Boy's Future.

"The boy had a brilliant future before him, except for his face," said Dr. Schaeffer. "But so conscious had be become of his deformity that he had refused to go back to college. After the operation he returned to college and is now doing well."

Then there was a soldier, wounded during the Argonne fight, his whole lower jaw blown away. He was given a new jaw of bone cut from one of his ribs by Dr. Schaeffer, and became a human being again.

It was the final day yesterday to the biggest, and everyone said the most successful, convention the association has ever held. The registration smashed all existing records. For 7,819 physicians placed their names on the rolls during the five days.

Way to Avert Pain.

Another claim for a painless childbirth method caught the attention of the final day attendants. This was the regional nerve-block described by Dr. H. T. Cooke of Los Angeles.

"Twilight sleep has lost favor, because it retards muscular action," Dr. Cooke said. "Other methods, such as synergistic anaesthesia—where small amounts of several gasses are used—and ethylene retard birth."

The nerve block, however, by leaving the mother conscious, permits natural birth and at the same time eliminates pain. The method is by anesthetising certain nerves involved with local injections of cocaine or novocaine.

Dr. Ernest D. Chipman of San Francisco and Dr. William W. Babcock of Philadelphia also had a word on the beauty doctors. Paraffin injections may cause tumors, careless X-ray treatment may result in cancer, was Dr. Chipman's warning; while Dr. Babcock spoke of the danger to cranial nerves through unskilled operations on the jaws and neck.

Way to Avert Goiter.

A whole city may be prevented from getting goiter, asserted Dr. J. F. McClendon of Minneapolis. A little iodine in the water supply—one part of the drug for every 100,000,000 parts of water—will do the trick.

Dr. William L. McBride of Kansas City was not inclined to take certain recent cases of attempted suicide too seriously. "Playing suicide," he called the recent trend toward veronal on the part of ladies who were not averse to having unfortunate affairs get them a little publicity. "But it is a perilous pastime," he sounded a warning. "Sometimes too much is taken, and then it turns out a tragedy."

A plea for the conservation of tonsils, at least through adolescence, was made by Dr. W. W. Watkins of Phoenix, Ariz. Dr. Clyde Brooks of University, Ala., urged that the protein theory of infection be always considered a cause of disease as well as the germ theory.

LIQUID OXYGEN CAN CURE CANCER, BLAST ROCKS, DOCTOR SAYS

Atlantic City, N. J., June 13.—Liquid oxygen has been used as a cure for cancer, L. E. Bedortha of Denver, told the Gas Products association's convention today.

"A California doctor has successfully used liquid oxygen in cancer cases," he said. "The liquid oxygen freezes the affected parts by swabbing and the cure is rapid."

Mr. Bedortha also described the use of liquid oxygen in blasting as a substitute for dynamite. It is not so dangerous, in that it will not explode upon being struck. Research laboratories are now studying the relative costs of blasting with liquid oxygen and dynamite.

RANCHER SUES MRS. THORNE FOR $100,000 DAMAGES

Mrs. Katherine C. Thorne, widow of the late William C. Thorne, millionaire vice president of Montgomery Ward & Co., yesterday was named defendant in the praecipe of a suit for $100,000 damages filed in Circuit court by Attorney Francis W. Walker in behalf of C. R. Shipman, an Oregon ranchman.

Mr. Walker refused to comment on the cause of the action, but it was said to have grown out of a business transaction five years ago.

Ald. U. S. Schwartz, counsel for Mrs. Thorne, acknowledge that a demand for $100,000 had been made on him by Walker yesterday morning. Mr. Schwartz declared Mrs. Thorne had a claim of $25,000 against Shipman, the result of a real estate transaction of several years ago.

SCHOOL BOARD REFUSES TO HALT JUNIOR HIGHS

Smietanka Appears Before Council Body.

No retreat from its plan to inaugurate the junior high school system in the local schools next fall is contemplated by the board of education, Julius F. Smietanka, one of the trustees, told the schools, fire and civil service committee yesterday. He was unable to tell how many of the schools are to be established or what existing buildings are to be remodeled for the purpose.

At once he became the target for broadsides from Ald. Oscar Nelson [46th], a vice president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, Victor Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor and Miss Margaret Haley, business representative of the Teachers' Federation.

Refuse to Delay.

The aldermanic committee had been directed by the council to seek the board's promise that initiation of the scheme would be suspended until its merits had been investigated and details of the plan made public. Such assurance was refused by the board, but the committee undertook the investigation anyway.

"If you don't know where the schools are to be located, how do you expect the parents of pupils to know?" asked Ald. Nelson. "How about parents who have purchased homes or rented flats near schools only to find next fall that their children must travel miles, in some cases, to other schools.

Charges Secret Plans.

"And that isn't all" interrupted Miss Haley, "the board has declared that for experimental purposes, five schools would be converted into junior high schools. Secretly, it has engaged University of Chicago engineers to plan alterations in fifteen or twenty buildings, although the value of the scheme is as yet unknown.

"Mr. Smietanka, did you know that a few days ago, Superintendent McAndrew ordered all teachers to submit to a new examination on July 26 if they would qualify for positions under the new plan?"

"What harm can be done in going ahead" asked Mr. Smietanka. "It is a progressive move and if we do not progress, we are condemned."

THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES.

With the selection of the head of the ticket a foregone conclusion, the Republican convention's job at Cleveland was really the formulation of a platform for him to run on and the choice of a running mate. The nomination of Gen. Dawes for the vice presidency places at the side of Mr. Coolidge one of the most forceful personalities in our public life. Apart from any other consideration, that should have great political importance.

The two heads of the ticket present an interesting contrast of personality and temperament but also a significant similarity in certain fundamentals of character. We are hearing a good deal of late about the longing of the people for leadership, for courage and forthrightness. Well, here are two leaders whose records in public life are marked by these qualities throughout. Beneath a dramatic contrast of temperaments is the common fact that both men have convictions, make up their own minds, and then speak without fear or favor. Whether it is the laconic Coolidge, or the picturesque and pungent Dawes, here are public men who are not afraid to say what they think when it ought to be said, regardless of political effect or the popular mood of the moment.

We think the American people like men of that sort and have been conscious of the need of their leadership of late. And we think it is a very good sign of party vitality that the Republican convention at Cleveland should show its preference for two such men as Coolidge and Dawes. There are too many weasel words spoken in our politics and too many trimmers among the men who should be leaders. There is nothing of the trimmer in either Coolidge or Dawes. They have no use for weasel words. Both have strong convictions based on a sense of principle and a shrewd observation of life—essentials of the practical statesman. Both have the strength to make and maintain decisions. Both have the courage to speak out without equivocation.

Our wise tradition restricts the activity of a President seeking reëlection, but the nomination of Gen. Dawes places in the front of the Republican campaign a fighting leader who can dramatize the issues before the country and state the Republican case in effective epigram. He is one of the unusual order of men whose personality is as interesting as his achievements, and draws our attention like a magnet. It was impossible, for example, to separate Theodore Roosevelt from his acts, so much was his dynamic soul a part of all he did, and Dawes represents in the popular imagination something more than his acts, conspicuous as they have been.

Born in Ohio of an ancestry running back to the beginnings of America, as well as to those later of Ohio, going forth as a young man to conquer fortune in the Nebraska of the bitter days, in Wisconsin, in Illinois and Chicago, he is as racy and characteristic a product of the Americanism of the west as Calvin Coolidge is of New England. Both men of good stock, the sound, strong stock which is the foundation of the American achievement, they have won their places and achieved their successes in the American way, through energy, native intelligence, strength of character, and are men of the people, typical Americans in the most thorough degree: Mr. Coolidge, from a Vermont farm and still a lover of the soil without pose or pretense; Gen. Dawes from a midwest town, sharing instinctively its viewpoint, its clean sentiment, its pervasive democracy.

Mr. Coolidge is schooled in the political psychology and technique of political action of our country, which is to be welcomed in a leader from whom the people expect results, not mere phrases. He won his way to the governorship of his state through character and ability. That he reached the highest place has been said to be accidental. In the same sense this is true of Roosevelt. But it is an erroneous sense. All opportunity may be said to be accident. To be ready for opportunity and to take it is no accident. When the Boston police strike, which put Coolidge in the thought of the nation, occurred he was ready for it, in character and purpose. And the result at Cleveland, after a year of administration involving most troublesome issues, is proof sufficient that when the Presidency came to him by what may be called another accident he was ready for that also.

The decisions made upon some of these issues, THE TRIBUNE believes, were mistakes. But we believe also they were honest decisions, and not only honest but courageous decisions. We do not agree with his reasoning on the bonus, and even less with his reasons for vetoing the postal clerks' pay bill. We do not favor his proposals as to the league court. But we do recognize, and we believe it is Mr. Coolidge's strength with the people that they recognize, his sincerity and his will to do right in spite of popularity. These are the most important qualifications for leadership and public office in a republic and, as we have said, we believe there is a general desire for more of them in our public life.

Gen. Dawes' career and character are marked as conspicuously by these qualities. His abilities and accomplishments do not overshadow them. We may and in some respects do differ with Gen. Dawes' views, especially in respect to our drift toward European entanglements. But we and the public know that what Dawes thinks he says, and says so forcefully that no one can doubt he means it. That, even more than the remarkable things he has done, gives public confidence. We all want to know where our public men are at, and we often don't. Party fealty, public confidence and purpose are disintegrating visibly because of this.

But we would not slight Gen. Dawes' concrete achievements as not worthy of attention. He volunteered for the front the moment we entered the war and went to France in an engineer regiment of the line. But there his experience was commandeered by Gen. Pershing and he became head of our purchasing in Europe. In that strange, unpathed field neither he nor the American army had any precedent or guide whatever. But Gen. Dawes' unconquerable energy and native resourcefulness created method and order out of the void and remarkable results were accomplished. More difficult and momentous even than that was his service as American member of the military board of allied supply, in which his sense of the practicable and his remarkable skill in conciliating conflicting interests not only saved disastrous friction and paralysis back of the allied lines but foreshadowed Gen. Dawes' success as head of the reparations commission.

Returning to America, his experience was soon requisitioned by President Harding to organize an efficient functioning of the budget system which Gen. Dawes established. That has saved hundreds of millions to the nation and will save many more.

Later came the invitation of the allied governments to be head of the difficult and delicate inquiry into the German reparations muddle, and here again Gen. Dawes' capacity for cutting through difficulties and getting to essential results and his talent for composing opposed interests were brilliantly manifested.

In short, the Cleveland convention, uninspiring as it promised to be, has placed before the American people as Republican candidates for the two great offices of government two men who deservedly command confidence both as to ability, energy, and moral stamina.

CONTROL OUTLYING CRIME.

Science in crime must be met by science. Tear bombs and modern gunnery, motor car reserves, and a crime platoon almost military in organization and tactics are some of the scientific aspects of the holdup of the St. Paul train near Rondout Thursday night. Prospect of $1,000,000 loot makes scientific planning worth while.

The increased mobility provided by the automobile and the increased offensive power of the modern tear bomb and gat method have complicated the crime problem. Metropolitan crooks can distribute themselves more rapidly over the country either for attack or for escape. They can threaten the lonely farmer's family. They can concentrate on riches in transit on the railways and make a get-away. From the point of view of the crook, the era of sage brush and wide open places has returned. With social defense measures inadequate, they are once more on a rich and easily exploited crime frontier.

This increased criminal facility must be met by a system of protection adapted to the new conditions. The extension of hard roads and motor cars into the country is also an extension of metropolitan criminal risks. They must be counterbalanced. Police protection on the outer roads is far from adequate.

A state constabulary mounted on automobiles and motorcycles is the best answer. The farmers need better protection. Drivers of motor cars need better protection. Country banks and railway mail trains need it. A constabulary properly limited in function will furnish the best defense against outlying crime.

Crime control has not kept pace with the scientific development of criminal methods. The defense needs more attention.

THE DEFENSE PLANK.

Three measures for national defense are offered in the platform. They are efficient military and naval service, universal mobilization with conscription of man power and money power in war, an effective merchant marine. All are well founded.

Peace time responsibilities for national defense are recognized. A trained personnel can be secured only by peace time training. With wars evolving into conflicts of population masses it is clear that appropriations sufficient to give training to all members of the National Guard, the citizens' military training camps and the reserve organizations are necessary for a minimum of national safety. This somewhat decentralized, informal type of training is America's traditional method. Its individualities should be recognized and made the most of.

The firm pledge to round out and maintain the navy in its full treaty strength is one of the most satisfying propositions in the platform. It means, if it means anything, a revival in naval efficiency and an intelligent approach to the needs for light cruisers, cruising submarines, airplane carriers and the modernization of our battleships. This pledge of naval efficiency has an importance that the Democrats cannot afford to ignore.

Rather more advanced in tendency is the party support of universal mobilization in war. America has learned that her soldiers should not bear the burden of compulsory sacrifice alone. Another war must mean conscription, not alone of men but of wealth and resources, or it means military failure. Property is no more sacred than life, and the Republican party has done well to pledge itself to that belief.

Editorial of the Day

FOR CHILD LABOR CONTROL.
[Kansas City Star.]

The child labor question now is up to the respective states of the Union. By approving the house bill to submit a constitutional amendment, the senate has paved the way for the settlement of a question that has been much discussed for five years. The amendment would authorize congress to limit, regulate and prohibit the labor of persons under 18 years of age. If adopted, congress, of course, would not prohibit the labor of all persons under 18, but would have the power to define and enforce the conditions under which such persons should work.

This amendment would not have been necessary but for the abusive treatment of children in several states by working them when too young, working them excessively and under conditions detrimental to health and development. The Supreme court has declared unconstitutional laws enacted by congress intended to serve the same ends as the amendment now proposed.

The amendment will depend on the attitude of the states. It is believed it soon will be ratified by the three-fourths necessary to make it a part of the constitution. Public sentiment generally is favorable to the protection of children who must work and the prevention of such work at too early an age or for other good reasons. Opposition to this humane policy has been fostered primarily by certain industries, particularly in the south, where child labor has been employed to a large extent.

GOITER IN MICHIGAN.

THE prevalence of toxic goiter in certain groups of young men examined for service in the world war caused Dr. R. M. Olin, health commissioner of Michigan, to think he had a serious health problem on his hands.

This was followed by a goiter survey of the school children of Grand Rapids, made by Dr. Slemmons, and by other goiter surveys in different parts of the state, all of which showed goiter to be common in Michigan. This caused Dr. Olin to make goiter surveys in four Michigan counties. The counties run from one in the southeast corner of the state in a northwesterly direction to one in the northwest corner.

The surveys showed the condition to be very common. Generally speaking, the prevalence increased as the survey went northward. In the extreme north, Dr. Olin says, practically 100 per cent of the children are affected.

While the prevalence increased generally as they went northward the increase was not uniform. For instance, in Mount Clemens only 26 per cent of the children were affected, whereas in Romeo, twelve miles away, the percentage affected was 76.

About 100 samples of water were examined for iodine. Where the percentage of goiter was found very high, the examiners would send in a sample of water for an analysis for iodine. Also, examination of the water was done from those places where there was not much goiter.

While the results of the examinations of water and the geologic surveys have not been published, in a general way Dr. Olin says the curve for lack of iodine and that for goiter prevalence run about parallel.

What is to be done about it? The objection to giving iodide of soda in school is that the pupils do not like it. Putting iodine in a public water supply is probably too expensive, since so much water is wasted. There are several objections to giving the school children iodine candy. Dr. Olin favors putting iodine in the table salt. Since some Michigan salt contains iodine, naturally, it is a matter of leaving it in instead of refining it out. The manufacturers say they are willing to do that provided the health department will do its part to persuade the people to use salt containing a little iodine.

HARDENING OF ARTERIES.

Subscriber writes:

1. A person suffering with hardening of the arteries should eat what kind of food? Is there any special thing that could be done for one in this condition? Would appreciate any advice you can give me on the subject, as my mother is suffering from this ailment and does not seem to get any relief.

2. One of my daughters is very much overweight and wants to reduce, but nothing she does seems to help her. She does a great deal of hiking, horseback riding and swimming. Would these exercises tend to increase the weight of a person? Have heard some say that the more exercise you take, the heavier you become, as your muscles harden up and you weigh that much more. Please tell us what she can eat to reduce, as she is just a young girl and deeply feels the excess weight she has to carry around.

REPLY.

1. See your physician. Before you can decide intelligently what to do you must know the answers to such questions as: Is there Bright's disease? Heart disease? Are the eyes involved? What organs show the effect? Is obesity present? Age? Sex? Pressure?

I suggest that you read a little book on blood pressure written by Barker and Cole.

2. Exercise does not reduce weight unless dieting is carried out at the same time. Exercise leads to increased appetite and that may lead to excessive eating which leads to obesity.

The foods to avoid are breads, pastries, all foods made of flour and cereals, and foods containing sugar. Eat freely of watery, bulky vegetables. Avoid eating excessive quantities of food.

HAS HAY FEVER.

M. S. W. writes: About the middle of May I begin sneezing and keep it up until the last of October. Some days I sneeze as many as thirty times, my eyes become inflamed and watery, accompanied by a burning and itching. Have an almost continuous discharge from my nose and severe headaches. Flowers, almost every kind, and grass, especially damp grass, aggravate these symptoms. Have had them eight years.

1. Have I hay fever?
2. Are plant asthma and hay fever the same?
3. Would calcium chloride help me?
4. How should I take it?

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. Yes.
3. Possibly.
4. Dissolve four ounces in a pint of water. Take one teaspoonful, well diluted, three times a day. Continue your search for the special cause and a way to avoid it.

TO FORESTALL A DECREE.

Muskegon, Mich.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can a man living in the state of Michigan secure a divorce from his wife without her knowledge?

2. Must a divorce be obtained at the county seat of the one desiring the divorce?

3. In a case where a husband spends part of his time with his wife and the balance of the time with his parents, both in different cities, which place, according to law, is his home?

4. When the wife knows that the husband is trying to secure a divorce, and knows he is trying to get it on the ground that he does not know of his wife's whereabouts, would it be advisable to inform the judges of the two cities (both being in county seats) of the wife's present and permanent address?

G. M. B.

1. It is possible, depending on the circumstances.

2. Each state provides jurisdictional requirements as to the period and place of residence of the one bringing the action. This probably would be the county seat.

3. We cannot say. Residence depends largely on intention.

4. We do not think that such action would have any effect if your object is to forestall a decree by default. We suggest that you keep in touch with the proceedings in the jurisdiction wherein your husband resides.

NOT HIGH SCHOOL CREDIT.

East Chicago, May 21.—[To the Friend of the People.] — I am in the United States four and a half years. While I had never got a chance of going to school I still like to study. The other day while talking to some friends of mine they told me of the schools they have in Chicago like the Hoffman preparatory school and others. Before coming to the United States I went to school till about the ninth grade. Now, if I will take a two year course in these preparatory schools, will that make up for my high school work? As I like to keep up, suppose I finish the two year course, am I entitled to a course over at the University of Chicago or Northwestern? Will these above universities recognize the two years' work? Does any of these preparatory schools give credits? If so, name some. S. P.

It is difficult to answer all your questions without more complete information from you. If you have completed nine grades in an accredited school it will be necessary to continue in high school for three years before you will be admitted to college. Work done in the preparatory school to which you refer will not be recognized by the Chicago public schools.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

60 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 14, 1864.

WASHINGTON.—Cheering rumors from Gen. Grant's army before Richmond have reached the capital, but no official advices came from Gen. Grant during the day. One report is that Fort Darling, just south of Richmond, has been taken. Another is that Gen. Hancock's corps after a desperate fight dislodged the rebels from their position at Bottom's bridge over the Chickahominy river and that Grant's entire army had crossed.

LEXINGTON, Ky.—Reports are that as a result of Gen. Burbridge's battles with Morgan's rebel raiders at Cynthiana the latter are without ammunition and utterly demoralized.

NEW YORK.—The Raleigh Confederate says that 6,000 Union prisoners captured in the Virginia battles passed through Danville on their way to rebel dungeons in the south.

NEW YORK.—According to English papers arriving on the Saxonia, Count de Paris was married to Isabella of Spain on May 30. Fears are gaining ground that hostilities will be renewed between the Danes and Germans.

CHICAGO.—The total of deaths for May is 302. Of these thirty were due to smallpox and ten to typhoid fever. Three died from intemperance.

CHICAGO.—Francis A. Emory and Miss Theodosia B. Garnett were married at Trinity church by the Rev. George D. Cumming.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 14, 1899.

NEW RICHMOND, Wis.—Three fourths of this thriving town was razed by the tornado of June 12, in which 126 were killed and 128 seriously injured.

OMAHA, Neb.—The village of Herman, Neb., was destroyed by a cyclone. The number killed is believed to exceed 100.

PARIS.—There is a persistent rumor that Poincare will refuse to head the new ministry to take the place of the Dupuy cabinet, resigned.

MANILA.—A battle with the Filipinos raged all day south of Las Pinas. The American loss is 60 killed and wounded. It was one of the hardest battles in which Gen. Lawton has engaged.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Gov. Tanner issued a proclamation that hereafter all dairy and breeding cattle shipped into Illinois must undergo the tuberculin test.

CHICAGO.—The hot wave continued, thermometers at the street level registering 90, and no relief is in sight.

CHICAGO.—The Chicago Bar association celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary with a banquet at the Palmer house. Robert T. Lincoln, James P. Root and Charles M. Sturges, its incorporators, and Murray F. Tuley, A. M. Pence, William P. Black Charles M. Hardy and William H. Barnum, its first board of managers, were honor guests.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 14 1914.

HAMMONDSPORT, N. Y.—Lieut. John Cyril Porter, pilot of Rodman Wanamaker's hydroplane, has all plans completed for his attempt to fly across the Atlantic in one day some time next month.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson next March personally will lead an international fleet of warships from Hampton Roads to Colon to take part in the formal opening of the Panama canal.

LONDON.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, arrived here from Spain.

CHICAGO.—Attorney General Patrick J. Lucey will take a hand in the Lorimer-Munday La Salle street bank failure case. He is coming from Springfield to assume personal charge of the inquiry. The State Bank of Calumet, another Lorimer-Munday bank, closed its doors, making four subsidiary institutions to close as a result of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank failure.

CHICAGO.—Adlai E. Stevenson, former Vice President of the United States died at the Presbyterian hospital at the age of 79. He had been ill for some time. He was long active in Democratic politics in Illinois previous to his nomination on the ticket with Grover Cleveland in 1892.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

TODAY is Flag Day. Ladies and gentlemen—the flag of your country—the red, white, and blue—the Star Spangled Banner—Old Glory—SALUTE!

MEMORIES.

What halting words, what calculated rhymes
Can adequately sing their praise again,
That mighty host of consecrated men
Whose valor writ the history of our times?
O memorable milestones we have known—
The fires at Valley Forge shall ne'er burn low,
Nor time blot out the siege of Alamo—
Those brave traditions we have made our own!
Where once the great Emancipator stood
At Gettysburg, is now a sacred shrine;
Today in France sleeps your dear lad and mine
At Chateau Thierry and Belleau Wood!
Proudly we pause, with radiant, tear-dimmed eyes
To reverently salute their sacrifice!

THE FAUN.

EVERYBODY is busy right now hunting stories about Charley Dawes. Oh goody! goody! we know one our own self. We were having luncheon with Charley in Paris and Gen. Pershing came in. Charley saluted briskly and was not at all hampered by the fact that he had a lighted cigar in his saluting hand. The general is a great stickler on army etiquette and he said quite stiffly: "Col. Dawes, in giving the salute to a superior officer the lighted cigar is always placed behind the left ear."

WE REFUSE TO BE BLACKMAILED.

"GOSH DURN!" that's Cal's word; anyhow it ought to be, for he's a daown East Yankee. We know what Charley's is. Ho, ho! the campaign slogan makes itself. Here 'tis—

GOSH DURN HELLEN MARIA.

And If at First You Don't Succeed, Try, Try Again.

R. H. L.: "Allen of Austin" says he thinks he has nothing more to live for after he has finally succeeded in Making the Line. Tell him to try bringing his Linear score up to five. If he does this the Culvert Passion has no chance of a hold on him for years and years. CHERIS.

P. S.: Also add that he can't afford the typewriter or shell rims when buying those little red portraits of Washington.

WE FORGOT while we were strolling down the Boul Mich yesterday that it was Friday the 13th. Suddenly, a beautiful lady walking in front of us drew a gat, unlimbered, and opened fire on a gentleman friend. The bullet went wild and hit an automobile tire. The tire exploded, the lady was pinched, and had to pay for the tire. It's certainly an unlucky day.

ELMER and all of us tried and tried last night to tune off a raucous, peculiar noise that kept coming from the loud speaker, no matter what we were listening to. At first we thought it was static and then we found it was Bill McAdoo sobbing because Bob La Follette was going to head a third party against Cal and Charley. Or maybe Bill wasn't sobbing.

The Very Idea!

THE TEST FOR SANITY.

R. H. L.: Mencken is a good test for sanity. Those who do not like him at first are insane. Those who, after reading him for a period, continue to be delighted by his radicalisms, must also be insane. All those of normal status like him at first and then get so sick of him they fall in a fit when even they see his name. JUNGBLOM.

NO, NO, children; it wasn't because Mr. Dawes said the naughty word that refers to where the evil one lives that made them nominate him to the second highest office in our great nation. Oh no! Children, no indeed! You see, children, the fact is that if Mr. Dawes had not said that terrible word so often he would have been nominated for President. But he said—well, I may as well tell you—he said h—l right out loud. So that instead of making him President they made him VICE President. Now, children, you all know what VICE is?

Oh, What Care They For the Poor Wife Waiting at Home!

R. H. L.: Thirteen innings yesterday made me late for dinner. Friend wife says: "It's funny they wouldn't start earlier if they are going to play thirteen innings."

EVANSTON is going to hang out flags for a week in honor of its esteemed fellow townsman's nomination. We know 38 people up there whose hissers are going to be kept awful busy for about seven days. R. H. L.

WHEN WORDS FAIL YUH

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

WE DIDN'T PRINT THE LETTER, BUT WILL LET YOU CRITICIZE IT.

Chicago, June 11.—On May 31 you printed a letter written by a school teacher which contained the following paragraph:

"As I passed down the aisle I asked Jack who he was writing to and what the funny little marks were on his letter."

Certainly the person who wrote the letter containing that error is not worth $2.50 an hour plus pension rights. If a plumber or a plasterer should use a nominative pipe or wall instead of an objective pipe or wall he would lose his job.

A teacher can get $1.50 an hour when she finishes normal school, and she should be able to finish when she is 18. She gets a raise of 10 cents an hour for ten years until she gets the maximum pay of $2.50 an hour. At the end of twenty years she is entitled to a pension of $1,000 a year. The larger part of the pension fund is contributed by the poor taxpayers. The talk regarding poor salaries paid to government help leads me to believe that many people are not familiar with the salaries which we pay.

In Illinois all children must attend school until they are 14. After that they must attend the continuation school until they are 16. If they wish to learn trades they must serve as apprentices for four years, so it is easy to see that a Chicago tradesman spends as much time in preparing for his work as a teacher does in learning her profession. The maximum union scale in Chicago is only $1.50 an hour. I do not understand the difference.

The joining of schools and unions in this letter brings to mind the fact that Mr. Victor Olander is asking many questions regarding the new school plan.

I am wondering if he ever heard the following story. It seems to be one of the classics, and I have heard it in connection with many unions:

President—It has been decided to buy a new Packard for Tom, our senior business agent.

Member—I should like to ask a question.

Pause for riot call, biff, bang, boots, etc.

President—Are there any further questions?

The foregoing story may not be true, but it is widely circulated, and many people believe that a man who asks a question at a meeting of union men takes his life in his hands.

HOW TO KEEP THEM GREEN.

Oak Park, June 6.—If George Wood will add one-quarter of a teaspoonful of baking soda to the water when boiling beans he will have green beans served at his table. I am an Englishwoman and have always used baking soda for this purpose, and have found it successful.

Hope I have solved the mystery for you.
C. OAKES.

DOUBLE DECK CANAL STREET.

Chicago, June 11.—There has been so much talk about widening La Salle street, why don't they open up a new street which could serve the northwest and north side together?

I propose to extend Canal street, double decked, over the freight yards, paralleling 150 feet from the Northwestern railroad tracks, over the the waste land and empty railroad tracks, up to Elston avenue and Augusta street. Make the street 150 feet wide, with street cars on it. This will make the shortest route to the northwest side and all points north.

Elston avenue, from Augusta street north, could be widened, too, and you have a new route out of the loop via Orleans street and new Wacker drive.

Double deck Kinzie street bridge and Canal street from Washington north. Augusta street could be a boulevard as far as River Forest. Most of the property to be used in this vicinity is waste land and would be easy to acquire.
F. HORNISCHER.

FROM A FRIEND OF LA FOLLETTE.

Chicago, June 13.—Your editorial, "We Hope He Bolts," again shows why the people are losing all confidence in newspapers.

You say, "La Follette wants congress substituted as a court of appeal from the Supreme court." He does not. He wants the usurped power of the Supreme court to negative the will of the people taken from them and the final determination placed with the whole people, as the constitution placed it.

You say, "La Follette wants a referendum on war." With characteristic "honesty" you omit the words, "except in case of invasion." A little different, isn't it?

You say, "Europe's conspicuous government failures have been in public ownership." Astounding, is it not, if that is true, that you cannot point to a single important public function once deliberately taken over by the people afterwards returned to private ownership. Even here a political party that proposed to return the postoffice or our waterworks to private ownership would be "out of luck."

Canada has government ownership of railroads. Are they returning them to private control? No. They are extending them.

You say that La Follette demands that "court decisions shall come from the precinct polling place." He does not. He insists that judges, above all other men, shall obey the fundamental laws. But better court decisions from the precinct polling place than from the private office of an oil or steel magnate.

You say, "La Follette is an absurdity in the Republican party." He is, as at present controlled. He would not be if Abraham Lincoln were at its head.

Who speaks for the Republican party? Was it not Iowa, not Wisconsin, that gave Brookhart, more radical than La Follette, 32,000 majority in a clean cut Republican primary against a Coolidge man? Do the Republican masses speak for Republicanism, or does a hand picked bunch of retrogressive delegates placidly registering the orders of their masters?

CHARLES W. PHILLIPS.

IN SUPPORT OF SHINGLES.

Chicago, June 10.—I want to congratulate you on your editorial in Sunday's edition on the menace of the automobile, and your suggestion that religious training be reëstablished in the family. As a nation we are drifting away from the traditions of the fathers, and the present generation is becoming imbued with the world old idea that nothing is wrong unless you get caught, and that if detected in crime the "old man's money" will get them out of the difficulty. We need a revival of morality and the best way to accomplish this is by a return to more piety and less jazz, accompanied with judicious use of the time-honored shingle, than which there is no better corrective known. While I never got a great many trouncings I knew full well that when my father said "No" there wasn't a bit of use to tease, and also that if I disobeyed there was retribution swift and certain awaiting me, and I honor him for instilling in my mind the precepts of honesty and uprightness, and the certainty of reward for doing the right thing just as well as punishment for wrong doing. Auto parties think it smart to stop out along the country road and dig up a bushel or so of potatoes, the same amount of corn, and if apple trees are handy, a sack of choice fruit, and if possible, run into a flock of chickens and if any fail to get out of the way, pick them up and have fried chicken when they get home. The value of the property stolen may not amount to a great deal but the theory is wrong and I think a strong editorial every week in all the metropolitan papers as to the rights of others would have a wonderful effect in showing people the fallacy of such actions. It's impossible for people out in the country to patrol their fields and orchards against these pirates.

TWO SPECIALISTS IN PSYCHIATRY TEST 2 SLAYERS

Lay Defense Basis for Leopold and Loeb.

Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb yesterday became the subjects of an intensive study by psychiatrists enlisted to support an insanity defense in their coming trial for the murder of Robert Franks.

Young Loeb was removed from his cell by Warden Wesley Westbrook shortly after 10 o'clock in the morning and taken to the emergency cell on the second floor. There he was met by Dr. Karl M. Bowman, chief medical officer of the Boston Psychopathic hospital at Boston, Mass., and Dr. H. S. Hulbert, well known alienist of Oak Park.

Closeted Two Hours.

The doors of the cell closed behind the boy and for more than two hours he was given various medical and mental tests, the nature of which could not be learned. When the examination was over, both Drs. Bowman and Hulbert refused to discuss any phase of the examination on advice of Attorney Walter Bachrach, associated for the defense.

From other sources, however, it was asserted that Dr. Bowman is noted in the east for his observation of mental disorders resulting from the maladjustment of different glands in the human body. It was learned that past experiments have shown that some ductless gland, the thyroid, pituitary, or parathyroid, inflamed or enlarged to a certain point, would excite the subject from the normal channels of morality. It was along these lines that the examination was made, it was presumed.

Youths in Good Spirits.

Dr. Bowman conducted a similar investigation upon Leopold in the afternoon. He was closeted with him for more than three hours and nothing pertaining to the results could be learned. Both prisoners returned to their cells in the apparent best of spirits.

It was made known that Attorneys Clarence Darrow and Benjamin Bachrach will engage a number of other alienists to examine the boys along other lines, it being the purpose to cover every possible mental disorder which might be urged in their defense as having caused them to commit the crime they did.

State's Attorney Crowe was meanwhile taking steps to combat the work being done by the defense. He directed Assistant Prosecutor Milton D. Smith to make an intensive study of all forms of insanity and to engage in a survey of every mental or physical disorder which might be introduced by the defense. State's Attorney Crowe hopes to use Mr. Smith's knowledge in the cross examination of the alienists testifying for the two slayers.

PERSHING HEADS INSPECTION TOUR OF A. E. F. GRAVES

New York, June 13.—[Special.]—Gen. John J. Pershing, accompanied by the six members of the American Battlefields Monuments commission, will sail for France tomorrow on the United States liner Leviathan. The commander of the American armies and the commissioners go to visit all American cemeteries and fields on which American soldiers fought in France, Belgium, England and Italy. They will inspect the graveyards and make recommendations for beautifying these spots and to erect suitable memorials.

The commissioners, appointed by the late President Harding in conformity with an act of congress, are Mrs. Frederick W. Bentley of Washington, D. C.; Representative John Philip Hill of Maryland; Senator David Reed of Pennsylvania; Col. Thomas W. Miller, alien property custodian; Col. D. J. John Markey and Capt. Robert W. Woodside. They will return on the George Washington, leaving Cherbourg on July 23.

English Replaces Swedish Before Lutheran Synod

De Kalb, Ill., June 13.—The English language was substituted for Swedish here today for the first time in the sixty-five years of the Lutheran Augustana synod's history when all resolutions were submitted in English by the synodical council. President Brandelle said the church's book concern at Rock Island, Ill., was finding it difficult to sell Swedish books.

Approval of a church home mission extension fund of $500,000 urged by President Brandelle was voted today. As a result of "improved conditions, due to prohibition," Dr. Brandelle reported, orphanages are now being converted into temporary receiving homes.

BULLET FATAL TO CHILD.

BOOKS

"A Man in the Zoo" Will Amuse and Never Bore You

By Fanny Butcher.

"A Man in the Zoo," by David Garnett, is that little book that you and I have been waiting for ever since "Lady Into Fox" made us think that its author is one of the most charming and amusing writers imaginable. There aren't too gay and joyous adjectives to be used for "Lady Into Fox." The only readers who didn't like it were those who insisted on trying to find out what it meant, and since it means nothing on earth and is a delight for that reason, they missed the point of it entirely. There were really serious and learned discussions about the possible "message" of that fantasy. "There is much of the fox in all women, cunning, deceitful. . . ." "A man marries what he believes to be a charming and companionable human being and she is really little better than the sneaking little red fox that this man's wife turned into, running off with another animal of her own breed. . . ."

Countless words they had about the book, those who can't read anything without translating it into a tract. When "Lady Into Fox" was awarded the Hawthornden prize in England for the best novel of the year there were earnest souls there who insisted that it was an allegory and not a novel and therefore not eligible for the prize. And after all of the smoke of the words has blown away, the story will remain one of the most delightful fantasies imaginable and only that.

"A Man in the Zoo," doesn't delight so thoroughly as "Lady Into Fox" did, but it is a very amusing and delightful book nevertheless. It had almost a perfect thing as a predecessor and one couldn't expect it to be so good, really. It is about a rejected lover who, casting about for some pier to which to tie the craft of his life, hits upon the notion that to be a man in a zoo would be a fitting thing—because, his haughty lady had told him that he "ought to be shut up and exhibited here in the Zoo—I've told you once and I'll tell you again—with the gorilla on one side and the chimpanzee on the other. Science would gain a lot." The young man agrees with her and offers himself for exhibit—in, by the way, one of the most amusing letters you ever read.

The furore which his advent as an exhibit in the Zoo arouses is most amusingly and satirically handled by Mr. Garnett. The young man becomes a sensation, but he assumed toward his public a calm indifference, like many of the other animals. The two creatures on either side of him are much more avid for attention than he. It is their eagerness to be noticed that arouses the jealousy which leads to the denouement of the story, a result which is further hastened by the fact that the authorities of the Zoo, finding the man such an attraction, decide to have a specimen of the genus homo sapiens in a darker shade, and the man's new companion talks him nearly to death.

Where "Lady Into Fox" was a fantasy, "A Man in the Zoo" is satire. Mr. Garnett's gift is, it seems to me, more for fantasy than satire, but his gift is such a real one that even in this field, for which he seems less destined, his work is memorable. You'll be amused by "A Man in the Zoo," delighted greatly at times, and in the dullest parts never bored. The conversation in it is just a shade off real, just enough satirical to be much more amusing than actual conversation would be.

Heavenfolk.

If you liked "Maya the Bee," the fantastic story of the feministic young bee who determined to live her own life, you'll probably want to know that Waldemar Bonsels has written another fantasy of nature. "Maya the Bee" made me feel like a thousand and eighty-seven years old, the peppy conversation of the bee with flowers and bugs and whatever were just a couple of steps in tenuous fancy beyond which I was capable of going. "Heavenfolk" makes me feel the same way. The little flower sprite is too nearly a human being to be a spirit to me, and the conversations of the plants and the various animals are too much like billingsgate at times to seem like another world—as fantasy should make anything seem. But there are eminent folk who think Herr Bonsels' fantasies are wonderful, and if they seem a little too solid and without any real reason for being to me take the word of more kindly critics and try them. But don't give them to children until you read them yourselves. "Maya" would have made me even more rebellious and disobedient than the original cussedness of childhood does if I had read it when I was a child. "Heavenfolk" is supposed to be for adults, but "it has also been adopted as a book for children," so the publishers say.

CONFESSIONS

Helen R. Martin you know in a most friendly fashion from her Pennsylvania Dutch novels. Her latest is "The Snob," and it is the story of the headmaster of the Leitersville, Pa., academy and how his public speeches and his home life don't jibe. It presents what many feel is a very accurate picture of small town life. It is especially interesting under those circumstances to know what book Mrs. Martin would rather have written than any other. She said, when I asked her:

My dear Miss Butcher: Wishing is so cheap that while one is about it one might as well go it strong. Just twice in my life I have wished myself the author of a certain novel; the first time was when, in the egotism of my early girlhood, I felt the burning emotional thrill of "Jane Eyre" and saw in Jane a wondrous portrait of my own very inmost soul. The second time was when I read "Main Street" —and I hasten to add, before it became a best seller—so that I claim to be quite guiltless of any suspicion of mercenariness in my wish. The book fell into my hands when it was just off the press and was quite unknown—and with all my heart I wished that I could have been the creator of that most marvelously truthful and lifelike exposure—which later came to be the most execrated, the most unpopular popular novel ever written. To be the author of "Main Street" takes as much courage as to have been a pacifist during the war. But the hatred which that book has inspired is the measure of its truth. That is why I envy the author his glorious martyrdom, for having wounded our American complacency.

Sincerely yours,

Helen R. Martin.

Certain Success

Isabel Paterson, assistant literary editor of the new combination New York Tribune-New York Herald, has written a novel which is promised for immediate publication and which those who have read it say is a fine piece of work. If there is anything in the stars Mrs. Paterson is destined for a career not unlike that of the jaunty little gentleman who moved from a Corsican hut to the throne of the French empire. She has just had her horoscope read and the scientific seer says that she was born under exactly the same auspices as Napoleon, but that she is equipped for winning great success in the literary field. The horoscope, Mrs. Paterson says, ends with some mystic words in Arabic, which are equivalent to the winks the Roman augurs are said to have exchanged in passing.

Jauntiness and Joy Mark Fantastic Tale of Adventure

"Show a leg, you swabs!"

A black mustached and hearted dog of a man plying his nefarious craft? A ravaging pirate gathering about him his cruel and narsty aids? Not at all. The delicate and refined heiress of millions, the leading figure in a smart girls' school on Long island, speaking gently to her friends.

Christopher Morley and Don Marquis together have concocted a tale called "Pandora Lifts the Lid," which is as good as any adventure yarn you ever read—it starts out being fantastic adventure and turns out to be pretty nearly a tragic one, and all the time it's written with the jauntiness and joy which their most demanding admirers insist upon from these two of America's famous pushers of the pen. The manner of telling the tale is ingenious and makes the reader pant with excitement. Half of it is told by the uncle of the modern Pandora and the other half by one of Pan's most devoted henchwomen, and whenever things get too exciting to bear that one of them stops and leaves the reader to the other one to manhandle with words.

There isn't any person —unless he has just eaten crab meat au gratin and a cucumber salad and drunk a large and creamy glass of milk—who wouldn't find "Pandora Lifts the Lid" amusing, and such a one would, in his pangs, probably curse Mark Twain as a solemn bore. For a tale of utterly impossible and wild and reckless adventure, "Pandora Lifts the Lid" is what one might call a home run. It would be less majeste to tell the story, and we won't, except to say that it concerns the activities of the P. P. P. (Pandora's Perilous Pioneers), a group of seven young ladies in a fashionable boarding school, who were determined to save the world for socialism, whose motto was "Not debs, but Gene Debs" and who kidnaped their attractive English teacher (male, aged 26, late of Harvard), and "the richest man in the world," and met with adventures which they had not planned on meeting, to-wit, the modern pirate.

It isn't only the plot that's fetching, it's the way the story is told. The deft, light touch, the sort of thing so rare in American books, makes it a merry adventure to read it. I think it is much the most amusing thing that Mr. Morley has ever done—whichever part he wrote—and as for Mr. Marquis —his share of it, whichever it is—is as gay as "Hermione" and "Archie," and has much of "The Old Soak" philosophy in it.

No more—or we'll be lifting the lid ourselves.

Northwestern.

June 14th is to be the annual alumni day at Northwestern university and to laurel wreath the day this year there is to appear "The Story of Northwestern University," by Estelle Frances Ward. It is said to be not only a history of the university but a survey of the development of the middle west since the early fifties, when the university was founded. It ought to be a most interesting bit of reading, the tales of the college days of generations when instead of motors the rip-snorting youths used that most absurd of all conveyances, the high-wheeled bike, when bushels of peanuts were attractions for class parties and strawberries and cream the ultra extra added ones. Rose Macaulay in "Told By An Idiot," takes as her premise that youth has always been—in its current styles—jazzy and ginny, that it has always been a thorn and a terror to the older generation. She would find even in the bucolic peanuts and strawberries the unchanging instinct of youth for self-expression.

Baring Writes Longest Novel, Shortest Title

By Sidney Dark.

[Editor of John o' London's Weekly.]

Major Maurice Baring has achieved the distinction of writing the longest novel with the shortest title. This book, which has been talked about for some time, is called simply "C." Mr. Baring himself describes it as a biography in the form of a novel. It certainly resembles the former in size and price. It is half as large again as the average novel and double the price. And, like many biographies, it is prefaced with an introduction—or rather, two introductions: one by Mr. Baring, explaining how the life story of C., a young Englishman of good family and great promise, came into his hands; and another explaining how the actual writer of the biography received the materials for it from a dying man, who threatened to haunt him if he did not write the life of their mutual friend, C., whose real name was Caryl Hengrave, the third son of Lord and Lady Hengrave.

MAURICE BARING.

All this is rather confusing. I don't know why Mr. Baring could not have told his story without so much mystification. As it is, he lets us understand that the story of C.'s life was written by his friend Walter Wright, and that he did nothing but find a publisher for it.

Whoever is really responsible, the story is told in a matter of fact, straightforward way: certainly more like intimate biography than fiction. In the proper biographical manner it starts with the birth and infancy of its subject. Then we follow C from nursery to school, from Eton to Oxford, and then abroad. We are told all about his love affairs, his disappointments and ambitions. You would say that it is the most complete portrait of a young man ever put on paper; yet, at the end, after C's death, Mr. Baring—or, rather, Walter Wright, says: . . . "It leaves everything out, and it gives no idea, no real idea, of C. It leaves out all the one thousand little things which made him C."

One can only remark that if Mr. Baring cannot tell the story in some 730 pages no one can: even if the biographical novel is a new form for him. He is a many sided and very clever man. After making a name as a war correspondent in some of the "little wars" before the great war, he became an authority on Russian literature. He also wrote two delightful little books, "Dead Letters" and "Diminutive Dramas"; and, if I remember rightly, he once ran a weekly journal, which he printed himself in an old house in Westminster.

Last week a literary agent was offering the sonnet sequence for newspaper publication at a price of about $750, but I don't think there were any takers. Lord Alfred is no longer a "draw."

Michael Arlen, whose new novel, "The Green Hat," is to be published within the next month, has been seriously ill in London, but is now convalescent. . . . John Buchan has returned to his "Greenmantle" vein in a mystery novel to be called "The Three Hostages."

"Andorra," Bitter and Cruel, Is Memorable and Dramatic Tale

"Andorra," translated from the French of Isabelle Sandy, is said to have been the literary sensation of the year in France. It received most enthusiastic praise in England. It comes to us, removed as we are geographically and spiritually from its subject, a strange and not easily comprehensible tale, but one which has a certain power over us.

It is the story of the no man's land between France and Spain where the inhabitants are neither of one race nor the other, but of their own passionate and nationalistic selves, with ironbound traditions and customs which time has never made even to tremble. It is more a picture of a country and strange people than it is a novel, although its story is one of almost sinister power.

It tells of a family in which the oldest son is the murderer of his younger brother and would be the death of a younger one still if fate hadn't intervened. It tells of a girl who, in a country where a woman's virtue is her greatest riches, gives herself out of great love to that younger brother and who has her child and loses it and takes it back as a little servant for her younger children. It tells of the fierce power of the mountains, almost supernatural in their methods of blotting out lives.

It tells a wild, dramatic tale, and yet the feeling that the reader has is entirely one of calm and quietness, more like the feeling induced by "Maria Chapdelaine" than any other I can think of. "Andorra" is a bitter and a cruel and a passionate story, but backgrounded by mountains so much more bitter and cruel that its fiery reds pale into delicate rose against a still more fiery background. As such, it is a memorable piece of fiction.

Arthur Macheniacs.

There seems to be something of a to-do about Arthur Machen and his works. One publisher in the east says that Arthur Machen has written him repudiating the publication of the collections of his essays which have been appearing with a Chicago imprint, and Vincent Starrett, the editor of the Chicago volumes, says that he has letters from Mr. Machen in which that much touted gentleman not only approves of the collections but is pleased with their idea.

The point is probably that a man who for years has written without the slightest public success and who has had but two or three passionate adherers—of which Mr. Starrett has long been the most vociferous—suddenly finds himself by way of being a best seller in his métier and he is confused about the whole thing. The material which Mr. Starrett has collected might well be material which Mr. Machen himself had forgotten, for much of it is journalism, and it is a well known fact that journalists don't keep files of their immortal works. Mr. Starrett has performed the task, for years, of winnowing every Machen line. Well, anyway, a little bickering now and again among the literati only makes them seem more nearly like the rest of us. The latest of Vincent Starrett's labors for Mr. Machen are found in "The Glorious Mystery," not, as you might suspect, a tale of intrigue, but a collection of essays and short stories, the name essay of which deals with the mystery of the grail.

The Peace Plans.

You may have missed the announcement of the publication of "Ways to Peace," which includes twenty of the notable and representative peace plans submitted in the famous contest last year. Besides an introduction by Miss Esther Everett Lape, there is a foreword by Edward Bok. Among the plans included in the book are those suggested by Charles W. Eliot, David Starr Jordan and Gutzon Borglum.

Ingenious Notion Features Book of Lardner's Stories

"How to Write Short Stories" isn't at all what it sounds like. It is a collection of short stories written by Ring W. Lardner, with a preface called "How to Write Short Stories." The stories themselves are said to be samples. An ingenious notion in a way, this introduction, because it injects into a group of short stories the funniness that is Ring Lardner when he is being funny and that is not in the stories themselves at all, in most of them, that is. Each story has an explanation which has nothing whatever to do with the story and that isn't, in itself, very amusing, but the preface is funny. As for the stories, most of them are about baseball players, in the manner of the original "You know me, Al." There is one which is a wonder and that is such a surprise, such a bitter, cruel piece of writing that it makes you realise that Ring Lardner is something much more than a funny man.

It is called "Champion" and you mustn't miss it. There are two amusing ones, one about a ball player who picked a champion batter because he was a good tenor and another one called "Alibi Ike," that are great to read aloud.

What Shall I Be?

A book intended for young men about to look serious life in the face has just been published under the title "What Shall I Be?" It contains talks by men who have succeeded with distinction in their own industries and professions, is edited by Clayton H. Ernst and has an introduction by Dr. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard. The first article in it, the one about the young man and the profession of law, is written by Mitchell Follansbee of Chicago.

BOOK FELLOWS

The Bookfellow poetry hour tomorrow will be devoted to a daicussion of Irish free verse. This poetry hour will be preceded by a paper on Lady Gregory and the Irish revival by Miss Mary Morris at 4:30 p. m., and followed by a discussion of "Crime and Punishment," by Dostoevsky. The meeting is under the leadership of Mrs. Elizabeth Cavanaugh. The place of meeting is the north door of the Museum of Natural History in Lincoln park.

A Change of Companionship

As one anticdote for Spring fever, try getting away from the routine of things.

The change from people in the flesh to those in a strong, gripping story will prove a refreshing change of companionship.

THERE was nothing in the nickname "The Orphan" to explain why men's hands instinctively moved toward their holsters at the sound of the words. But if there ever was a hard-riding, quick-shooting, hell-raising, trouble-eating son-of-a-gun, it was the bearer of that pious and appealing monicker.

How, with every man's hand against him, and a price on his head, he sauntered into town to come a-courting of the sheriff's sister; how he found the man who made him an orphan; how he broke his word, and was forgiven; these are a few of the thrilling incidents with which this fast-moving story is packed.

REV. LARRABEE, NOTED EPISCOPAL MINISTER, DIES

Called "Father" Because of High Church Views.

REV. EDWARD A. LARRABEE. [Stein Photo.]

The Rev. Edward Allan Larrabee, D.D., 72 years of age, for twenty-five years prior to 1909 rector of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, La Salle and Elm streets, and since 1921 the associate rector, died last night at St. Luke's hospital.

His condition was considered serious when he was taken to the hospital nearly a month ago.

Dr. Larrabee was everywhere known as "Father" Larrabee because of his advocacy of high church principles and beliefs. He never married.

He was the author of "Sacramental Teaching of the Lord's Prayer," regarded as expressing the teachings of the Roman Catholic church. He was born in Chicago March 31, 1852, the son of C. R. Larrabee, treasurer of the Title Guarantee and Trust company. He was graduated from Racine college in 1873 and from the General Theological seminary, New York, in 1876.

Before coming to Chicago he held rectorships in Quincy and Springfield, Ill. He resigned as rector of Ascension church in 1909 to become dean of Nashotah house, Nashotah, Wis., although at the time it had only forty students. Three years ago he returned to Chicago and was made associate rector of the church in which eh was so long a rector.

He was the superior general of the Guild of All Souls. He went as a deputy to the general conventions of the Episcopal church in 1901, 1904, and 1907. He was given the degree of D.D. by Nashotah house. He was regarded as a scholar and a devout pastor.

NOTRE DAME TO HOLD CLOSING EXERCISES TODAY

South Bend, Ind., June 13.—[Special.]—The eightieth annual commencement of Notre Dame university, starting this morning and continuing through tomorrow afternoon, will be featured by the presence of 600 alumni, the largest number that has ever attended a commencement at the local university. Practically all of the former students were here tonight, when the annual program was opened with a concert by the Glee club in Washington hall and a dance at the Oliver hotel.

With the ending of the school year more than 400 seniors will pass from Notre Dame as undergraduates. They will be addressed by United States Senator W. N. Ferris of Michigan.

Tomorrow will be known as alumni day. In the morning a solemn high mass will be sung in the Church of the Sacred Heart by the Rev. Maurice Griffin, G. S. C., of the class of 1904, who is honorary president of the alumni association. The seniors' last visit, an exclusive class ceremony, will precede the class day exercises, scheduled for Washington hall at 10 o'clock. The class day ode will be read by James F. Hayes of Chicago. Arthur Nolan of Davenport, Ia., and Donald S. Gallagher of Ogdensburg, N. Y., respectively. Tomorrow afternoon the final athletic event of the year will take place with the varsity baseball team playing Michigan Agricultural college.

Sunday morning the annual procession will form in front of the main building and march to the Church of the Sacred Heart, where solemn pontifical high mass will be celebrated.

SCHOOL PUPILS HOLD EXERCISES FOR FLAG DAY

Children in Chicago's public schools observed Flag day yesterday. While today is the official anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes, ceremonies and programs were carried out in the schools yesterday.

Some schools presented patriotic tableaux and plays, while others held flag raising ceremonies in the playgrounds and parks. Cadet members of the R. O. T. C. held field day exercises. Many schools also had musical programs.

Today churches, lodges, and business institutions will hold brief ceremonies. In Grant park a celebration will be held under the auspices of the Chicago lodge of Elks. Members of the American Legion will address the gathering.

Police Ordered to Vacate Stables; Held Unsafe

Immediate vacation of the mounted police stables at Illinois and La Salle streets was ordered last night by Building Commissioner Frank Doherty, who declared the building unsafe in its present condition. The building is leased by the city from the Chicago Surface Lines.

Day After th' Night Before; That's Elmer

But Caterpillar Wonders Thrill Him Anyway.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Wasn't very ambitious. Were you? No. It was one of those nights after a big night; a night when you pick up a paper, magazine, or a book, slip on the head phones, and then don't want to be molested.

Realized that when at 6:50 I discovered myself on the speedy WLS unlimited train for a trip "down south and on the Pacific coast," the whistle tooting away to beat the band. More interesting than the scenery was a song by Glen Rowell, "I'm a Radio Bug"—turning knobs night and day; I don't get any sleep; haven't quarreled with my wife for a week because I haven't had a chance to talk; "I'm a Radio Bug."

The talk by the Rev. Julian S. Wadsworth, "America at Chauteau Thierry Today," at WMAQ, was extremely fascinating in subject, and enhanced by the speakers charming French accent, voice, or whatever word technically describes it. The only trouble, France is too far away for a two weeks' vacation trip.

There are some wonderful things in nature nearer home, anyhow, as we learned during Capt. Barnett Harris' popular scientific nature-study talk on "Sarnia Cecropia," which when simplified means the caterpillar-butterfly, etc., family. Nature is wonderful, even in America.

At 8:40 at W-G-N I picked up Helen Smith's voice as pretty as could be, and a few minutes later William Benson's. Both have delightful voices and I came near saying dainty voices, if I were not afraid of being misinterpreted. They made a delightful pair.

Turned to WMAQ at 9:25, finding a piano trilling clear up around eighth high C, then on down and around chromatically and otherwise to fifth low C and getting tragically serious. "How'd you like that?" flashing at little Johnny, one of our office boys. "All right," said Johnny in a bland, quiet way. "May I quote you as saying 'All right?'" "Yes."—Announcer, "First movement of D minor concerto, by Rubinstein." There's time; Johnny's young yet.

And over at KYW at 10:20 thought I was listening to an orchestra with chimes, cuckoo clocks, and some more playing "Jealous." Announcer explained that it was Bert Davis singing with "much, many ahd lots of variations." Anyhow, it was much, very much, and very clever.

Again at W-G-N at 10:30, Jimmie Wall singing "Bringing Home the Bacon."

But I'd better be "Bringing in Some Copy."

DON R. PATTERSON OF C. & E. I. RAILROAD WILL BE BURIED TODAY

D. R. PATTERSON.

Don Rush Patterson, who was manager of coal traffic for the C. & E. I. railroad, will be buried today from Oakwoods cemetery chapel at 3 p. m. He died in his apartment in the Gladstone hotel on Wednesday evening after a long illness. He is survived by his widow, Eva Patterson; his daughter, Mrs. S. D. Houx of Houston, Tex., and a son, Webb A. Patterson. He was born in Washington Courthouse, O., in 1856.

Mr. Patterson entered the service of the railroad in 1871 as a clerk and rose to the position of general superintendent. He had charge of coal traffic for thirty-two years.

MONDAY, JUNE 16, LAST DAY TO PAY U. S. INCOME TAX

Monday, June 16, is the last day for the payment of your income tax second installment. Mrs. Mabel T. Reinecke, collector of internal revenue for this district made the announcement of the extension in time yesterday. It is due to the fact that June 15, the usual final date, comes on Sunday, tomorrow, this year.

If you are an individual and not a corporation you can deduct 50 per cent from this payment, providing, of course, that you paid your first installment in full. Just cut in half what you paid the last time.

A word of warning to corporations. Corporations are not permitted to make the 25 per cent reduction accorded individuals or fiduciaries who are required to file returns on Forms 1040 or 1040A. Mrs. Reincke reports a number of corporations applying the reduction to their returns payable June 15, which is not permitted.

Missing Fishermen Found; Motor in Boat Disabled

A coast guard crew, searching for two fishermen whose relatives were afraid they had drowned, came upon the men yesterday five miles off the Winona street shore. Gustave Anderson, one of the fishermen, explained that their motor had become disabled. They drifted for several hours before it was repaired.

Mayor Hoan, Milwaukee, to Address Socialists Sunday

Mayor Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee will be one of four speakers Sunday at the annual picnic of the Cook county Socialists in Riverview park. Other prominent Socialists who will talk are George R. Kirkpatrick, one time candidate for vice president; Ross D. Brown, and Leon Krzycki, former sheriff of Milwaukee county.

Wife Sues Gansbergen, Naming Another Woman

Improper attentions were paid by Fred H. Gansbergen, wealthy real estate man, to Miss May Conley, according to a divorce bill filed in Superior court yesterday by Mrs. Mabel D. Gansbergen, 1363 Estes avenue. Gansbergen, who lives with his mother at 2144 Lincoln Park West, is a son of the late Frederick G. Gansbergen, former president of the Lincoln park board.

WORLD MARKS AT OLYMPIC TRIALS; PADDOCK BEATEN

Charley Finishes Fourth in 100 Meter Race.

EAST BEATS WEST

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 13.—[By the Associated Press.]—The east triumphed over the middle west and far west in the triangular sectional battle for qualifying places in the Olympic final track and field tryouts today.

Forty-four of the 108 qualifiers in the fourteen events in which trials were conducted represented the Atlantic seaboard, while the middle west placed thirty-seven and the far west twenty-seven. The south figured but twice among the surviving competitors.

College athletes upon whom much of America's Olympic hopes rest showed their mettle by capturing sixty-three qualifying places, as compared with thirty-four for their rivals wearing club colors.

Cambridge, Mass., June 13.—[By the Associated Press.]—American hopes of another international track and field triumph in the 1924 Olympic games at Paris were raised to a high pitch today when the pick of Uncle Sam's athletes, competing in the preliminaries of the final tryouts at the Harvard stadium, smashed two world's records in one of the most remarkable exhibitions of speed and brawn ever witnessed in a single meet.

Sensational performances in nearly every event exceeded the expectations of the most ardent Yankee supporters and with prospects of even more spectacular competition tomorrow America promises to enter the Olympic lists with an array of stars as formidable as any she has ever sent in search of Olympic conquest.

No better proof of the brilliant caliber of today's tests can be given than the fact that eleven performances bettered present Olympic records, while three others equalled international standards.

Scholz Beats Paddock.

The world's record feats that stood out brightly against this vivid background of athletic achievement were hung up by Jackson Scholz, veteran New York Athletic club sprinter, who established a new 200 meter mark of :21, and J. Coard Taylor, a clubmate and former intercollegiate champion, who created a new mark of :48 1-10 for the 400 meter run. Sharing the glory of this performance with Taylor was Ray Robertson of the Boston A. A., who was given another trial after he had failed to place in the eastern tryouts at New York last Saturday, came back to win his heat and equal Taylor's remarkable time.

Scholz, whose comeback to form has been an outstanding feat of the year, was the brightest of the meet's stars, for he also won two 100 meter trials in the Olympic record equaling time of :10 4-10 and in one of them conquered Charley Paddock, California flier and Olympic champion.

Toeing the mark with the flashiest array of sprinters ever gathered together in this country, Scholz fairly flew over the stadium track that was lightning fast under ideal weather conditions for record breaking. His time over the 200 meter distance clipped one-tenth of a second off the world's mark, set only two weeks ago by Eric Wilson, Iowa, who today showed his versatility by starring in the 400 meter run.

Judges Admit Paddock.

Paddock, who finished only fourth in his second 100 meter test and was included among tomorrow's finalists only by special decision of the judges, came back to show his old time speed in the 200 meter trials, in which he won his heat handily in :21 2-10, equaling the record he had held until it was beaten by Wilson at the Iowa City Olympic tryouts.

Paddock's defeat was one of the sensations of the day, for besides trailing Scholz in the semi-final heat, which the New Yorker won by a yard, the Pacific coast flash was behind Keither Lloyd of Southern California and Chester Bowman, Syracuse university speed star. Only inches separated Lloyd, Paddock, and Bowman, however, and the judges decided to admit the Californian to the final test after brief consideration. In his previous 100 meter heat Paddock just nosed out George Hill of Pennsylvania, the intercollegiate champion.

Leconey Beats Murchison.

Another champion met defeat in the 100 meter dash when Alf Leconey, former intercollegiate sprint king, vanquished Loren Murchison, the national titleholder, in the semi-finals. Frank Hussey, sensational New York schoolboy, came close to nipping Murchison with a brilliant closing spurt.

The 200 meter dash witnessed the most consistent brilliancy of the meet for victor in all four eclipsed the Olympic record time of :21 3-5. Besides Scholz and his world's record performance, the winners were Paddock, Murchison and Fred Lovejoy of the New York Athletic club, former Cornell captain and intercollegiate champion of 1923.

Performances in the 400 meter hurdles also were unusually fine with three western stars—Taylor of Grinnell, Brookins and Coulter of Iowa—all bettering the Olympic record of :54. Feats in the field events failed to measure up to the high standard set in track events, although the Olympic record for the discus throw was bettered by Gus Pope, Filliners A. C., with a toss of 150 feet 10¼ inches, and one by his team-mate, Tom Lieb, who broke the plate 148 feet 8¾ inches. Hubbard, Michigan colored star, jumped 25 feet ⅝ inch on his first trial, a brilliant leap that stood unequaled the rest of the afternoon.

Notable among those failing to qualify were Jake Driscoll, of the Boston A. A. and Tom Campbell, of the New York A. C. in the 400 meter run.

Woods and Waters

by BOB BECKER

CHOOSING THE CAMP SITE.

THE time is at hand when many city dwellers want to get back to nature by camping somewhere in the north woods. It sounds like a mighty easy stunt to pitch a tent and settle down in camp but there are a lot of tricks in this game.

Some of the most miserable people we have ever seen were in a party of tenderfeet that tried for the first time getting back to nature in a certain section of Oregon. Outside of being eaten up by mosquitos, eating impossible food and having no decent beds to sleep upon they were having a lovely time.

In choosing a camp site there are one or two simple rules which if kept in mind may mean the difference between comfort and discomfort. In the first place pure water is needed. Of that, more later. Second, wood that burns well unless you have a folding gasoline cook stove. Then poles for your tent or at least trees to which you can attach a rigid rope are required. An open spot for your tent is needed. It should be level or nearly so and slightly elevated above the rest of the territory. If you are going to stay on the site any length of time you will want a spot that has exposure to sunlight for at least part of the day.

That item of high ground for the tent is not to be overlooked. Getting drowned out by a heavy rain storm is no joke. Even for a one night stand it is a vital consideration. Once in Bolivia we took a chance on this point. We'll not soon forget that night and morning. At three o'clock a. m. in a tropical downpour the river flooded our camp, took away one canoe and forced our party to move 1,500 pounds of baggage to higher ground. No more low camping sites for us.

VAIL DRAWS POLE IN RACE

Altoona, Pa., June 13.—Pilots here for the 250 mile automobile race at the Altoona board speedway tomorrow drew for positions at a special drivers' meeting tonight. Ira Vail, dirt track veteran and only recently an A. A. A. driver, drew the pole position, No. 1.

The other drivers will line up in tiers of two cars each as follows:

Murphy, 2; Hill, 3; Harts, 4; Mourre, 5; Boyer, 6; De Paolo, 7; McDonogh, 8; Cooper, 9; Corum, 10; Armstrong, 11; Comer, 12; Elliott, 14; Morton, 15; Milton, 16; Wonderlich, 17.

The thirteenth position was left vacant. The race starts at 2:30 o'clock.

Joe Dandee Wins Bout from Sailor Freedman

Baltimore, Md., June 13.—Joe Dundee, Baltimore lightweight, won a decision over Sailor Freedman of Chicago in a twelve round bout here tonight. The men met at catch weights. Freedman started slowly. He showed some speed in the third round, but failed to win a round until the eighth. He also carried the ninth, but Dundee won the remainder. There were no knockdowns.

CREWS DEFY RAIN TO HOLD DRILL FOR POUGHKEEPSIE RACE

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 13.—Sweeping through a pelting rain, the six college crews training here for the intercollegiate regatta on June 17 took their afternoon practice today. The steady rain quelled the Hudson and the coaches took advantage of the placidity. Although the workouts were not long, they were brisk, and each of the eights finished in good time.

Tomorrow will afford the last opportunity before the regatta for the coaches to stage time trials. All are planning to go over the course. Cornell and Syracuse have yet to go the distance here against time, while Washington has not gone at top speed.

Washington continues to be beset with trouble. Luft, number 4 oar, was taken to Vassar hospital, where physicians said that he was coming down with typhoid fever.

Wisconsin did only eight miles today, as the men were taking their examinations.

MOLLA BEATEN BY MISS RYAN IN NET MEET

BECKENHAM, England, June 13.—[By the Associated Press.]—Miss Elisabeth Ryan today defeated Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, 6—3, 6—3, in the semi-finals of the Kent county championship. The courts were wet and slippery and Mrs. Mallory seemed handicapped by the rubber soles of her shoes, which would not grip the turf like Miss Ryan's steel pointers.

All of the visiting Americans are now eliminated from the tournament, Mrs. Mallory having defeated Mrs. George W. Wightman, 7—5, 6—2, while Miss Kathleen McKane defeated Mrs. Marion Jessup, 6—0, 6—3. Miss Ryan meets Miss McKane in the finals.

Princeton, N. J., June 13.—Richard T. Shackleford of Baltimore has been elected captain of the Princeton 1925 lacrosse team.

IN MOTORDOM By J. L. JENKINS

EIGHTEEN miles an hour was the average speed of the fifty-eight automobiles involved in the motor fatalities in Chicago during May, according to a detailed report issued yesterday by Ald. Frank J. Tomczak, chairman of the mayor's safety comission. The highest speed of any car involved at the time of accident was found to be thirty-five miles an hour, and the lowest speed six miles an hour. A total of thirty-two passenger cars were involved. Other vehicles included ten trucks, four taxicabs, one motorbus, four railroad trains and cars, and seven cars that failed to stop after accidents.

Reckless driving and carelessness on the part of pedestrians caused the accidents rather than high driving speeds, the commission points out.

Comparison of the death lists this year with last shows that 158 people had been killed in the first five months of 1924 and 227 in the corresponding period a year ago. Three less automobile deaths occurred in the city in May this year than in May 1923.

State highway engineers of Connecticut are planning a new road service June 20 when they expect to safeguard and route more than 10,000 automobiles bound over state roads to the annual Yale-Harvard boat race at New London. Uniformed police officers will be stationed at detours to guide traffic and the department will issue last minute directions as to the best automobile routes for the fans.

FOUR CREWS QUALIFY IN OLYMPIC TRIALS

Philadelphia, Pa., June 13.—Before more than 10,000 rain soaked spectators Yale, navy officers, University of Pennsylvania, and the navy varsity qualified for the final in the eight oared shell event in the Olympic trials on the Schuylkill river today. The first three named crews negotiated the mile and a quarter in record time for the course.

Pennsylvania Barge club, with Harold C. Wilson stroking, Leon L. Butler in the bow seat, and E. F. Jennings coxswain, won the pair oared final tryouts by a few feet from the University of Pennsylvania. Undine Barge club finished third.

Coach Frank Muller's Bachelor's Barge club four oared shell qualified for the trip to Paris when it won a thrilling race from the Lone Star Boat club of New York by a half length. The Pennsylvania Barge club, runner-up in the last Olympics, was third; Penn Athletic club, fourth, and Vesper B. C., last.

Jack Kelly and his cousin, Paul V. Costello, Philadelphia, 1920 Olympic doubles champions, earned the right to defend their title abroad when they won the double sculls from Gilmore and Hapgood of the Bachelor's Barge club by a little more than a half length.

Breaking the Schuylkill course record for a mile and a quarter, Yale's great varsity eight won the first elimination heat by three-quarters of a length from the navy varsity. Yale was timed in 6:09 3-5, two and two-fifths seconds better than the old mark, established by the West Philadelphia Boat club two years ago. Summaries:

Eliminations single sculls, over mile and a quarter course—First, Godman, Union B. C., Boston; second, Fitzpatrick, Malta; third, Vogt, Vesper B. C.; fourth, Gude, Potomac B. C., Washington; fifth, Crooks, Union B. C., Boston. Time, 8:21 4-5.

Pair oared shells—1st, Pennsylvania Barge club [1, Leon L. Butler; 2, Harold C. Wilson; coxswain, E. F. Jennings]; second, University of Pennsylvania; third, Undine B. C. Time, 7:50 1-5.

Eight oared shells [first heat]—Won by Yale university [Carpenter, Sheffield, Wilson, Rockefeller, Miller, Kingsbury, Spock; Lindley, stroke]; Navy varsity, second; Navy junior varsity, third; Undine Barge club, Philadelphia, fourth. Time, 6:9 3-5 [new record for Schuylkill mile and quarter course].

Eight oared shells [second heat]—Won by Navy Officers [Lee, Graves, Harris, Higgins, Sandborn, Bolles, Gallagher, Frawler [stroke]; University Pennsylvania, second; Massachusetts Institute of Technology, third; New York A. C., fourth. Time, 6:07 1-5. [New record for mile and quarter, Schuylkill course.]

Four oared shells [finals]—Won by Bachelors' Barge club, Philadelphia [Mitchell, Weisford, Gerhardi, Jellinek (stroke)]; Lone Star Boat club, New York, second; Pennsylvania Barge club, third; Penn Athletic club, fourth. Time, 6:49 4-5.

Double sculls [final]—Won by Penn Athletic club, Philadelphia [Costello and Kelly]; Bachelors' Barge club, Philadelphia, second; Duluth B. C., third. Time, 6:34.

CHICAGO DERBY ENTRY LIST TO CLOSE TONIGHT

Eleventh hour entries for the Chicago Derby which is to be run at Hawthorne July 12 as the feature of the racing season opening July 3 will be made today by horsemen in different parts of the country. The entry list officially closes at midnight tonight.

With such stars as Black Gold, Altawood, Beau Butler, Modest, Chilhowee and others already entered, the race promises to take its place as one of the three year old classics of the year. Mad Play from the Rancocas stables, winner of the $50,000 Belmont stakes of last Saturday, will likely be entered today, General Manager Joseph A. Murphy of the Chicago Business Men's Racing association said yesterday. He estimated the Derby would attract a total of close to 75 nominations.

Entry lists for the $5,000 Independence Day and Labor Day handicaps also close at midnight tonight.

Toledo Boxing Commission Releases Referee Pecord

Toledo, O., June 13.—[Special.]—Ollie Pecord, Toledo, referee, who was the third man in the ring in the Dempsey-Willard fight, was given his release as referee by the Toledo boxing commission here today. No reason was assigned for letting Pecord out.

In the Wake of the News

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Furnishings and decorations of Chicago homes of sixty years ago were far different from today. On front and back parlors were heavy, gay carpets covering every inch of the floor, tacked down till housecleaning time. Stiff looking furniture, all alike, was covered in horsehair.

Long lace curtains, hanging from a heavy cornice affair at the two front windows on each side of the big mirror, extended from floor to ceiling. There were the old fashioned square piano, marble top center table, with family Bible and album thereon, with another smaller table on which were wax flowers or artificial fruit under an oval glass cover.

Often the pictures were crayons of beloved ones—stolid looking in cumbersome frames. On the marble mantel over the open fireplace were china ornaments in figures such as "The Shepherdess," "Girl at the Well," a horseman on his steed, or mayhap a hunter with dog or gun.

There was a what-not in the corner with sea shells and bric-a-brac. Over the inner door in a frame was the motto, in colored yarn on cardboard, "God Bless Our Home." The fancy nickel plated heating stove also had its place in winter, with cheery red light showing through the isinglass, and there were also the artistic lamps that burned kerosene, hanging from fancy center decorations at the ceiling.

The Unromantic Butcher—True Tale.

I walked into the country butcher shop, carrying a bunch of tulips. The young butcher, Bill, and his wife were working industriously. But she stopped weighing lard, sniffed the flowers, and said, "Gee, ain't they grand! Why don't you get me some?"

But Bill kept on grinding round steak and didn't answer. The frogs were croaking outside, the pussy-willows blowing, the spring breeze was wafting Romance right into the store. So, urged on by its presence, I said, "Why don't you buy your wife some flowers, Bill?"

He stopped grinding and patted a large mound of ground meat. "Ho, ho!" he laughed—and at the sound of his voice the frogs and pussies and breeze all stopped playing. And even the little hamburgers flattened out hopelessly. "Ho, ho! Buy her flowers? What for? She ain't dead yet!" Maisie.

SHADE PUTS IN BUSY DAY FOR SMITH BOUT

TRIBUNE DECISIONS

Decision of the Tribune boxing representatives are:

At Aurora—Danny Kramer beat Willie Ames [10]; Ronnie Bass beat Ted Joyce, referee disqualified Joyce [2]; Willie Brown shaded George Duscxman [6]; Joe Glick beat Frankie Schaeffer [10]; Frankie Sarno beat Joe Pick [6]; Jack McCarthy beat Billy Stearns [6].

AT BOSTON—Frank Moody beat Jock Malone [10].

At Toledo, O.—Tommy Bundy won by a foul over Joe Mandel [6].

At Baltimore—Joe Dundee beat Sailor Freidman [15].

Dave Shade, the sensational California welterweight who meets Warnie Smith of Oklahoma in the main event of the boxing show at East Chicago on Monday night, put in a strenuous day at the Arcade yesterday. He went on the road in the morning and boxed six rounds in the afternoon.

The California sparred three rounds with Charley Lindford and as many with Harry Robarts. In both bouts his sparring partners hardly put a glove on him and he appears to have lost none of his former cleverness.

Joe Coffey, president of the Arena Boxing and A. C., which will conduct the ten round bout between Middleweight Champion Harry Greb and Young Stribling at Michigan City on July 4, announced the bout is definitely on and that both boxers will open training camps near the arena the latter part of next week. Matchmaker Floyd Fitzsimmons has several good matches in view, including one between Sammy Mandell and Mike Dundee, another which will bring together Connie Curry and Abe Goldstein, bantamweight champion, and Bud Taylor and Irish Johnny Curtin.

AMES AIMS WITH BROKEN PAW AND DAN KRAMER WINS

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Danny Kramer, the Philadelphia "destroyer," won the ten round decision over Willie Ames of Akron, O., in the main bout of the boxing show at Aurora last night, but Ames was the big hero of the show even in defeat. Ames broke his right hand in the third round and was forced to battle Kramer for seven rounds in this big handicap and the Philadelphia boy piled up a big margin when Ames could punch only with his left.

DANNY KRAMER. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Ames suffered the broken hand when he landed a stiff right hook on Kramer's elbow in the third session. Willie was hurt, and he showed it plainly but nevertheless he battled on. His left hand was his only hope for the final seven rounds and although force of habit brought his right hand up and cocked into position for a punch several times he didn't dare to let go a right swing.

Kramer a Clever Boxer.

Kramer used his stiff right hand jabs to a good advantage on Ames and in the late rounds piled up a good margin of lead. Try as he might, however, he couldn't put Willie back and the Akron boy was there at the finish, hurt, but ready and willing to go on.

Kramer showed himself a clever boxer, while the game showing of Ames made a big hit with the 2,000 fans who paid some $6,000 to see the show. They weighed in at 128 pounds.

In the semi-windup between Bennie Bass, the local Hebrew boy, and Ted Joyce of Toronto, Canada, Canadian bantamweight champion, Referee Dave Barry stopped the contest in the second round and disqualified Joyce. The Canadian battler refused to come out of his shell and stand up with Bass. He crouched and retreated and Referee Barry cautioned and threatened him throughout the initial round.

Glick Beats Schaeffer.

Joe Glick was too clever for Frankie Schaeffer, the Stock Yards 132 pounder. Glick won easily displaying a great left hand punch and outstepping Schaeffer all of the way.

In the opening bout, Willie Brown, the former amateur 123 pound champion, shaded George Duscxman of Chicago in four rounds. Frankie Sarno of Elmhurst won the decision over Joe Pick, Akron, O., in six rounds. Sarno knocked Pick down for counts in the third and fourth brounds, but couldn't land a K. O.

Jack McCarthy, Chicago Harp, won the decision over Billy Stearns of Minneapolis, who was substituted for Jimmy Gorey who is ill, in six rounds.

DUNCAN BEATS JIM BARNES IN BRITISH GOLF

BY TED RAY.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

GLEN EAGLES, Scotland, June 13. —In the presence of the largest crowd which has followed any match in the 1,000 guinea tournament so far, Jim Barnes, the famous American golfer, this afternoon was beaten by George Duncan, 2 and 1, in the semi-final stage.

Throughout the match a tremendous crowd followed the players, rushing helter skelter from tee to green to gain points of vantage. Hopes ran high and hopes ran low as Duncan's golf fluctuated here, but he has a knack of showing golf now and then which would be hard to equal. There were times this afternoon when he showed streaks of Duncanesque madness, which many will prefer to call golfing brilliance or genius. Jim was beaten, but he played bravely and he gave a display which was far from disgracing him.

Wins Morning Round.

Previously Barnes had one of the struggles of his career against Aubrey Boomer to qualify for the semi-final round. The Jersey islander played superbly from tee to tee, but the American had a powerful iron. It was a tight match and the termination was witnessed by nearly 2,000 spectators crowded around the home green in a hush and silence. Barnes won, 1 up.

Right at the start of the Duncan match Barnes' shortness cost him a hole. But all that weakness was not on the side of the American, who played the second with splendor and squared up. A little slice luck came the way of the visitor at the third hole. There his ball looked like it was careening madly across the green, but it struck a pin and fell dead.

At the fourth Jim took four to get up to the green, and Duncan had no difficulty in winning the hole to square.

Barnes' Putter Fails.

A couples of halves came after that, but a cut drive into a bunker on the seventh, named "Little Kink," cost Barnes that hole and a putting weakness asserted itself at the eighth and Duncan won again.

Barnes turned two down but the prospects improved slightly for him as he took the tenth. He lost the fourteenth and fifteenth, however, and was dormie.

However, all was not just yet over. Playing earnestly, Jim took the sixteenth, but a half in the seventeenth gave the Aberdonian the match.

In the other semi-final match Angel Delatorre carried Abe Mitchell to the eighteenth green before the latter won out. Tomorrow Mitchell and Duncan play for the title.

STRAW HAT RACE TO BE FEATURE OF NO. SHORE EVENTS

Sixteen automobile racers will leave the starting line at North Shore speedway, Peterson road and Lincoln avenue, tomorrow attired in straw headgear. The event is called the Straw Hat Derby and the lids are fastened to the head by means of garters. The winner will be the pilot who retains his hat the longest. He will receive a silver trophy.

"Fuzzy" Davidson, midwest dirt track champion, won a similar event at Los Angeles early in the spring from a field which included Ralph De Palma. Davidson will be the opponent of Cliff Woodbury, champion of Chicago, in a five mile match race. Another dual contest at five miles will be fought between Curley Young and Eethan Wenneston. Young won the fifty mile race at North Shore on Memorial day.

Four other events on the card for tomorrow are qualifying races at ten miles for light and heavy cars in which six will qualify in each for the final fifteen mile and a file mile consolation.

ALLEN BETTERS AUTO RECORD

Leslie "Bugs" Allen bettered the western dirt track mile record three times at Roby speedway yesterday. While trying out his Frontenac, Allen was clocked by three timers in :48 4-5, :48 3-5, :48. The record is held by Gus Schroeder at :51 1-5 seconds. This makes him a dangerous contender for the five mile honors in tomorrows race and indicates that phenomenal time may be expected.

A series of sprint auto races will feature the program. There will be four 5 mile events for cars under and over 200 cu. in. piston displacement, and a 25 mile race for the best six cars in each classification, making 45 miles of racing in all.

NOTES OF THE CUE ROOMS.

In the opening games of the roomkeepers' three cushion billiard tournament being conducted under the auspices of the Illinois Billiard association Kennedy defeated Kessler, 30 to 23, and Sobanski defeated Holzer, 30 to 16.

MAIL VOTE TO FIX STATUS OF HARRY KASKEY

The Harry Kaskey case remains unsettled. The special investigating committee met last night and quizzed Kaskey on the charges of professionalism on which he was barred last month by the International Skating union. It was voted to ask that a mail vote be taken of the members of the International union to lift the suspension of Kaskey until the entire case can be laid before the international members Nov. 16.

The committee also voted to lift the suspension on William Steinmetz, Edward Reed, Roy McWhirter, and Alfon ward Reed, Roy McWhirter, and Alfon James, local racers, who were barred for failure to present accounts of moneys given them for skating trips.

HANDLING PEACH TREES.

HANDLING peach trees during the season when the fruit crop is short is often a problem for orchard owners. Practically all the peach buds were killed in the extreme southern part of Indiana and the crop will be light in the peach belt around Centralia, Ill. In these sections growers will have plenty of time to prune and fertilize orchards and get ready for next year.

Fruit men often differed as to the best method of pruning peach trees. Some favor heavy trimming, especially during seasons when the crop is light. Instead of heavy pruning other peach raisers believe it is best to thin trees each year.

The general practice of some of the best growers is to follow a plan of pruning during the first four or five seasons where they head back the trees moderately and thin liberally. After that they keep the trees open by careful thinning.

HANSON, BROWN TOP "AD" GOLF TOURNEY

Sharpshooters yesterday at Briergate in the monthly tournament held by the Western Advertising Golfers' association were R. H. Hanson, low qualifier, with 49 for the nine hole round, and A. C. Perry, who won the low gross prize with 42—84—126 over the twenty-seven hole route.

After a triple tie between L. L. Northrup, Malcolm MacHarg, and Guy H. Abbott, president of the association, at 115 for the low net trophy, the "prexy" had the luck in the draw.

Northrup won the first flight prize, with 24 chips. Perry, who was runnerup, with 12, waived the second prize on acount of having won the low gross trophy. Flight winners were:

FIRST—L. L. Northrup, 24; A. C. Perry, 12.

SECOND — Malcolm MacHarg, 27; F. T. Bangs, 2.

THIRD—R. Richardson, 25; E. A. Ecke, 18.

FIFTEENTH—P. V. Troup, 23; F. F. Parsons, 11.

The Ravisloe Country club over the week end will feature its biggest event of the season, the annual interclty tournament. Starting today, Ravisloe, Losantiville of Cincinnati, Westwood of St. Louis, and Winding Hollow of Columbus will play teams of eight men and four women. The men will compete at fifty-four holes, the first eighteen being played today and the last thirty-six tomorrow. The women will play eighteen holes each day.

The Flossmoor Country club today will entertain members of Midlothian in a return match, following Flossmoor's visit last year to Midlothian. The golf event will be a team match, with eighty players competing on each side.

John Walsh of the Tavern Golf club, who during the summer holds forth as professional at the Wequetonsing Golf club, Harbor Springs, Mich., will leave tonight for the summer resort.

With the famous Duncan sisters, Topsy and Eva, on hand to lend a dramatic touch, Chicago's newest daily free golf course, the Midcity, located at Grace street and North Western avenue, will be opened to the public today. The course is 6,100 yards.

EPINARD TO SAIL ON AMERICAN TRIP EARLY IN JULY

PARIS, June 13.—Pierre Wertheimer has cancelled all Epinard's engagements in England and intends sailing with his famous horse direct to New York from Havre during the early part of July.

Wertheimer said the horse is coming round first rate and has suffered no ill effects from the match race with Sir Gallahad and the other engagement wherein he met defeat by Premonte at Long Champ.

"My plans for my American trip remain unchanged," said M. Wertheimer.

Long wear is but one of its good points!

Blue serge is always good style. And for traveling is anything ever more satisfactory?

Holds its crease, whisks easily, and with a pair of white or gray flannels doubles as an extra! Good investment, any time, provided the serge and tailoring is up to the standard set for our "convenient corner"!

Prices moderate.

BIKERS SET FOR TRIB DERBY TOMORROW

A full list of officials, the original lineup selected for the races May 25, but which were postponed on account of rain, will handle the third annual twenty-two mile handicap bicycle race of THE TRIBUNE A. A. at Humboldt park tomorrow morning. The race will start at 10 o'clock from Kosciuszko monument, at Humboldt boulevard and North avenue.

Arthur Gardner, former professional sprints champion, again will be on hand to referee the race, while Julian T. Fitzgerald will again act as starter.

Mahlke Chief Clerk.

Edward Mahlke will be the chief clerk with James McWhirter, chief timer; Paul J. Staff, chief of the checkers; Robert J. Little, chief judge, and Harry Berg in charge of the numbers and registration.

Riders are warned to be on hand early to receive their numbers. While the race starts at 10 o'clock, the number clerks will be ready to give out the cards at 9 o'clock and the distribution will be stopped promptly at 9:50.

Ten Recruits in Race.

Ten circuits of the oval drive in Humboldt park will be made and prizes will be awarded the first twelve place men and the eight riders having the best corrected times for the race. The prizes are merchandise orders on Marshall Field & Co. and the riders can select their own prizes.

SQUARES' RALLIES FAIL AND NASH WINS, 7 TO 6

Kenosha, Wis., June 13.—[Special.]—Despite the popular superstition of Friday the 13th, the Nash Motormakers were undaunted and defeated Logan Squares of Chicago, 7 to 6, in the first game of a series of three games here today.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Boston, Mass., June 13.—[Special.]—They're back in first place tonight. Tony Kaufmann returned to his big league stride today and the Cubs romped off with another ball game, defeating the Braves, 5 to 1, while the Reds kicked the daylights out of the Giants down in Gotham, and now Killefer's Kids are sunning themselves at the top of the percentage column, leading the champs by half a combat.

This is just what Mr. Killefer desired to happen, though he has a feeling that his young boys may not hold the top place clear through to the finish. He wants them to have some experience, however, in that thrilling position so that they will get accustomed to it without getting nervous. By having them at the top in June it is quite possible for them to realize that sitting on the top round of the ladder is nothing over which to worry, and if they get shoved off before long they will still be able to clamber back before the season ends.

Kaufmann Back in Form.

The return of Kaufmann to pitching form was as good news to Killefer as the fact of jumping into the lead. He has great faith in his big, speedy right hander because he has more stuff than any man on the staff. Recently he lost control, and lost his temper with it, and for a time was something of a hanger on. Today he went through the game in fine fashion, always displaying reserve power and steadiness when in trouble. Nine swats were made off him, but they were scattered all through the game and were good for only the one run. He walked three batters, and at no time displayed a fit of temper, though at times things appeared to break badly for him.

Mr. Sterling Stryker was chosen to hurl against Tony and wasn't hit so hard. The Cubs tapped him at critical times. He gave way to a pinch hitter in the sixth, and young Mr. McNamara finished.

Cubs Start in Hurry.

Right in the first inning the Cubs became rampant and belted in a couple of runs. Statz opened with a single, and Hollocher sacrificed. Grantham sloughed a single to left that scored Jigger, and Grantham scooted to second on the peg home, then he walloped in when Cotter poled a double to left.

The Braves threatened in the second and third, but each time were suppressed. But in the fourth Bancroft's man tallied their lone run on Stengel's single and Padgett's double after one was out. They threatened once more in the sixth, and then curled up and died.

Hartnett's single, a pass to Statz, and double by Grantham put two Cubs around in the fifth and clinched the victory. A run for good measure was added in the ninth on singles by Griggsby, Heathcote, and Kaufmann.

SENATORS, 6; BROWNS, 4.

MOON MULLINS—A SLIGHT MISUNDERSTANDING

Tiger Game Forfeited to Yanks After Free for All

Detroit, Mich., June 13.—Intense rivalry between the New York Yankees and the Detroit Tigers culminated in a riot in the ninth inning of today's game. Members of both teams and fans who crowded on to the field participated in the mêlée. When the disorder became so intense that police were unable to clear the playing field Umpire Evans forfeited the game to New York, 9 to 0.

According to some baseball experts, the Detroit management is liable to a fine of $1,000 for its failure to clear the field so the game could be finished.

The ill feeling between the two teams had its inception in a game at the Yankee stadium on the last eastern invasion of the Tigers. During that game a fist fight between Blue and McNally was staged and both were banished from the game.

First Hint of Trouble.

The first hint of trouble came in the seventh inning, when Babe Ruth unseen by the crowd, straight-armed Pitcher Bert Cole in a play at first base. Two innings later came the breaking point.

Cole was on the mound and he hit Right Fielder Meusel in the back with a pitched ball. Ruth, the preceding batter, had narrowly escaped being hit by a ball on two occasions.

Meusel threw down his bat, rushed at Cole, and swung, but missed. Meanwhile the Tiger players had congregated, and Umpires Evans and Ormsby dragged Meusel away before he could follow up his missed swing. Ruth ran into the center of the diamond just as Manager Cobb of the Tigers came in, and they had a heated exchange of words.

Ruth charged the Tiger pitchers were attempting to "bean" the New York players. This Cobb vehemently denied and after order was temporarily restored, Umpire Evans banished Meusel and Cole from the game. The players had just about returned to their respective positions when Meusel, accompanied by "Bullet Joe" Bush, went over to the Tiger dugout.

Free-for-All Fight.

Meusel, it is charged, made a swing at one of the players and Third Baseman Haney countered. By this time the disorder was general and all Yankee and Tiger players were fighting among themselves.

This was the signal for the irate fans to swarm upon the field. Police men rushed from all corners of the park, but they were unable to cope with the situation. Fist fights were common and the fans and policemen were battling each other.

The policemen and even-minded fans attempted to crowd the frenzied fans from the field. Their efforts were of no avail and encounters broke out afresh. At this point Umpire Evans seeing that peace could not be restored officially declared the game forfeited to the Yankees who were leading, 10 to 6.

The box score at the time the game was halted. Score:

BAN AWAITS REPORT

"I DO not care to make a statement at this time," President B. B. Johnson of the American league declared last night when told of the riot at the Detroit-New York ball game at Detroit yesterday. "I haven't received a report from Umpire Evans, but probably will get his version of the affair in the mail tomorrow. I am, indeed, sorry that such an affair should have occurred. As far as the Detroit club being liable to a fine of $1,000 for its failure to clear the field and preserve order, I do not recall any such rule."

No such disorder as that which prevented completion of the Yanks-Tigers game is recorded in modern baseball history.

Batting and fielding performances in yesterday's game will go into the official averages but the score of 9 to 0 will stand in the records.

REDS KNOCK GIANTS OUT OF LEAGUE LEAD

New York, June 13.—New York surrendered first place to the Cubs today by losing to Cincinnati in ten innings, 4 to 1, as Chicago beat Boston. With the bases full in the tenth, Dean threw wild and Roush, batting for Fowler, singled for the winning runs. Previous to this frame the game had been a pitching duel with Rixey, Watson and Dean receiving splendid support.

EVERS TO REJOIN WHITE SOX TODAY

John Evers, manager of the White Sox, will rejoin his team today, according to a wire sent by him from Troy, N. Y., yesterday. The Trojan, who was operated on for appendicitis four weeks ago, offered no information as regards his condition, but he probably will be in shape to relieve Eddie Collins of the managerial burdens.

Sox Lose Tough Game to Connie Mack's Athletics, 7-6

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

A fluke hit that could just as well have been a double play, and a wild chuck to first by George Connally put the White Sox on the bum yesterday and the Mackmen grabbed the third of the series to end the south siders' winning streak at three straight. The affair finished 7 to 6, the losers making it close by trying to redeem themselves in the ninth with a rally that died out after three runs had gone across.

For a while the matinee had all the earmarks of a Sox triumph. They helped themselves to a cluster of three runs in the third and with Doug McWeeny twirling skillfully the lead looked sufficient, but wasn't. The Athletics landed on Doug with both feet for two runs in the fourth, gave him the air with a run that tied it at 3 apiece in the sixth and then won it in the seventh when four scored on some real hits, a bit of luck and the aforementioned heave by Connally who had relieved McWeeny in the previous session.

Macks Get Busy.

The trouble in that turbulent seventh started with Perkins converting one of Connally's offerings into a triple. Roy Meeker, who did Connie's hurling until the second man was out in the ninth, then singled Perkins across the plate and Dykes produced another hit, putting runners on first and second.

This was where the fluke blow came in. Riconda hit one fairly hard at Collins and a double killing was possible, but the pill took an unexpected hop, squirted off the manager's shin for a single and let Meeker score. Welch followed with a sacrifice bunt and in grabbing it Connally skidded on his pants but he made the throw and it went into right field, Dykes and Riconda checking in at the plate.

The three runs hung up by the Sox in the third weren't exactly legitimate. After McWeeny had walked and stolen second Collins notched a single to left and McWeeny headed for the plate. Miller's return throw beat him to the station, but Perkins let the ball bounce through him—so the run scored and Collins went as far as third. Then Sheely, Falk, and Kamm connected safely and two more counted.

Double Play Kills Chances.

The rally went to smash when Barrett was called out on strikes. This didn't suit the young shortstop and he was so careless with his language that Ump Rowland chased him. That necessitated bringing Ray French into action and the latter had a delightful chance in the eighth to make a name for himself, but he tapped into a double play with the bases filled.

There was nothing phoney about the manner in which the Sox forced young Meeker's departure in the ninth. The kid left hander passed Crouse for a starter, and after a couple of forceouts the home gang turned loose in violent fashion. Collins singled, Mostil doubled, and Sheely singled. That put three across and left Sheely on first with the tying run, but "Lefty" Baumgartner relieved Meeker and ended it by pitching one ball to Falk.

The two Mack runs in the second were due to clean blows by Welch, Hauser, and Miller. A pass figured in the tying run in the sixth, Riconda getting the ticket and going home on Hauser's hit.

EVANDER CHILDS WIN N. Y. PREP TITLE; TO BE CHICAGO'S FOE

NEW YORK, June 13.—[Special.]—Although "Bots" Nekola was unable to pitch for Evander Childs High school today on account of injury, the Bronx nine won the P. S. A. L. championship at South field by defeating New Town, 10 to 7, in a long and free hitting game during a steady rain. As a result of its triumph, the Orange and Black will journey to Chicago to meet the Windy City champs on June 23 in the annual intercity contest.

SCHURZ HUMBLES ENGLEWOOD, 11-4 IN PREP BATTLE

BY FRANK SCHREIBER.

The championship of the Chicago high school's baseball league remains in a tangle. Shoving two runs across in the seventh inning and then coming back with five more in the eighth, Schurz, which looms as the favorite for the right to face Evander Childs high of New York in the big inter-city championship contest at Cub Park on June 23, pulled the expected yesterday and defeated Englewood, 11 to 4, at Niesen Park.

The net result is that Schurz' right to the title hinges on its game with McKinley at NiesenP ark Monday afternoon. A Schurz victory will give the north side lads complete ownership of the title, while if McKinley, which defeated Bowen, 9 to 7, yesterday at White City Park, cops a triple tie involving Englewood, McKinley and Schurz would result.

All Thrills and Chills.

For a high school ball game, the Schurz-Englewood clash yesterday had all of the thrills and chills, cheers and tears of a typical championship contest. The umpires were also in hot water most of the time with the rival camps fighting for every point.

A parade of enthusastic Schurz boys started immediately after the contest. On the shoulders of eight huskies, rested a long black box while a wreath of flowers on top over the false face of a dummy. "Here lies Englewood's title hopes" was the placard on the box. There were some 2,000 fans from both schools present with Schurz holding the majority by six cow bells.

Cripe Goes the Route.

LaMar Cripe went the route for the victors. He is a husky blond little right hander who heaves a neat curve ball and pitches in perfectly to his catcher's signals. Nine Englewood boys fanned, all swinging at high balls which in some cases would have been the fourth ball. Score:

BOYCOTT ON U. S. FILMS ENDED BY TOKIO MOVIES

Police Stop Peddling of Anti-American Bills.

BY RODERICK MATHESON.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

TOKIO, June 13.—At a meeting today of American agents, movie proprietors and police the boycott on American films was practically called off. The police promised full protection to houses showing American pictures.

Distributors of anti-American hand bills today were stopped by the police, who arrested those refusing to obey their orders.

While apparently the word has been passed out to stem the boycott tide it is rapidly becoming general throughout the country. Leading merchants and business men have issued warnings that America is in a position to take effective trade reprisals by refusing to buy silk, tea or crockery, which is the bulk of Japanese exports, but nevertheless many Tokio stores are displaying signs announcing that they have no American goods. German and British goods only are displayed in many show windows.

Geisha Girls Join Boycott.

The geisha guild in Kobe today joined the Tokio geshia guild in its boycott of American toilet goods.

A crowd from Tokio scattered anti-American hand bills in Yokohama yesterday, demanding that not a single cent be spent henceforth on American imports, as every cent thus spent will be used in further anti-Japanese movements. They urged purchasers to inquire as to the origin of anything they bought, rejecting American goods.

The merchants' association in Fukuiai, a section of Kobe, meeting in the main shrine of the city, resolved not to use, not to buy, and not to sell American goods. Students of two high schools in the Saitama perfecture resolved to boycott everything American.

Official Muffler on Jazz.

The official muffler is being placed on jazz in Tokio following raids by reactionary hot heads upon hotels and cafés where modern dancing is allowed. The police are preparing an order forbidding dancing in public places inimical to law, order, and morals.

While the vehemency of the present anti-dancing movement is due to the anti-American movement, modern dancing always was frowned on by the conservatives, who carried on a vigorous press campaign against dance halls two years ago. The campaign then was frustrated by the visit of the Prince of Wales and the prince regent's attendance of numerous balls in the Prince of Wales' honor, thus imperialistically countenancing dancing, while a number of imperial princes and princesses took lessons.

Now the anti-dancing movement is unchecked. Last night the French ambassador entertained at a ball in the Imperial hotel in honor of Capt. Pelletier d'Oisy, the French flyer, attended by a number of Japanese, dancing enthusiastically. The superpatriots immediately objected to the hotel management, who explained that the French embassy had burned and the ambassador was at liberty to engage rooms in the hotel and do whatever he liked.

Drive American from City Bus.

An American passenger on a municipal motorbus this morning was ejected by Japanese passengers and forced to walk. This is the first incident of this kind.

Sir Rabindranath Tagore, philosopher and mystic poet of India, without any announcement, broke an engagement to address the Meiji Gakuin Presbyterian mission school. A large audience waited in vain. A delegate hurried to the Japan-India headquarters to remind Sir Rabindranath of his appointment, but was refused admission, and finally was threatened by the Buddhist priest doorkeeper.

Last night at a meeting of leading American mission heads in Tokio to discuss the situation, some apprehension was expressed regarding the many missionary families in out of the way places throughout the country. While nothing has occurred which could be interpreted as dangerous, it was thought by some to be wise for those isolated to come to a main center. It was concluded, however, that such a move would be misinterpreted by the Japanese, creating a feeling in the country sections which would make the feeling more serious than it actually is.

"NEW CARPENTER PACT WILL NOT PERIL AWARD"

Committee's Stand Still the Same, It Says.

Establishment of a closed shop and a new two year wage pact for union carpenters by agreement with seven of the large contractor members of the Building Construction Employers' association will not alter the policy of the Landis award enforcement committee to keep the building industry free from graft levying practices.

This declaration was made late yesterday by Fred W. Armstrong, general manager of the Landis committee, after he had confirmed the action of the contractors.

Makes a Distinction.

"The assertion that the Landis award enforcement committee first placed the carpenters on an open shop basis is erroneous," he said: "This was done by contractors several months before the committee was organized. The contractors, who signed an agreement with the carpenters, were the ones most active in urging the public to organize a citizens' committee to support the builders' fight against the carpenters.

"Conditions were repulsive then. The carpenters' famous article 3 practically built a wall around Chicago by prohibiting importation of nonunion trim into the city. If the builders wanted to overcome this they had to pay union agents $1 for each door stamped with the union trade mark. The agents carried the stamps in their pocket and used them to levy petty graft.

"The Chinese wall has been eliminated in the building industry and jurisdictional strikes, called on some pretext by union heads, to levy graft are now incidents of history. These clean conditions have been established by the citizens' committee to enforce the Landis award."

Signed as Individuals.

Mr. Armstrong said the agreement had been signed with the seven contractors as individuals and not with the association. He said nine of the seventeen members of the association's executive board are employers of Landis award workers, and that thirty of the forty-three members of the builders' association are operating under Landis award conditions.

To date, he added, the committee has placed more than 67,000 workers of which more than 20,000 are carpenters of the thirteen open shop trades. The contractors, who made the agreement with the carpenters, said Armstrong, are engaged in only 20 per cent of the large construction done in the city.

DIES UNDER "L" TRAIN.

Peter Passowitz, a track laborer, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when crushed under an Oak Park elevated train at Franklin and Lake streets. He directed men in jacking up the car to extricate him but soon died.

Her Husband's Elopement

By DANA BURNET

Blue Ribbon Fiction

SYNOPSIS.

Rodney and Anne Kingsley have been married for eighteen months, when Anne's school friend, Hilda Frank, comes to pay them a visit in their New York apartment. Rodney and Hilda fall in love with each other, and Rodney, in accordance with an agreement which he and Anne made on their honeymoon, tells his wife what has happened. Anne, a dainty, petite young person, is greatly disturbed by her husband's announcement, but she pulls herself together and decides that Hilda and Rodney shall leave the apartment that night. When they are about to leave Anne declares that she will go, too. Hilda objects, but Rodney agrees to take his helpless young wife along because he doesn't know what else to do with her. They all go to the Riverdale inn.

Anne coerces her rival into giving her a check for ten thousand dollars by threatening a breach of promise suit against her. With Hilda's check Anne buys the inn, and with the same check redeemed by Perrin the Frenchman buys back a half interest in Anne's new enterprise. As proprietor of the inn, Anne orders Rodney and Hilda to leave at once. At Anne's request Rodney comes out to the inn with some house furnishings. He decides to stay and help his wife with the party she is giving to inaugurate her business career. After the party, which is a great success, Hilda appears on the scene.

INSTALLMENT XII.

"TEA FOR THREE."

The door opened and Perrin popped in. He had been working hard; his face was red, and he tapped his forehead with a wadded handkerchief. But he was in an exalted mood.

"Madame," he exclaimed breathlessly. "It is over. It was a great success. We have made fifty-five dollars and thirty-five cents."

Anne looked at him and said, in a businesslike tone: "I'll discuss that with you later, Mr. Perrin. At present, I've something else on my mind. A financial matter. Miss Frank wants to withdraw her investment," she added, nodding toward Hilda.

"You mean the ten thousand dollars?"

"Exactly!" snapped Hilda.

Anne said to Perrin: "I think we'd better pay her, don't you?"

"Pay her! But, madam, we haven't the money!"

"Yes, we have," declared the head of the firm, and walking calmly to the writing desk she took from the drawer a familiar looking slip of paper. "Here!" she said, holding it up for them to see.

"My own check!" cried Hilda, and snatching it from Anne's hand tore it into fragments.

"Helas! There goes our capital! There goes everything. I will never walk in the boulevards again. Never!"

"Mr. Perrin," reproved Anne. "Control yourself! Why do we need capital? Aren't we doing a good cash business? And now that we've paid off our largest creditor——"

"Madam, that is true! With one piece of paper you buy the inn from me! With that same piece of paper you sell me a half interest in the tea house! And now, again with that same piece of paper, you pay off all our debts and leave us free. Madam, I will never doubt you again! Never! Never!" And seizing her hands, he kissed them rapturously, then turned and dashed out of the room.

Hilda looked at Anne.

"Before I go I want to say I don't think much of that husband of yours. He seems to be a chronic deserter."

The door opened and Rodney came in carrying his coat over his arm. He, too, had been working. He, too, was mopping his forehead with a handkerchief.

"Lord, it was hot in that kitch——"

Then he saw Hilda.

Instinctively he started for the door, but checked himself at once, and turned around again, a continuous maneuver that was executed almost with military precision.

"Rodney!"

"O, hello, Hilda! What are you doing here?"

"What am I doing here?" The Viking paused; then: "So this is where you've been hiding!" she exclaimed.

"Hiding? I haven't been—why should I hide? I'm on a vacation," returned Rodney, and put on his coat with the air of a man who has just been taking a little exercise.

The situation was saved momentarily by the entrance of Edward with a tea tray. Anne immediately assumed the direction of affairs.

"Put the things on the table, Edward." Edward did so. "And you might just wait in the hall," she added, in a lower tone. "I may need you."

He went out.

"Now let's have tea," said Anne, cheerfully, seating herself at the table.

Hilda remarked icily: "I have something to say to Rodney—alone."

"O, you want me to go?"

Rodney intervened.

"No. Why should you? Anything you have to say, Hilda, can be said before Anne. I have nothing to conceal." And drawing two chairs up to the table he stood looking expectantly at the Viking.

"Very well. If you prefer it that way."

Anne busied herself with the tea things. "It's rather reminiscent, isn't it?" she asked lightly. "Cream or lemon, Hilda?"

"Neither."

"Pickles?"

Hilda replied unhesitatingly and firmly: "Yes, thanks."

"Pickles, Rodney?"

"No, thanks. I mean, yes, thanks." He courageously ate a pickle.

"How long have you been here?" demanded Hilda, abruptly, of her recalcitrant lover.

"Since Monday."

"Why? Why did you come?"

"Look here, I refuse——"

"You're shirking the analysis! That's cowardice. Had you the impulse to come?"

"No. Yes, I mean," floundered Rodney. Then he sighed. "You see, Hilda," he paused and glanced involuntarily at Anne.

"Go on, Rodney," said his wife encouragingly. "Don't mind me."

"I came to bring Anne some things she wanted. Then I helped her to put up the curtains and fix the room."

Anne said sweetly: "Onion sandwiches, Hilda? I had them made especially for you."

"Cat!" said the other, taking a sandwich.

"Sandwich, Rodney?"

"Not today, I believe."

"What then?" pursued Hilda, fixing him with a cold blue eye.

"Well, the next morning. . . . It was a beautiful day, and I was on a vacation. So I think I shelled peas that morning," he ended, weakly.

"Go on, Rodney," said Hilda.

Rodney ran his hand through his hair.

"Well, on Tuesday I had the invitations to send out . . . and . . . Well, I've just been here. That's all." He turned to his wife. "Why don't you say something, Anne?" he asked irritably.

"Yes, agreed Hilda, with a grim smile. "I think it's time. You know perfectly well, Anne, that you've schemed to keep him here!"

"I've done nothing of the kind. Rodney is a free agent."

"Rot. You know you want his absolute subjection."

"I want him to be happy," said Anne nobly. "I'm fond of Rodney. He knows it." He suddenly leaned toward her rival. "Do you want him to be happy, Hilda?"

"Happy? Pooh! Happiness is a pastry that we offer to our starving souls. There's no life, there's no passion in it! I want Rodney to live!"

"On passion and pickles?" retorted Anne. "Very well," she added, pushing back her chair, "to prove I'm sincere, let's arrange the divorce right now!" And she called resolutely: "Edward!"

Edward came in with a promptness that was rather suspicious.

"What are you calling him for?" demanded Rodney.

"Edward has had experience." He's been a witness in three divorce cases," replied Anne with perfect seriousness. To the waiter she said: "Edward, we want your advice. Mr. Kingsley and I are married. Mr. Kingsley wishes to divorce me and marry Miss Frank."

"I didn't say—I mean——" Rodney sank helplessly into silence.

"Wishes to divorce me and marry Miss Frank. Now how do we go about it?"

Edward bowed slightly.

"It's simple, miss, indeed it is. All that's necessary is for the two guilty parties—beg pardon sir!—to go away together and live indiscriminate, so to speak. Then the injured party—that's you, miss—hires a lot of detectives to spy and get the evidence."

"How do they get it, Edward?"

"Mostly through the keyhole, miss."

"There! You see? We all work together," said Anne.

Hilda made a gesture. "Of course, it's all nonsense. Another one of Anne's little tricks!"

Europe's Hope Lies in Dawes, Bibesco Says

Prince Son-in-Law of Margot Here on Visit.

Prince Antonie Bibesco, who in public life is Roumanian minister and in private Margot Asquith's son-in-law, arrived in Chicago yesterday with his vivacious wife for a two days' "incog" visit with their friends, the James Minottos of Lake Forest.

Straight from Cleveland, where they attended the convention:

"Gen. Dawes' nomination means much to Europe," said the prince, "for he will make the United States realize the Atlantic's only a big pond! I'm not allowed to have any views on politics," he finished sedately, "but I admire Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge."

His pin striped suit, lavender shirt, and polka dot tie belonged very much to the avenue, but the naïve glance in the dark eyes and the minor chord in his voice breathed Roumania.

And Roumania is close to his heart. (So much so that he resented the women reporters who descended upon him and begged fervently for a "political editor" who'd "understand.")

"Roumania is recovering slowly from the war," he said, "but her population of 7,000,000 has grown to 14,000,000. This creates many problems—just as it would if the United States should suddenly double! The government is extremely fair minded and is prepared to deal with all foreign claims that arise. It is taking drastic steps in regard to oil, timber, and water power, but whatever it does, the foreign interests which have a part in those riches will be considered.

"The exciting incidents you read of are no more characteristic of the country than"—he hesitated for inspiration, then—"the murders here represent Chicago!"

He spoke of the "unbelievable" changes he'd found in the city since his last visit here in 1907, then turned to discussion of the play his wife has just completed—"Birthday."

"It's a very light comedy—English—a combination of Shaw and Oscar Wilde. It's very good; it's"—he checked himself with a laugh—"but I'm talking like a husband now!"

But those who have read Elizabeth Bibesco's "I Have Only Myself to Blame" can easily grant the "Shaw" and the "Wilde." Questioned as to whether his wife really liked him to design her clothes—and he does, all of them—he answered: "She wears them!"

On the subject of Margot herself—as to whether she was really as colorful as she sounded, he became sober. "That's a difficult question," he said, "a difficult question!"

ASK ME! ASK ME!

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

E. H.: Don't know of a soul who's headed that way. Sorry. If I hear I'll tell you. Have a good time.

R.: Yes, there is a movie actor named Billie Ritchie. He was born in Glasgow, Scotland—1877. Reckon he's the man you're thinking of?

VALERIE: Never having seen you, it hardly seems fair to venture an opinion. But Hollywood's full of beautiful girls, slim, stout, and every old way, just biding their time, so unless I had a direct summons from a reputable company I'd stay home, little girl, stay home. Marguerite and Ethel Clayton are not sisters. Write any time you feel the call. I'll be right here—loving to get your letters.

J.: On Saturday morning.

FLIMFLAM: Harry Carey has done a lot of things in his life. He's been an actor, a playwright, a prospector, a cowboy, a screen star, and the Lord knows what not! Yes. He was born in New York in 1880. He's 6 feet tall and has blond hair. Y'wekkum.

BOY SCOUT: Dinky Dean is the little chap you're thinking of. He appeared in "The Pilgrim." His father is fondly known to his intimates as Chuck Reisner. He, too, appears in pictures. What are you going to do this summer? Go camping?

DOROTHY: Haven't quite decided. You're nice to be thinking about it, though, and your letter was a Godsend. Yes, Claire Windsor has a little boy. Lovely! Write again.

CLOSEUPS

King Baggot has started out, the press agent tearfully informs us, to find and film a tornado. Blessings on his little head! May he find and film it but NOT be in it!

Cullen Landis is at work on a picture called "Born Rich," being directed by William Nigh. It seems an awfully long time since I've seen him on the screen. Does it to you?

See you tomorrow!

Your Help Needed for Poor Mothers and Their Babies

Mrs. Y. is slowly breaking down. Her vigor has gone. Her cheeks are wan. She has barely enough strength to move around the house. Her eyes are failing. In fact, if the opinions of two well known physicians are to be believed, Mrs. Y. will go blind if some change is not made in her manner of living immediately. That is how serious the matter has become. But the change will come. Mrs. Y. is going to spend the summer at Camp Algonquin. Her two children are going with her.

Mrs. Y. has been married five years. One of her children is 3 years old and the other 1½ years. They are not the sturdy little Indians you see romping along the Lake Shore drive; they are thin, anemic, dirty, palefaced little children. You can see by looking into their eyes that they haven't had enough to eat for weeks.

Mrs. Y.'s husband worked steadily for a long time. Then he got sick. One day a squad of detectives drove up before the tenement building and took the husband away. He's in Joliet serving a sentence now. Mrs. Y. doesn't believe her husband was guilty of the crime charged. What wife would?

During her husband's absence Mrs. Y. has been sewing beads on dresses, trying to make enough money to give her children good food. That is hard work. It is trying on the eyes. Another month or two and this mother's eyes would be gone, the doctors say.

But next Tuesday Mrs. Y. and her children will be put on a special Northwestern train and taken to the country. She will spend the summer under the oak trees of Camp Algonquin.

For this work—the giving of health to Mrs. Y. and hundreds of other mothers and children—THE TRIBUNE needs contributions. A great deal of money is needed to carry on the camp. It is a cause that should win donations from every one in Chicago who has a little more money than is absolutely necessary.

For the poor of the city who cannot go to the country, who must remain in the heat of broiling Chicago, there is THE TRIBUNE free ice fund. Donations to this fund are solicited.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Virginia R. Pinney, 1941 Byron street, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Do you think Frank O. Lowden should have declined the nomination for Vice President.

Where Asked.

State street at Erie.

The Answers.

John H. Leininger, 55 West Chestnut street, investigator—Whether he should or should not, that's up to him. I think there was a better man nominated. Gen. Dawes is one of the most capable men in the country and has an absolutely clean record. You can't say that of every politician.

Miss Kathryn Williams, 445 Wisconsin street, theater employé—I believe he should have accepted the nomination, at the same time one can't blame him for declining it. I'd like to see him become President. The way the convention voted yesterday it looks as though he has a good chance.

E. A. McKey, 414 Webster street, elevator constructor—He was foolish, I think. I wouldn't have turned that down, would you? Helen Maria Dawes is the better man for Coolidge's running mate. He'll tell them all where they get off. There's get up and go about Dawes that means results.

Miss Tillie Schwoerer, 54 East Erie street, typist—Seems to me ex-Gov. Lowden has won the right to accept or decline a position like the Vice Presidency. If I were Mr. Lowden I'd either be President or stay right down there on the farm, where he says he wants to be.

George F. Kloepfer, Arlington Heights, Ill., plaster model maker—I've always thought they ought to get Lowden down there at Washington. They need all the men like him they can get hold of. But if Lowden doesn't want to serve as Vice President I don't believe in forcing him into it.

Lehmann Horses Garner Ribbons at South Shore Show

Society shivered and drew coats a little tighter at the South Shore Country club horse show last night as they watched what judges with twenty-five years of experience assert was the best walk trot class they ever judged.

But the most effective bit pictorially—and the event that received most applause—was the exhibit of Troop A, 14th United States cavalry, following a demonstration of circus riding, "lights out": only a huge burning arch in the ring, with gallant horses flying through its flames. Another touch of color was given by the old English coach-and-four with bugler and dispatcher.

Starters in scarlet and white, riders in hunting livery or military uniform stood out vividly against the green ring and the purple blue of the lake. Colorful frocks dotted the boxes, though coats of white cloth and fur were in striking evidence, and most effective when topped with scarlet, brilliant green, or yellow hats. Results follow:

Hunters and jumpers, five foot performance—First, The Gray Parson, owned by E. J. Lehmann; second, White Oak, owned by E. J. Lehmann; third, Durward Roberts, owned by Sunny Brook Stables.

Ponies—14-2 and under, suitable for harness and saddle purposes. First, Catherine Hough, owned by A. C. Long & Co.; second, White Rock, owned by William E. Deg; third, Lexam Julia, owned by Broad View Farms.

Saddle horses—five gaits. Stallion, mare, or gelding, to be ridden by a lady. First, Marion Howard, owned by M. J. and Frank M. Flynn; second, Elias Mayer; third, Silver Gale, owned by Mrs. A. C. Thompson.

Horses in harness—Harness stake, $500. First, Field Marshall, owned by O. W. Lehmann; second, Edgeware Marvel, owned by Cedar Crest Farms; third, Clyde Iris, owned by John R. Thompson.

Saddle horses, Hotel Biltmore stake, $500. Three gaited. First, Rex Rene, owned by Mrs. James G. Alexander; second, Brilliant, owned by E. J. Lehmann; third, Nancy Highland, owned by Charles van Studdiford.

Hackney ponies—E. J. and O. W. Lehmann stake. First, Axhoome Venus, owned by John R. Thompson; second, Braishfield Lois, owned by John R. Thompson; third, Sir Eric, owned by Dilwyne Farms.

Hunters and Jumpers—South Shore Country Club stake—First, Hemlock, owned by E. J. Lehmann; second, Burgoright, owned by Benjamin Leslie Behr; third, Grey Cloud, owned by Benjamin Leslie Behr.

Horses in harness, Ladies' class—Pairs of mares or geldings. First, Montpelier Corinne and Montpelier Safety, owned by O. W. Lehmann; second, Leading Article and Farina Regal, owned by John R. Thompson.

The show will be resumed at 9:30 this morning.

8,000 Voices Boom Finale in Songfest

Performance of Prize Song Final Feature.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

More thunderous singing from the massed male chorus and the first performance of the meeting's prize song brought the diamond jubilee of the saengerfest to an end at the Coliseum last night. The three days of song have involved an expense of something like $80,000, and unofficial estimates of the attendance are to the effect that all costs were paid and a balance left on the proper side of the account.

Which means that there was another capacity crowd last night. The prize song was a setting by Edward Strubel of James Whitcomb Riley's poem, "When Evening Shadows Fall," and the first position entitled the composer to conduct some 2,700 singers through the first performance of his work and also to a cash award of $500.

Adolph Gill, president of the Vereinigte Männerchore of Chicago, presented Mr. Strubel, also the second and third prize winners, Louis Victor Saar and Edward Schaumlöffel, to the audience, and the performance followed the presentation. It is a song for unaccompanied male voices, in character of both folk song and hymn.

Before that time H. A. Rehberg and Karl Reckzeh had directed more of the great mass effects of tone that had been so striking the night before. It is true that Mr. Stock had begun the program with "The Star Spangled Banner," and this was not on the program, nor, apparently in the repertoire of an unduly large section of the singers. But they had a thorough acquaintance with "Es dröhnt vom Turm," "Sah ein Knab' ein Röslein stehn," and many others. Alexander Kipnis gave a fine performance of an aria from Haydn's "The Creation," and Marie Sundelius had a later place on the program in Elsa's Dream from "Lohengrin."

The afternoon concert was mainly a program by the children, a chorus fully as large as that of the evening, and singing with the same spirit though not always with the same accuracy.

As far as the Coliseum is concerned, the saengerfest is at an end, but this afternoon the 8,000 singers concerned will meet at Riverview and in the course of the proceedings will sing a number of the same songs that have been on the programs just finished.

The Danish Harmonien Singing society of Chicago will depart tomorrow evening for a trip to Denmark. C. P. Ditlefsen is its president, Joel Mossberg its conductor, and Holger Pedersen its principal soloist. The party numbers 110 persons, and expects to give fourteen charity concerts in Denmark, with one additional appearance in Brooklyn before sailing for the benefit of the Danish Old People's home of that city. It will return to the United States Sept. 10. The American committee in charge of the concerts includes the following Chicagoans: S. J. Helberg, Carl Antonsen, Henry L. Hertz, Dr. H. P. Petersen, John A. Petersen, P. C. Petersen, and Carl S. Jensen.

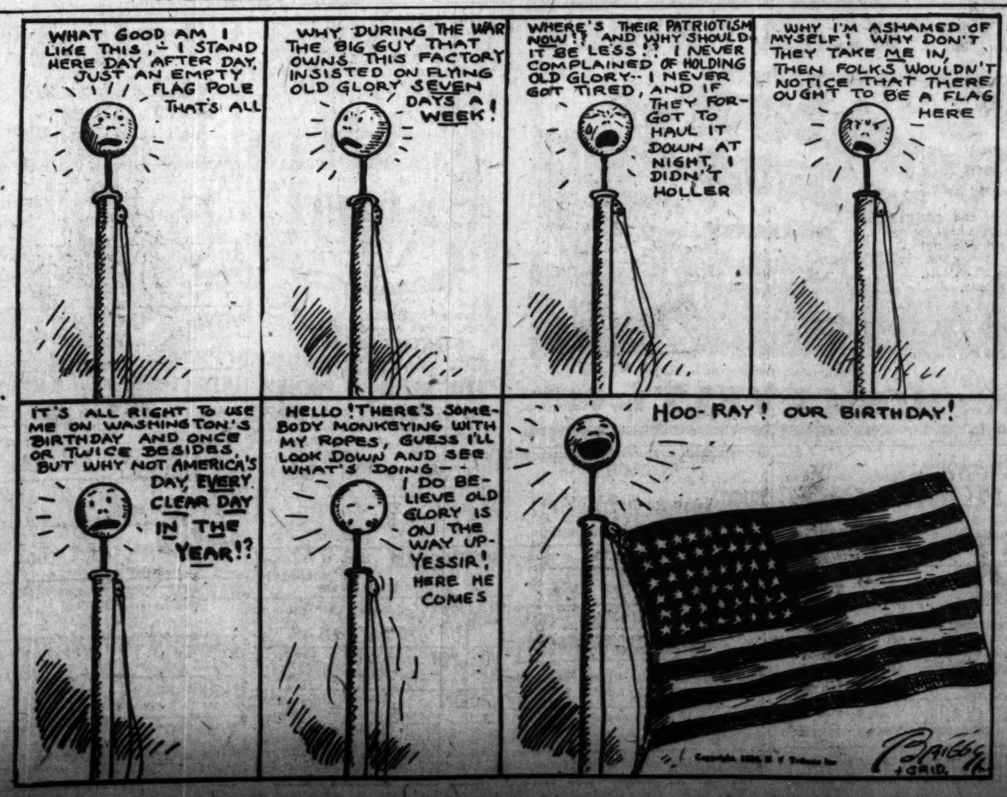
Winnetka Has "Summer Christmas Tree" Today

"Alice in Everyland" will be one of the principal features of the annual "summer Christmas tree" festivities, which will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon under the direction of the Winnetka Congregational church, at the home of Frank Ferry on Sheridan road. The directors of the play are Mrs. Lloyd A. Faxon and Mrs. William Ayer McKinney. The Christmas tree festivities are held annually to provide gifts for the small folks in the missions maintained by the church in India and China. This afternoon the persons attending the affair will hang presents on the Christmas tree and later the gifts will be sent to the foreign missions.

WONDER WHAT A FLAGPOLE THINKS ABOUT



SENTENCE SERMONS—By the REV. ROY L. SMITH

Blessed Is the Man—

—Who keeps his mind closed to the spirit of envy.
—Who holds his own honor in high esteem.
—Who learns to rejoice in another's good fortune.
—Who can look into the eyes of his child unashamed.
—Who has nothing to fear when the papers are full of scandal.
—Who has added no unholy profits to his savings.
—Who is sure his daily work is adding to world's happiness.

Men's Fashions

Matching Knickers and Hat

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Your golf clubs need not be the only part of your golf outfit that is in a set. You may have a set of golf clothes as well. Here, for instance, is the idea of one enterprising New York haberdasher. A linen hat and a pair of linen knickers, both with an overcheck of black, were displayed in his window to lure the summer sportsman.

And a good idea it is. Why not have head and legs to match? Checked knickers are fashionable. Checked linen hats are favored by the smart dresser. Used together, they form a pleasing set, and eliminate one possibility of having a heterogeneous collection of dress articles on one's person at the same time. Not that we argue for the sport costume, or street costume, for that matter, that is exactly matched in every detail. There is nothing more deadly than that.

But given this hat and pair of knickers to match, you can add the rest of the clothing in such a way that a pleasing contrast and color scheme is possible, without discordance.

The shirt, for example, might be a solid blue of decided coloring. The tie might be a pale yellow foulard with blue figure, and the golf hose of blue and tan pattern, while a sweater of blue and tan checks, or a plain sack coat of smoke blue, or brown might be worn. Or the sweater could be black and white or gray, the shirt white, and the tie of any combination of bright stripes. Innumerable are the color possibilities with a hat and knickers of black and white.

A linen cap with black over check might also be used with these checked knickers. It simply depends upon whether you prefer a cap or a hat.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Teddy and I visited a large aquarium. The tiny goldfish seemed to fascinate the child, and I had to drag him away when I wished to go.

Just as we were leaving he remarked, disgustedly, "Well, I know one fing, daddy! I'll never come to this place again wivout my hook and line!" K. D. B.

Mother missed her son when out shopping. She found him at last near a doorway making faces at a passive bulldog.

"Whatever are you doing, making faces like that?" she asked.

"But, mother," protested the boy, "he started it!" A. H.

We were planting a garden, the first James has ever been near.

Dad had planted lettuce and radishes, when Jim rushed in the house with, "Mother, don't let him have all lettuce and radishes. Make him plant some spaghetti." MRS. J. F.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Gooseberries and Currants.

Gooseberries and currants will soon come into the market, and one way to prepare to use them generously and with eminent satisfaction is to send to the United States department of agriculture for farmer's bulletin 1024, with the title "Currants and Gooseberries." In sending for bulletins it is always best to mention the title as well as the number, and thus avoid the chance of a misprint anywhere.

The most of this bulletin of forty pages is devoted to the growing and care of the plants, but there is a page telling how variously to use the fruits, and then some specific directions about making jams and jellies out of them; and how to put up the juices.

It may be a bit old fashioned to take delight in these berries, but some of us still do. If we wish to make jellies of either of these, it is best to use the first that come into the market, for if slightly unripe or harder than they will be when dead ripe they are best for this purpose.

The gooseberry conserves that come to us from France are expensive, partly because they are made with so much care, and so are those of currants, the most expensive of which is the bar-le-duc, and with reason. To those devoted to a scrap of soft cream cheese at the end of a meal, a bit of one of these conserves is considered the most perfect accompaniment of it. Perfect jellies of either of these berries are equal or superior to the conserve in this service.

In reference to gooseberry jelly, this bulletin says: "To secure pink gooseberry jelly the juices should be boiled down quickly. To get a deep red gooseberry jelly the juice should be boiled down slowly."

What a pity she doesn't know that Resinol Soap would clear her skin

"She would be a pretty girl, if it wasn't for that pimply, blotchy complexion!" But the regular use of Resinol Soap, aided at first by a little Resinol Ointment, would probably make it clear, fresh and charming. If a poor skin is your handicap, begin using Resinol Soap and see how quickly it improves.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment are sold by all druggists. For free sample of each, write to Dept. 9-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

New Tennis Court on Aldis Estate Is Ready for Action

BY PANDORA.

If the sun shines tomorrow, there ought to be some fine tennis on the new composition court that now adorns the Aldis lawns in Lake Forest. For some years, the Compound, that summer community nestling on and about the grounds of the Arthur T. Aldis estate, has been the Sunday morning meeting place for those of the Lake Forest dwellers and their week-end guests who like to wander in for tennis or to swim in the pretty little outdoor pool.

It looked for a tragic time as if the new court might not function, when, after the drenching spring rains, it would not drain. But it seems certain structural errors have been corrected, and with the final coating of brick dust applied yesterday it is ready for action.

Just at present the large white house is sheltering within its generous walls Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Aldis and Mr. and Mrs. Graham Aldis, who with their young and sprightly daughter, Mary Cornell, are there for the summer. The senior Mrs. Aldis, however, will be in the gay part of the world only another fortnight, as she has taken a cottage at Provincetown for July and August, in order to be near the Provincetown dramatic activities, in which, it is expected, she will have a share. Mr. Aldis plans to meet her there later.

The Compound will miss the John T. McCutcheons this summer, for they have moved their youngsters and what lares and penates they will need to the Howard Van Doren Shaw house, where the Shaws' older daughter, Mrs. Clay Judson, and her husband and little daughter will join them in July. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw, in the meantime, are in their apartment in town, making arrangements for a holiday trip to take the place of the European jaunt which they contemplated and gave up not long ago.

But the McCutcheon house is not to stand empty. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker are to have it for the season. With their daughter, Miss Mary Meeker, and their son, Arthur, who, by the way, is busily engaged in writing a play, they are expected to add greatly to the cheer and gayety of the Compound group.

Day's News in Society

Lake Forest society will put on its best bib and tucker for next weekend which promises to be the gayest it has had this season. Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Armour and Mr. and Mrs. William Mitchell Blair will give dinner parties preceding the dance which Mrs. Leslie Wheeler and Miss Harriet McLaughlin are to give Friday evening at the residence of Miss McLaughlin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George D. McLaughlin.

A large dinner party for the young people, to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, will follow the garden debut party Saturday afternoon of their daughter, Miss Sarah Brewster, just returned from two years at Miss Risser's school in Rome, and in the evening, there will be the opening of the Ravinia opera season, usually well attended by society.

The Lake Forest gardens to be opened to the public today are those on the estates of John T. Pirie on Mayflower road, Mrs. Louis E. Laflin in Hawthorne place, Augustus A. Carpenter in Barberry lane, and William P. Martin on Ahwanee road. As last Saturday's rain interfered with the garden visiting, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster will show hers again today.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Morse Ely have sent out invitations for a dinner Thursday evening, July 3, to precede the dance which Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan C. Spaulding will give in Lake Forest that evening.

Mrs. William Gerish Beale of Bermuda, formerly of Chicago, has arrived at Bar Harbor, Me., and is occupying her summer place, Kragmyr. Miss Mildred McCormick of 220 East Division place, has opened the "Farm House" at Bar Harbor, and is there for the season.

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank of 1244 North State street and her daughter, Miss Janet Fairbank, are spending the week-end at their Lake Geneva summer place.

WEDDINGS

Miss Esther Elizabeth Dyer, daughter of Mrs. George Turnley Dyer of Evanston, and Frederic Bigelow Gellatly, son of Mrs. Frances E. Gellatly of Orange, N. J., will be married at 4:30 o'clock this evening at St. Luke's church, Evanston, by the Rev. George C. Stewart and the Rt. Rev. L. M. Griswold of Chicago. Attending the bride will be Miss Alice G. Dyer, maid of honor; Miss Sue Hayes of Chippewa Falls, Wis., Miss Betty Fairfield of New York, Miss Marie Clarkson and Miss Alice Clark of St. Louis as bridesmaids. The bridegroom's brother, Bleecker Gellatly, will be best man, and George T. Dyer Jr., Frederic McBride, Perry Waterman of Orange, N. J., Alfred Boote of South Orange, Morrison Mitchell, and Robert Glenn will usher. Mr. Gellatly and his bride will be at home after July 15 in St. Louis.

The marriage of Miss Frances R. Cummings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Cummings of 4921 Dorchester avenue, and Edward R. Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Quincy Adams of Galesburg, Ill., will take place today.

Miss Margaret Griffith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Griffith of Lake Forest, has chosen June 21 for her marriage to Francis J. Hoffmann. The ceremony will be read at 8:30 o'clock at the Griffith residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Cohen of 5243 Calumet avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Adeline, to Arnold M. Nathan, son of Michael Nathan of 7010 Sheridan road, which took place on June 11 at the Sovereign hotel.

Father Bowen, pastor of the church, read the service, assisted by the Rev. Father Carse of St. Charles. Mr. and Mrs. Joyce have departed on a three-weeks' honeymoon.

Miss Vera M. Clark and Carol M. Cheney to Be Wed Tonight

Miss Vera Mabel Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman G. Clark of Winnetka, will be married at 8 o'clock this evening to Carol M. Cheney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Austin Cheney of 7632 Greenview avenue, Chicago. The ceremony will take place at the residence of Miss Clark's aunt at 853 Valley road, Glencoe, the Rev. James A. Richards officiating. Miss Clark will have as her attendants her sister, Miss Norma Ella Clark, and Mrs. Ernestine Jane Hayward. John Cheney will be best man, and Charles Austin Cheney will usher. Mr. Cheney and his bride will be at home after Sept. 1 in Philadelphia.

An event of interest to take place in Kenilworth this evening will be the wedding of Miss Maud Sturtevant Hinman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Wheeler Hinman of Winnetka, to William H. Coburn, son of Mrs. William H. Coburn of Weston, Mass., at the Church of the Holy Comforter. The service will be read by the Rev. E. Reginald Williams of St. Mark's Episcopal church of Milwaukee. There will be a reception following the ceremoney at the Hinman home, 576 Oak street, Winnetka.

Miss Evangeline Maher, daughter of John Wallace Maher of Devils Lake, N. D., will become the bride of James Stuart Robertson of Chicago this morning. Mrs. Maurice V. Reynolds of Chicago will be a member of the bridal party. Mr. and Mrs. Robertson will be at home at 3318 Sheridan road, Chicago, after Aug. 1.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

You're Lucky, A. B. C.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a young man of 16. About a year ago I met a girl who is now 15 at my cousin's graduation party. I took a liking to this girl and my friendship turned to love. I found out that she returned it. Only a short time ago I found out that she took another liking to another boy about her age. Since then she considers me only as a friend. Now I love this girl dearly and would not like to give her up, so please advise me of a way to bring her to love me again. A. B. C."

I think you would be glad the girl's love turned toward another, A. B. C. Because girls are rather expensive luxuries to take on these days. Even keeping one supplied in ice cream sodas is a drain on the purse of a 16-year-old boy, is it not? Just being a friend is the safer and saner plan until one becomes a wage earner.

America Far Behind Other Lands in Care of Mother and Child

BY DORIS BLAKE.

According to the 1923 census bureau findings, infant mortality rates were generally higher in America than those of 1922.

Miss Carolyn Conant Van Blarcom, R. N., says: "More women have died in childbirth than ever men were lost in war, and many more infants have never seen the light of day because of ignorance and lack of proper care than soldiers were injured on the firing line."

Miss Van Blarcom has served as assistant superintendent and instructor in obstetrical nursing at the John Hopkins university, has made wide investigations in England, Denmark, and other European countries, and written books on the subject of maternity. Her opinions on maternity care, therefore, are invaluable.

Comparatively little is done in this country, despite our wealth and scientific progress in many directions, to insure the life, health, and well being of the mother and her young, declares Miss Van Blarcom. We are twentieth down the list of twenty-two civilized nations for which we have statistics with regard to our large maternity death rate, she tells us. The two outstanding needs, in her opinion, are a nation-wide provision for good maternity care and a nation-wide recognition of the urgency of this care.

"The first implies more and better trained doctors," says Miss Biarcom, "nurses and midwives, and the second requires earnest, unceasing education not alone of the young women themselves, but their families. In short, what we need desperately in this country is education and yet more education about the care of mothers and babies.

"The work done by good doctors, good nurses, and good hospitals in the United States is as excellent as that in any other quarter of the globe, but the good work only reaches a small proportion of our mothers. Because of this there are only two civilized countries in the world of which we have knowledge—Chili and Belgium—that lose a higher proportion of life from diseases traceable to childbirth.

Miss Van Blarcom's investigations on the cause of blindness among infants show ignorance, and neglect on the part of the untrained midwife were largely responsible. As a result of her efforts the trustees of the Bellevue hospital established the Bellevue School for Midwives, the first institution of its kind in this country.

There are about 50,000 midwives practicing in this country, but there is no satisfactory provision for their training, licensing, and control. Training schools that will provide this sort of training for the graduate nurse is urged. As more nurses go into rural communities they realize how much more valuable their services to women could be if they were equipped with such training.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., June 13.—[Special.]—Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, wife of the former vice president, is spending a few days in Washington.

The undersecretary of state and Mrs. Joseph Grew, who have been at the Wardman Park hotel since their arrival in May, are now established at "Beauvoir," the residence recently occupied by the former undersecretary of state and Mrs. William Phillips.

Mrs. William E. Borah has gone to her home in Boise, Idaho, to remain the rest of the summer. Senator Borah will join her there later in the summer.

Mrs. William S. Kenyon, wife of former Senator Kenyon of Iowa, who spent the winter in Washington at the Hotel Lafayette, has gone to Sebasco, Maine, where she will spend the summer. Mr. Kenyon will join her there frequently.

Lost the Paper Stuffing.

My most embarrassing moment was at a masquerade ball. I had on a clown suit and had stuffed the hat with paper to make it stand up straight. One of the boys I knew was there and I danced with him, and talked to him, but he couldn't tell who I was. He tried every way to get my mask off, but didn't succeed. He made a grab for my mask, and instead of getting my mask off my hat came off, and all the paper fell to the floor. I must have made a pretty picture on the dance floor with the paper and hat on the floor amid the laughter of the people. The only thing that saved me was my mask. G. S.

She Wanted to Know.

While standing in a street car I saw what I thought was my tie waving over my shoulder.

Putting out my hand I began to shove the tie inside my vest, when a young woman back of me said, "Pardon me; what do you want with my hat ribbons?"

I looked up and saw it was the ends of two ribbons streaming from her hat and not my tie. H. B.

GOOPS!

A Daily Lesson in Manners for Children

BY GELETT BURGESS

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

"PARDON ME!"

I wonder if you know that phrase
Which proves you have well-mannered ways?
That little phrase—just
"Pardon Me!"
Try it some time, and you will see
That folks will know you are polite,
And not a Goop. See if I'm right!

NOTE—If you know any Goop faults you want corrected, drop a note to Mr. Gelett Burgess, care of this paper, and perhaps he will draw a picture and write a verse about it.

High Crowned Hat and Caped Coat Spell Directoire

by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Are you in the height of fashion? The answer to this will perhaps soon be ascertained by the height of your hat crown. No, we do not mean that curfew has yet rung for the cloche. Sometimes we are inclined to think it never will, for now, after more than a year of unflagging enthusiasm, we continue to play tunes on the same old theme. We dent it and turn it up some place, we change its trimming, and try out new materials—yes, and sometimes we wear it au naturel.

Nevertheless, there are symptoms that the cloche may finally be displaced. Months ago the high crowned hat of Directoire inspiration was featured by some of the most famous of Paris milliners. But it was more mentioned than actually worn. Now, however, pushed chiefly by Reboux, the high crown is being assumed. Sometimes it is, as you see it here, a perfectly plain affair trimmed only with a band and a buckle. At other times it turns up at the side to invite some clever touch of trimming, as, for example, a swirl of coq feathers.

Decidedly at home with the high crowned hat of this drawing is the coat worn with it. For the three capes and the long, graceful line of this garment have been translated directly from the time when Incroyables and Merveilleuses set the styles.

This coat is of black silk in one of the ribbed effects which are now so much to the fore, and the grace of its line is considered good justification for the fact that not a touch of trimming is admitted.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

GRIEVED: WE CAN REMOVE that trouble happily enough. Have made up a drugstore formula of 25 percent solution of aluminum chloride in distilled water. Apply, with clean absorbent cotton or a tiny sponge, under the arms twice a week for the first week, then once a week to prevent recurrence of the excessive perspiration.

B. S.: IN CORRECT POSTURE, the weight rests not entirely on the toes or the heels, but should be distributed between the two. In walking the toes should be pointed almost directly ahead. One of the corrective measure for weak arches is to turn the toes in slightly. Note the feet of uncivilized and bare footed women and you will see the toes are pointed ahead and the feet never disclose any deformities.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, June 13.—Miss Olivia E. Phelps Stokes has returned from White Sulphur Springs, Va., to the St. Regis, for a fortnight. Mrs. Cochran Bowen is there from California to join her daughter, Miss Dolly Bowen.

Miss Sylvia Van Rensselaer will sail for Europe on June 18 and in Paris will join Miss Grace Cuyler, who sailed in May, for a tour of the British Isles and the continent.

Mrs. Hamilton McK. Twombly and her daughter, Miss Ruth Vanderbilt Twombly, now at Florham convent, N. J., will go to Vinland, Newport, on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Heyward Cutting will spend the summer at Southampton, having leased the Kent place there.

WHAT'S WRONG HERE?

Answer at bottom of this page.

I Spent

Fortunes to win beauty

By Edna Wallace Hopper

My mother was rich and ambitious. From my earliest years she urged me to enhance my beauty. She gave me her methods and formulas. Then she took me in a world-search for the newer beauty helps.

Most people know the results. I became a famous beauty, and for many years I remained the rage. And now, after 40 years in the limelight, I still play a beauty's part. I still look a girl of 19.

Since then I have made many trips to France. I have consulted noted experts and famous beauties everywhere. I have spent fortunes to find all the latest discoveries. So I believe that I now have the greatest beauty helps in existence. And certainly my results seem to prove that.

I have been induced to place these helps at every woman's call. Druggists and toilet counters everywhere supply them—the very helps I use. Thus every woman may obtain for a trifle the helps that cost me fortunes.

One is a liquid cleanser which I call my Facial Youth. Lucie Lantelme, the famous Parisian beauty, first told me what it did. Now leading beauty experts the world over are advising this great formula.

It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. It cannot assimilate in any way with the skin. So it cleans to the depths, then departs. All the grime, dead skin and clogging matter come out with it. A woman never knows what a clean skin means until she tries this Facial Youth.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Facial Youth sells everywhere for 75 cents. Beauty experts charge up to $5 for the same effects.

I shall be glad to send you a small bottle free if you mail this coupon. It will bring you new conceptions of what a clean skin means. My Beauty Book comes with it. Cut out the coupon now.

TINY ALBANIAN WARWICK BACKS SINCLAIR AS KING

Wants American to Save Nation from Foes.

BY RAYMOND FENDRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BUCHAREST, Roumania, June 13.—Pierre Gugiaman, "enfant terrible" of Albania, today came out in favor of Harry Sinclair, the American oil magnate, as king of that country.

"I am convinced that only an American king can save our country from disaster," M. Gugiaman, who is now Albanian diplomatic agent in Roumania, told THE TRIBUNE today. "The struggle for Macedonian independence will plunge the Balkans into a new war shortly, and Albania may be swallowed up in the conflict unless we have a clever man like Mr. Sinclair upon the throne and have American protection."

The enfant terrible—he is 4 feet 6 inches tall, 40 years old, and hard as nails—is a diplomatic political boss and a redoubtable fighting man. In his country, almost without exception, every man is a six-footer, a sharpshooter, and would rather fight than eat. M. Gugiaman has been a national hero and perfect Albanian ideal for almost a score of years. Two of his greatest exploits were to chase away Prince William of Wied and drive the Italian army at Valona into the sea in September, 1921.

Ousts William of Wied.

"Prince William knew several weeks in advance that Germany and Austria would declare war, because his German adviser told the Albanian cabinet so and asked Albania's help against Serbia." M. Gugiaman continued. "After the outbreak of the war Prince William became active on behalf of Germany and the French and British governments decided to get him out. Under the supervision of Col. Thomson, now British air minister, I got 700 tribesmen together one night and chased the prince from the castle of Durazzo to an Italian ship. Four months ago Prince William was ready to go to Albania to claim the throne again. We told Premier Mussolini we would kill Prince William if he landed in Albania and Sig. Mussolini would not let him leave Italy."

M. Gugiaman commanded the party which ousted the Italians in 1921.

"World's Greatest Thieves."

"We did not have any munitions and decided we must steal them from the Italian dumps," M. Gugiaman related. "We have a tribe in Albania called Lapps who are greatest thieves in the world. We sent for a whole tribe of men, women, and children and told them they must steal the Italian munitions. They had to choke some Italian sentries and make a bridge over barbed wire gulches with thick woolen cloths, but they carried off half an entire Italian munition dump one night. We commenced our successful attack the next day."

M. Gugiaman was the chief of secret police in Albania when Gen. Tellini, an Italian officer with an allied mission, was killed. He asserts that a Greek officer and five Greek soldiers killed Gen. Tellini and his party.

M. Gugiaman has just arrived in Bucharest, where there is a big Albanian colony, on an important diplomatic mission. The relations between Albania, Bulgaria, and Roumania have become very close through a mutual fear of Jugo-Slavia. He will return to Albania shortly to devote himself to electing Mr. Sinclair king.

Continue Inquest Into Baby's Death by Poison

The inquest into the death of Shirley Helfand, 4 months old, who died from lysol poured down her throat by her mother, Mrs. William Helfand, Wednesday, at 2504 Hurd street, Evanston, was continued yesterday to June 20. Mrs. Helfand, the wife of an attorney, also swallowed a quantity of the poison, but efforts to save her life were successful. Her husband said that Mrs. Helfand had recently been under treatment in a sanitarium for nervous trouble.

FIGHTING WIDOW BATTLES MEXICO REDS FROM ROOF

Mrs. Evans Undaunted by Bolsheviks.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Monterey, Mex., June 13.—Word just has been received here from Mrs. Rosalie Evans, the widow who is struggling to retain possession of her hacienda near San Pedro Coxtany Anexos in the state of Puebla, about sixty miles southeast of Mexico City.

"On Saturday the agrarians (the Mexican communists) came armed and whooping onto the rosario (one of the wheat fields)," Mrs. Evans writes. "The American (who has joined Mrs. Evans' protective guard), fearing they meant to attack me, fired, and in a minute the agrarians covered us with their guns. We covered them, but they stayed back of the trees, and we got back to the house and on to the roof. Then there was a jangling of bells in Tianguis Mimalco and San Francisco (neighboring villages), wild yells, and many shots.

Under Rifle Fire.

"The American says he counted a hundred men. I did not count them, but the bullets whizzed overhead, one breaking that huge branch that hangs over the roof, making it fall onto the bougainvilla. We were six. I have a nice little Winchester, the American and the Mozos with Springfields, and lots of ammunition. It was thrilling, and in a lull we got word out to Mexico City through a friendly Indian.

"Of course, immediate army protection was promised and much more, but this is Thursday, and none yet. What do you think of that? All Saturday night we took turns on the roof. Only at a distance did they fire. We have to save our ammunition, so can only keep them off the place, which we are doing.

A Thousand Men.

"On Sunday morning faithful Indians said Montes (the local communist leader) had summoned all the agrarians from the hills, and more than a thousand men were about. We could see the hill from the roof bristling with them. They put all their oxen on the rosario and plowed, planted, and howled. Likewise they took the water tunnel and there they are.

"On Monday they retired from the avenues, but they do not let us off the place. For food and things only the girls can get through. Strange country! By Santa Maria we are harvesting wheat, and I rode over to the field to direct it. I could not stand the house another minute, and no one stopped me; but they are in possession of the rosario and the water tunnel and I cannot bear it, and am only waiting from day to day to get the crop in. I can't believe the fates mean me to lose, yet today things look so black. The ninth hour is at hand."

Briton Fights Expulsion.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

Mexico City, June 13.—It is stated in well informed circles that the action of the Mexican government in seeking to expel H. A. Cunard Cummins, British chargé d'affaires, as an undesirable foreigner is due to intervention by the British diplomat in the case of Mrs. Rosalie Evans. Mr. Cummins, on advices from Prime Minister MacDonald, has locked himself in the British legation here to avoid having the order of expulsion served on him. The only way the Mexican officials can reach him is to violate the extraterritorial rights of the legation.

Seek Niagara Falls Woman Here; Son Ill

Mrs. Elizabeth Scalzo, 346 Portage road, Niagara Falls, N. Y., was being sought in Chicago yesterday as a possible amnesia victim. Her eldest daughter is soon to be married, her 8 year old son is ill, and her husband, Casper Scalzo, former county supervisor, has offered a reward of $200 for information as to her whereabouts. She is 45, weighs 135 pounds, is 5 feet 4 inches tall, and has a mark on the bridge of her nose and a dark green spot on her forehead.

JOBLESS GROW IN STATE AS INDUSTRY LAGS

Report Reveals Increase in Unemployment.

A serious unemployment problem faces Illinois. This was revealed yesterday in a report released by the general advisory board, Illinois department of labor, and compiled by R. D. Cahn, chief statistician.

"With manufacturing employment declining more sharply in May than at any time since 1921, with many mines closed and others closing, and with outdoor occupations held back somewhat by the continued cool weather, the report says, "the number of unemployed people of the state has become larger than at any time since early fall, 1922."

A reduction of 2.5 per cent in the number of industrial workers in May has been reported by manufacturers who employ more than 40 per cent of the workers in the state.

Workers Flock Here.

Unemployment, however, would still be prevalent in spite of this industrial reaction, the report said, pointing out that the board's recent bulletins had shown migration into Illinois to have been substantial during the last six months of 1923.

The state's free employment offices, according to the board's report, placed 17,159 workers in May, 1922; 22,593 in May, 1923, and only 11,961 last month.

Chicago's unemployment index for May, 1924, was 163.2, its worst since March, 1922, the report said. Some downstate cities have been hit more severely than has Chicago. They include Danville, "where there were nearly four jobseekers for each available opportunity to work." At Decatur and East St. Louis there were more than two persons for each vacancy, the board reported.

In Each Group.

The report revealed that in the metals, machinery, and conveyance group, "there was curtailment in ten of twelve industries," and that those, contrary to general trend, were the car shops. The depression in the mining industry was general, the report revealed. Employment declines were also noted in shoe factories, chemical industries, wearing apparel, factories, stock yards and in the wholesale and retail trade. The agricultural implement industry has experienced a drop last month "much larger than the usual seasonal one," the report said. Seven and six-tenths per cent of farm implement workers were laid off.

Building work, on the other hand, was shown to be expanding seasonally and the same is true for confectioners, ice cream and ice manufacturers, and tobacco factories.

The report further showed that the largest and smallest employers suffered least, that employment loss was greater for males than for females, and that the average weekly earnings dropped from $27.82 to $27.66.

Car Thieves Crash Into Safe; Police Nab 'Em

A volley of shots from a police rifle failed to stop Stanley Ulrich of 2911 West 21st street, who with a companion were riding in a stolen automobile yesterday, but a five ton safe, parked in the street at Woodrow Wilson road and 23d street was their "stop signal." Workmen were about to remove the safe when the car crashed into it. Ulrich was captured, his companion escaped.

CHICAGO TO GET COPY OF NOTED PASTEUR BUST

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, June 13.—Max Henius, president of the Wahl-Henius Institute in Chicago and a director of the Chicago public library, has arranged for the transfer to America of a marble copy of the Dubois bust of Pasteur next September. The bust is to be placed in the hall of the chemical institute founded by Mr. Henius.

The story of the bust, as told THE TRIBUNE by Mr. Henius, is a story of the gratitude of two young Danes, Helgend and Wagn Jacobsen, sons of the Danish philanthropist, Carl Jacobsen, who obtained their education in chemistry at the Wahl-Henius institute in Chicago.

Both the Jacobsens, returning to Denmark, became millionaires with their own brewing and chemical factories at Carlsberg. They now wish to present their Chicago school with the unique copy of Paul Dubois' bust of Pasteur, which took the Paris gold medal in 1876. It will be unveiled in the old Henius institute, now belonging to the American Bakers' association, in Chicago on Sept. 12.

SO. AMERICAN ROAD ENGINEERS IN CITY TODAY

Mayor Dever has completed arrangements for the Chicago reception today of thirty-eight distinguished engineers and educators from South America here to investigate Uncle Sam's highway system.

The Latin-American commission, representing twenty republics to the south, will be met at Lyons, Ill., by a fleet of city cars at 10 a. m.

The joint reception and entertainment committee appointed by the city and Association of Commerce will accompany the visitors and the Illinois highway department members guiding the party on a tour north from Lyons in the River road, east in Irving Park boulevard, and south to the Drake hotel for a 1 o'clock luncheon.

There the commission will be officially welcomed by the mayor and told of Cook county's highway system and its problems by Maj. George A. Quinlan, county superintendent of highways. Later the party will tour the south and west boulevards before leaving Chicago for Minneapolis at 6:30 p. m.

SLATE SLIDE KILLS MINER.

Springfield, Ill., June 13.—Owen Casey, 50, of Springfield was killed in a slate slide at the Brewerton coal mine near here today.

ALBANIAN REBELS VICTORIOUS; SEIZE NATION'S CAPITAL

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

VIENNA, June 13.—Feudalism's last stronghold in Europe has fallen before democracy. The capture of Tirana, with a complete victory for the Albanian revolutionists, has been confirmed. Former Minister Achmed Zogucs is concentrating his troops on the Matya river for a last stand.

Bishop Fannoli, leader of the revolutionists, today published a proclamation, according to telephonic advices from Scutari, in which he declares that the victorious revolution was directed only against the feudalism of Achmed Zogucs, and in the hope of establishing constitutional freedom.

Bishop Fannoli explained that the revolution only had internal significance, and that the foreign policy of Albania would not be changed with the overthrow of the old government. Rezed Schalja, who led the victorious rebels to victory in the north, has been named commander in chief of the revolutionary army.

MRS. ROBBINS GETS NEW TRIAL.

Mrs. Mary Campbell Robbins, divorced wife of Cutler H. Robbins, was granted a new trial yesterday in Judge Schulman's court after she had been found guilty on a charge of misconduct with Norville Douglas in her flat at 851 Gault avenue on April 30.

"Good to the Last Drop"

THERE'S far more than warmth to recommend the hot cup of Maxwell House Coffee.

Warmth can be added in a few moments—but for many long years we have been learning the secret of creating that taste that is "Good to the Last Drop."

That's why every cup of Maxwell House is a perfect example of how delicious coffee can become.

LARGER INCREASE IN U. S. FOREIGN TRADE REPORTED

BY O. A. MATHER.

Despite some dullness in trade at home, Uncle Sam's business with the rest of the world continues to show generous proportions. In fact, our foreign commerce last month was decidedly favorable, inasmuch as we sold more than we bought, whereas a year ago we bought more than we sold.

May exports totaled $326,000,000, an increase of nearly $20,000,000 over last year. But imports totaled $305,000,000, a decline of more than $67,000,000. This decrease probably resulted from the fact that slackening domestic trade has curtailed the demand for foreign raw and unfinished materials.

Favorable Balance of $21,000,000.

Anyway, last month's trade resulted in a favorable balance of $21,000,000, whereas in May last year there was an unfavorable balance of $56,000,000. As the result of last month's commerce, we received about $40,000,000 of foreign gold, although this was about $5,000,000 less than gold imports in May last year. On the other hand, we sent out about $4,000,000 of silver.

Merchandise exports for the eleven months ended with May totaled $4,005,769,828, an increase of $369,000,000 over the preceding corresponding period, while imports totaled $3,282,206,631, a decline of $178,500,000. So our favorable trade balance for the last eleven months has aggregated $723,563,000.

Rediscount Rate Reduced.

The Chicago Federal Reserve bank yesterday reduced its rediscount rates from 4½ to 4 per cent on all classes of loans, effective today. The Richmond bank took similar action. This action followed that of the New York and Boston banks in cutting rates to 3½ per cent and several others reducing to 4 per cent.

The action by the Chicago bank is further recognition of prevailing low rates in the open money market. It is likely individual Chicago banks now will lower their interest rates to or slightly below 5 per cent on general loans. Incidentally, five issues of government bonds reached new high prices yesterday, and subscriptions to the new $150,000,000 issue of 2¾ per cent treasury certificates totaled $600,000,000.

Another Rail Merger

Another big railroad consolidation reached its final step yesterday. The New Orleans, Texas & Mexico was authorized by the interstate commerce commission to acquire control of the International Great Northern by purchase of capital stock. The commission held that the merger should effect large economies in operation, give improved service and have a tendency to reduce some rates.

M., B. & S. Railway Co. Abandons Operation

Muscatine, Ia., June 13.—The Muscatine, Burlington and Southern railway abandoned operation today after twenty-five years of continued financial losses, during which five different receiverships have been established and the indebtedness has mounted to more than $1,000,000. Discontinuance of operations was ordered by Judge D. V. Jackson in District court on application of Arthur Huffman, receiver.

N. Y., C. & St. L. R. R.

R. D. Y.—The New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad company includes the Toledo, St. Louis and Western and the Lake Erie and Western, with which it consolidated in April, 1923. The consolidated system (known as the Nickel Plate system) comprises 1,695 miles of road, of which 1,673 miles are owned. The company is issuing $26,055,000 refunding mortgage 5½ per cent bonds, series A. These bonds are secured by a direct mortgage lien on all fixed railroad property and equipment, including the 1,673 miles of road owned, subject to $68,914,000 underlying bonds and to outstanding equipment obligations. The underlying bonds are outstanding at the rate of less than $41,200 a mile, and the total mortgage indebtedness, including this issue, is about $56,800 a mile. The bonds also will be secured by a first mortgage on about 637 acres of land to be used for terminal development, situated mostly in Chicago and Cleveland, and costing over $5,000,000. Gross income available for fixed charges for the last eight calendar years averaged over twice the average annual fixed charges for that period. For 1923 gross income was over two and one-half times charges for that year and about 1.85 times present annual charges after giving effect to this financing. These bonds are a sound investment.

National Tea.

B. T. Van H.—National Tea company common stock has no par value. The company has been paying $2 per share quarterly, but has recently declared a quarterly divided of $5 a share, payable July 1, 1924, thus placing the stock on a $20 annual basis. A 150 per cent stock dividend was declared in May, 1924. Sales for the first quarter of 1924 were $9,927,850, compared with $6,467,920 in that quarter last year. This stock is high grade.

SUGAR MARKETS.

NEW YORK, June 13.—SUGAR—Raw, firmer undertone prevailed today, although no changes occurred in quotations from 5.02c for Cuban, duty paid. Sales were about 30,000 bags Cuban for June shipment. Reports that the strike of stevedores in Cuba was interfering with shipments of sugar led to considerable covering and trade buying in raw futures. Final prices were at the best and from 10@12 points above the previous day. Refined sugar unchanged at 6.30@6.65c for fine granulated. A fair inquiry was reported. Refined futures were nominal. Raw prices follow:

The New York Times.

New York, June 13.—It was again the bond market rather than the stock market in which the money market situation was reflected today. Transactions in bonds fell somewhat short of Thursday's large total, which was the high mark of the year, but today's sales were still more than double the daily average of previous weeks in 1924.

United States bonds again led the movement. But the rest of the investment list was perhaps even stronger than on the preceding day. At all events, the enhancement of prices was more widely distributed. The advance was again particularly noteworthy in the foreign loans.

Stock Sales Smaller.

Transactions in stocks were smaller than in the two preceding days, and realizing sales brought about an irregular reaction from the day's highest prices. In general, however, the market showed continued strength. The "averages" reached a level barely 1 point under the highest of the year, reached early in February.

Both the railroad and industrial shares continued their upward course. Today was the sixth consecutive day on which the averages gained ground, and it has been many months since the market has experienced such a sustained advance. Trading was again on an active scale, exceeding the 900,000 share mark for the third consecutive day.

France Renew Advance.

Renewed advance in francs on the foreign exchange market suggested that the French financial public had feared the "impasse" of a constitutional struggle in which neither side would yield more than a makeshift settlement. At any rate, it is now possible for the government to adopt a policy.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Bullish demonstrations in several high priced industrial specialties and further accumulation of the railroad shares, fifteen of which established new high prices for the year, were the outstanding developments in yesterday's stock market. Oils, steels and coppers yielded to selling pressure, but the net losses in most of the active issues were held to fractions. The activity in railroad shares could be attributed readily to cumulative effects of certain developments. In the first place the fundamental condition necessary for the rise was cheap money. This in turn has been followed by a sudden interest in railroad consolidations by the interstate commerce commission.

General Electric was the outstanding individual feature, being run up more than seven points to 230% despite official denials of rumors that the company would split up its stock and increase the dividend payments. Rising a total of 16 points to 355 on two transactions and Woolworth climbed 6¼ points to 94, a new top, on reports of large current earnings.

Friday, the 13th, also failed to dampen bullish enthusiasm in other sections of the industrial list. Consolidated Gas moving up more than two points to a new peak price of 63½ and gains of 1¼ points or more being recorded by United States Cast Iron Pipe, Colorado Fuel, Allis-Chalmers, Fisher Body, Iron Products, New York Air Brake, Reynolds Tobacco issues and Savage Arms. U. S. steel common closed unchanged at 99⅝ and the other socalled pivotal stocks showed only nominal changes. International Paper turned reactionary on a reduction in newsprint prices by Canadian mills.

Selling of the oil shares followed circulation of unconfirmed rumors that another cut in mid continent crude was likely. Atlantic Refining dropped four points to 98, a new minimum price for the year, and then rallied to 100%. Standard Oil of California and California Petroleum dropped about a point each, the latter to a new low, and several others in that group showed minor recessions.

Establishment of new peak prices by the Rock Island issues, the common selling more than two points higher at 31¾, was one of the outstanding incidents in the trading in the railroad shares. Net gains of approximately two points or more also were recorded in Lackawanna, Great Northern preferred, Norfolk & Western, Northern Pacific, Lehigh Valley Rights and Chicago & Eastern Illinois preferred.

The Burroughs Adding Machine company has called two special meetings of stockholders to be held June 26 and June 28 to act on a proposal to change the capitalization from $30,000,000 common stock, made up of 300,000 shares of $100 par value each, to 150,000 preferred shares of $100 each and 600,000 shares of no-par common stock. The rate of exchange will be one-half share of new 7 per cent preferred stock and two shares of new no-par value stock for one share of the present common stock.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEWS

"Marshall Field & Co. say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods was greater than a week ago although it did not reach the volume of last year for the same period. Road sales were in excess of both last week's figure and that of a year ago during the corresponding week. There were fewer customers in market than in 1923 during the same week. Collections were somewhat better than for the corresponding period last year."

BOSTON WOOL MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., June 13.—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"The wool market in this country is well sight featureless, although some observers seem to think that with the development in political circles of the present week there is a better feeling of confidence. In the west, buying proceeds more or less steadily at lower prices, 35c to 38c being the price generally for the best clips, with 40c an outside quotation. The foreign markets are dull and sending downward. Mohair is rather slow but fairly steady. Quotations:

Smaller receipts and a generally good demand helped yesterday's hog trade. Prices advanced fully 10c, best heavy butchers selling up to $7.35, the highest since Tuesday. Average price, $7.00, stood 10c higher, against $7.15 a week ago and $6.35 a year ago. Shipping orders increased materially, and speculators purchased freely, resulting in a strong finish, with part of the 13,000 carried over held off the market. Quality graded seasonably good.

Little change featured trade in cattle compared with Thursday when quotations were lowest of the week on practically all grades. Only 4,000 arrived and quality graded poorest of the week, nothing selling above $10.50. Some 839 lb. yearlings made that price and 1,331 lb handy weights sold at $10.45. Few steers sold above $9.75. Beef steers are mostly 35@50c lower than high time this week, with butcher stock off about that much. Feeding steers, however, are unevenly higher than Monday.

Idaho Lambs at $17.10.

Sheep and lambs met with a good call at steady to strong prices, best Idaho lambs selling at $17.10 and top natives at $16.50. Some 66 and 67 lb feeding lambs made $12.75@13.25. Fed western wethers averaging 128 lbs sold at $9 and 90 lb range yearlings at $10.40. Feeding ewes sold at $6, averaging 125 lbs.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for Monday are estimated from 46,000 to 63,000. F. W. Waddell marked 63,000, G. M. Nicoll 63,000, J. M. Waters 61,000, E. R. Gentry 59,000, J. Holmes 55,000, F. R. Burrows 52,000, C. Gross 50,000, W. S. Nicholson 48,000 and R. Greenaley 46,000.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 1,000 cattle, 4,000 hogs and 4,000 sheep, against 437 cattle, 5,186 hogs and 1,759 sheep, the corresponding Saturday a year ago.

PRODUCE MARKETS

A better demand prevailed for butter and prices here and at New York were unchanged to ½c higher while Boston was up ½c. Philadelphia was unchanged. With the exception of Boston demand for cheese was a little slow but prices generally firm. Boston was slightly higher.

Fresh eggs advanced ½c with country advices indicating a strong market. Receipts were 21,074 cases, mainly of 111 cars of refrigerator standards for December delivery were made at 32⅝@33¼c.

Live poultry sold at unchanged prices. Receipts, 3 cars and 1,220 coops.

New potatoes were off 15@25c per bbl, while sacked stock sold at unchanged prices. Receipts 38 cars. Old were unchanged with receipts 12 cars.

Strawberries were in good demand and 50@75c higher. Michigans in 16 qt. cases sold at $3.50, with poor lower. A car of Georgia watermelons sold at $000. Warmer weather favors the fresh fruit trade.

Salesmen, Solicitors, Etc.

A Better and Bigger Opportunity for Salesmen.

We have just acquired an additional $1,250,000 of properties located on and adjoining the Main-st. station in Niles Center.

This is the choicest selling proposition on the "L" extension and almost sells itself.

Our organization works in perfect harmony at all times.

Every member is ready at all times to help you in making sales.

Experienced subdivision salesmen can make a very profitable and valuable connection with us at this time.

We will teach a few men of ability, not experienced in real estate salesmanship, the unique method of subdivision selling, by which you can make more money than any similar sales force.

APPLY 9 A. M. TO 9 P. M.
IRA D. MALBROUGH,
Director of Sales,
NORTHWESTERN EXTENSION REALTY CO.,
29 S. La Salle-st.,

A Personal Message to All Ambitious Men Who Are Now Employed.

Do you really want to make more money? I offer you an opportunity to connect with one of the largest real estate firms in Chicago and learn this business in our spare time under my direct supervision. If you are clean cut and ambitious and want to step out ahead of the crowd, see MR. FORNEY, 330 S. Dearborn-st., Room 1144. Call between 10 a. m. and 3 p. m.

ADVERTISING SALESMEN—TO SELL NEW unique stein road map; live specialty men with cars can make $150 per week; exclusive territory; immediate returns. Highway Service, Inc., 565 Washington-blvd.

ATTRACTIVE AND DIGNIFIED SALES WORK.

You will make more money selling subdivision real estate than in any other sales work.

We are leading in subdivision sales work in Chicago.

Our properties are located in the Niles Center district and along the North Shore.

We pay liberally. We have men in our organization who, through this work alone, have become financially independent.

This is pleasant work. It is substantial. It is very profitable.

We make special and very attractive arrangements to those who have automobiles.

Come in and learn how other men are making money for themselves.

OFFICE SPACE
Is Now Being Rented In Tribune Tower

Only eleven floors (13 to 23 inclusive) are being offered to the public. The Tribune retains the remainder of the building for its own uses.

This office space is unique in the true sense of the word. Never before did leading architects of all nations compete to produce the utmost in beauty of design. Never before has a Chicago building had such wonderful international advertising.

If your address is Tribune Tower, Chicago, men of intelligence and culture throughout the entire world will need only to hear it or read it to call up a vision of beauty and dignity and strength. Your rent check will buy prestige as well as shelter.

For booklet containing full information, floor plans, etc., phone CENtral 0100, or address

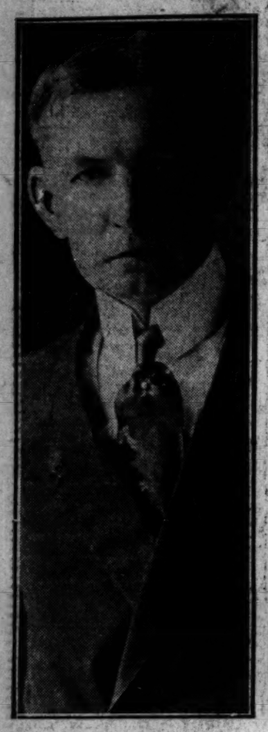
Hunt Lake County Wastes for Body of Slain Mail Robber as Clew to Band Which Fled with $1,000,000



[Chambers Photo.]

FRANCE'S PRESIDENT. Gaston Doumergue is elected by national assembly.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

SCENE OF HUGE MAIL ROBBERY. This is the spot near Rondout, thirty-four miles north of Chicago, where a band of armed men Thursday night stopped a Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul mail train and rifled the cars of cash and securities estimated at more than $1,000,000. The loot may even be double that amount, federal officials fear. (Story on page one.)

FAMILY OF G. O. P. NOMINEE. Mrs. Charles G. Dawes and the children which she and Gen. Dawes adopted after the death of their son. This picture was taken several years ago. The children are Dana, 12, and Virginia, 10.

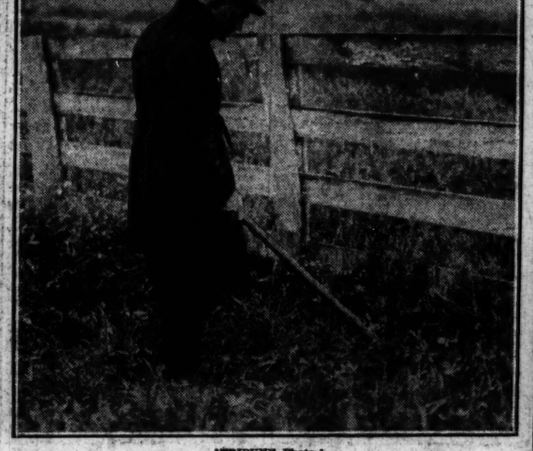
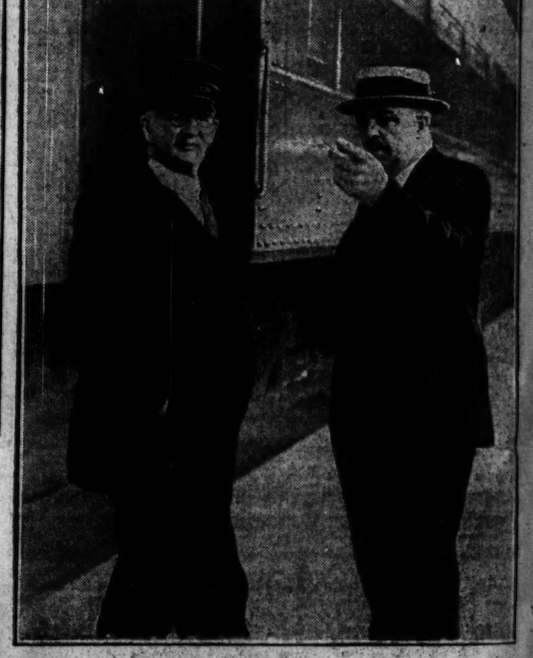
HELD UP. "Sandy" McRae, brakeman, tells how bandits covered him with guns in mail robbery.



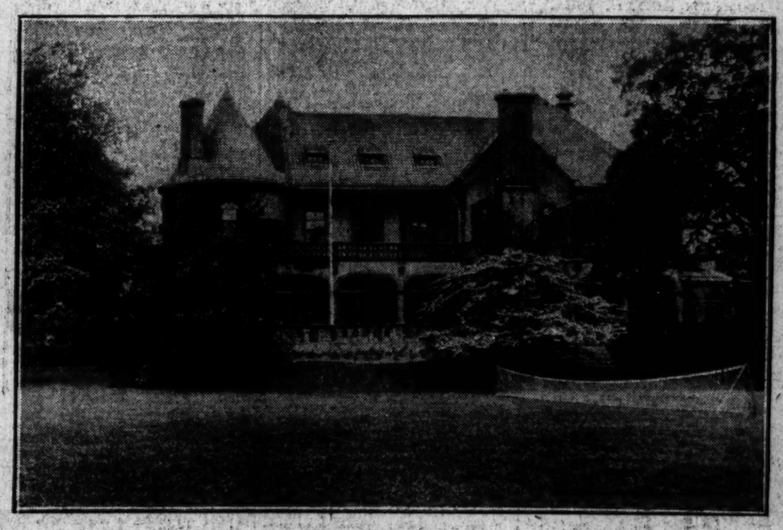
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

DID WOUNDED BANDIT LIE HERE? During the holdup one of the robbers was mistaken for an outsider by another robber and shot. Blood stains were found on the grass. Hunt is on for robber's body.



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

VICTIM OF MAIL BANDITS. Conductor Jim Sweeney, who was on C. M. & St. P. train robbed of $1,000,000, is questioned by detective. Sweeney says he couldn't identify robbers.



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

WHERE VICE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE LIVES. If Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes is elected to the vice presidency he and Mrs. Dawes will leave this home at Sheridan road and Greenwood avenue, Evanston, for Washington residence.

FIND WESTERN REFUGE. Burton S. Tucker, 17 years old, and his middle aged wife are seen with their 2 months' old daughter. They are living on Mt. Lowe, Cal.

INVESTIGATES BLAST. Admiral H. A. Wiley heads court of inquiry into U. S. S. Mississippi disaster.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

AFTER THE EXAMINATION. Front to rear: Dick Loeb, Dr. H. S. Hulbert, Attorney Bachrach, and Dr. Carl Bowman, leaving emergency room in county jail.
